GOVERNOR ACTS AT LAST

Proclamation Virtually Places State Under Martial Law — Citizens Form Volunteer Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—At the urgent request of Gov. Elias M. Ammons of Colorado, President Wilson to-day ordered Federal troops sent to the scene of strike disorder, and issued a proclamation directing all persons "engaged in or connected with said domestic violence" to retire peaceably to their homes on or before April 30. Secretary of War Garrison at once directed the Second Squadron, Fifth Cavalry, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., under command of Major Nathaniel F. McClure, instructor in the Staff College there, to go to Trinidad, Col., and troops E and H, Twelfth Cavalry, at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., under Major Lucius R. Holbrook, to proceed to Cañon City, Col. These troops, which will go without their horses, will arrive probably some time to-morrow.

The President made it plain in his proclamation and in a long telegram to Gov. Ammons that the Federal Government was taking no sides in the dispute.

President's Message to Governor.

> In response to your telegram describing a situation of domestic violence in your State which you informed me has passed beyond the ability of the State to control and conveying your request to me to dispatch Federal troops pursuant to Section 4, Article 4, of the Constitution of the United States, I beg leave to advise you as follows:
>
> That section of the Constitution provides that the United States shall protect each State upon application of the Legislature or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence, and is put into effect by certain statutes, principally Sections 5, 2, 9, 7, and 5, 300, Revised Statutes.
>
> The former makes it lawful for the President in the circumstances described in the section of the Constitution referred to to use the land forces or the naval forces of the United States as he deems necessary, and the latter provides that whenever, in his judgment, it becomes necessary so to use these forces, he "shall forthwith by proclamation command the insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes in a specified time."
>
> Upon the information before me, my judgment is that it is necessary for me to use the military forces of the United States for the purposes defined by law, and I shall forthwith issue the proclamation provided by the statute, and in pursuance thereof shall order the troops, when they reach the scene of disturbance, to cause all those who have been indulging in domestic violence, or who threaten so to do, or whose acts are likely to give rise to disorder, to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes, if they have not already done so, within the time limited by my proclamation, and I shall order that no person or persons, natural or artificial, shall be permitted to do that which may give rise to disorder of the character heretofore occasioned, to the end that good order may be established and maintained.
>
> I shall not, by the use of the troops, or by any attempt at jurisdiction, inject the power of the Federal Government into the controversy which has produced the present situation. The settlement of that controversy falls strictly within the field of State power. My duty, as I now see it, is to confine myself to maintaining a status of good order until the State can reassert its authority and resume the enforcement thereof.
>
> I am informed that your Legislature cannot be convened in time to deal with this emergency, but has been summoned to convene on May 4, 1914. I shall expect you to draw the attention of that body to the imperative necessity of immediate consideration of the whole situation and as prompt action as is possible in the premises, in order that the use of the Federal power may be limited within its contemplated confines, and in order that the State may take up its duty as soon as it is possible for it to do so.
>
> The manifest disadvantages of having two military forces under separate sources of control, operating within the same localities, leads me to request you to withdraw your militia as

AMAZED BY GYRO-CAR.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—The first public appearance of M. Schidowsky's two-wheeled gyroscopic motor car in the streets of London to-day caused immense excitement. The car carried the inventor, a mechanic, and Louis Brennan, the inventor of the gyroscopic mono-rail train.

The gyro-car made several short trips, the speed never exceeding four miles an hour. No noise was audible except from the running of the engine and the regular striking of a small bell which kept count of the revolutions of the gyroscope.

When the car was at rest it rocked very slightly, so little as to be barely perceptible. The motion of the car is indistinguishable from that of an ordinary automobile. There is no rocking or unsteadiness.

Owing to the great weight, three tons, which the car carried to-day, it was impossible to drive the machine except on the lowest gear.

The cost of constructing the car was about $12,500.

BAN ON MARRIAGE AGENTS.

German Officers Having Dealings with Them Will Be Dismissed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 28.—German officers in search of rich brides who communicate with matrimonial agents will in future be subject to instant dismissal from the army with loss of pensions.

This secret order, it is stated, has been sent to all officers of the army and navy, certain specially notorious matrimonial agents being mentioned by name.

The order was doubtless occasioned by the recent disclosures in the courts, in which women agents and many highly placed officers were concerned. During the trial of "Countess Treuberg" it was shown that she and others had arranged marriages with special regard to officers seeking rich wives.

SECRET WEDDING REVEALED

Winslow Hall Claims Miss Dorothy Saville as His Bride.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., April 28.—The announcement to-day that Miss Dorothy Saville, daughter of Mrs. F. A. Saville, a wealthy resident of this town, is the wife of Winslow Hall, a traveling man of New York City, caused a sensation here. Mr. Hall appeared at the Miller House, where Mrs. Saville and her daughter were staying, and claimed his bride much to the consternation of that young woman's mother, who immediately left for Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall went to New York to-night. The marriage was performed in New York six months ago, and not even intimate friends of the bride were let into the secret. Mrs. Saville is the widow of Fred Saville, formerly a prominent New York cotton broker, and owns a handsome Summer villa here. She comes of a well-known Southern family. Miss Saville has been a popular member of the Great Barrington younger set.

CONVENTION VOTE CLOSE.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 28.—Tabulation of the vote cast at the special election on the question of holding a Constitutional Convention next Spring shows that the majority in favor of holding a convention was less than 1,000 votes instead of the big majority of 30,000 reported after the election.

In the office of Secretary of State Mitchell May to-day the figures were compiled in a tabulation preliminary to the official action of the Board of Canvassers, which meets on Thursday afternoon. The vote was so close that the accountants were startled for a minute.

Only the big vote polled in Greater New York City by Tammany Hall in favor of the convention carried the plan, as nearly every one of the up-State counties voted against it, the majorities running from 200 to 5,000 votes.

ABSOLVED BY GRAND JURY.

ALBANY, April 28.—The Albany County Grand Jury to-day reported it had found no indictments against C. Gordon Reel, State Engineer John A. Bensel, Supt. Duncan W. Peck of the State Department of Public Works, comprising the old Highway Commission, and Charles F. Foley, its former first deputy.

Grand Jury action was requested by Gov. Glynn's special graft investigator, James W. Osborne, who charged that Messrs. Bensel, Peck, and Reel had wilfully neglected their duty when on Oct. 2, 1912, they approved without examination 318 highway repair contracts involving approximately $3,000,000 which had been awarded previously by Mr. Foley. Mr. Osborne also alleged that Foley was guilty of wilful neglect of duty in awarding the contracts without the authority of the commission.

LADY STRAFFORD ROBBED.

Maid Hands Case of $2,500 Jewels to Thief in Porter's Garb.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Cora, Countess of Strafford, formerly Mrs. Colgate of New York, was robbed of jewels valued at $2,500 on her arrival in London from the Continent to-day.

A maid handed the case containing the jewels to a man who she believed to be a railway porter. He proved to be a thief in disguise.

Smoke and Poisonous Gases Hamper Rescuers—Passages Filled with Wreckage.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, West Va., April 28.—Successive explosions occurred to-day in mine shafts, Nos. 5 and 6, of the New River Collieries Company, belonging to the Guggenheims, located at Eccles, Raleigh County, eighty-five miles northeast of here.

There were 191 men in mine No. 5, with the exception of one taken out dead, that are entombed, and there is no hope for their rescue, as fire has developed. In No. 6 there were seventy-six, fifty-nine of whom were rescued, while four bodies have been recovered, so that there are thirteen men entombed in that mine.

A rescue car from the National Mine Bureau at Pittsburgh is being rushed to the scene, and is expected to reach there before noon to-morrow.

The known dead taken from Mine No. 6 are Carl Warden, A. W. Gaughman, and F. J. Lingerton, all white natives, with the body of an unidentified white.

Nick Jones, a Hungarian, was found dead near the bottom of the shaft in No. 5, the only body rescued from there.

Both mines are filled with poisonous gas, and the rescue parties are having difficulty in reaching any of the rooms. The passageways are all choked except No. 6, and a survey of the mine has not resulted in the findingof any miners.

Interior Wrecked.

Three successive explosions in No. 5 wrecked the interior in such a way that if gas has not killed the men many of them have been crushed by falling timbers, earth, and coal. Timbers were thrown from the shaft mouth a distance of more than 200 yards, wrecking the buildings at the exit.

Mine No. 5 is burning fiercely, with Government, State, and volunteer rescuers working desperately to-night to subdue the flames, but had to abandon their task through being unable to force their way into the burning shaft.

The depth of the two main shafts is 600 feet, and the mines are connected underground. There are two other shafts into the mines, but the explosion totally wrecked three out of the four. The lone entrance leads into Mine No. 6, and by means of it the rescues were made. No. 5 mine apparently is completely shut off from the surface.

The first explosion occurred in No. 5. The two shafts of this mine were demolished. It is believed the explosion traveled through this mine into No. 6. One shaft of the latter mine was wrecked, but the other remains intact and was the salvation of the workmen who escaped.

It is believed that the explosions were caused by a pocket of gas being ignited by a miner's lamp, enveloping both mines in flames. Débris was hurled forty feet in the air by the impact. No. 5 was wrecked by explosions which occurred fifteen minutes apart. Only one explosion occurred in No. 6.

Gas Checks Rescuers.

A rescue party was rushed to the scene of the disaster from Beckley, which is only two miles away, but after removing two men from the débris of No. 6 their activities were checked by the deadening fumes of coal gas. Later the party were more successful in bringing forty more men to the surface. Two were P. M. Ellison and N. Jones, both coal miners. They are seriously injured.

Telephone connections between Charleston and Eccles have been bad since the first message reached the mine department here. Gov. Hatfield and the State mine chief, Earl Henry, are rendering all the assistance in their power.

Eccles, which is a litle mining community of 1,500 inhabitants, was shaken by the muffled rumbling of the explosions, which brought women from their cottages in a panic and strated the entire population not at work to the tipples of the ill-fated mines. At first there was no smoke, but men on the tipples knew that far aground the toll of death was being taken.

Supt. Thomas Donaldson of Mine No. 3, Local Supt. M. E. Kent and Gen. Supt. F. B. Bayles of the company were on the spot within a short time.

ROOSEVELT FINDS NEW TRIBE

They Inhabit a Previously Unexplored Part of Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, April 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in the course of his journey through hitherto unexplored regions of Brazil, discovered a tribe of savages until now unknown. The tribesmen, who were named Pauhates, were completely unclothed.

Capt. Amilcar Magalhaes, chief of the Brazilian mission accompanying Col. Roosevelt, who relates this discovery to the Gazeta de Noticias to-day, says the party had some stirring adventures.

Col. Roosevelt himself killed two tiger-cats, each considerably over three feet in length, on the banks of the River Taquary.

The members of the expedition explored and traced the course of the River Gypirana, a tributary of the Madeira. At its junction with the Madeira it has a width of 1,382 feet and a depth of 118 feet. Along its course are several strong rapids.

Capt. Magalhaes says that in the accident on the Gypirana on March 13, when one of the boats of the expedition capsized, only the baggage was lost. The sketches made by the party floated on the surface of the water and were saved. The boat's crew, consisting of seven men, rescued themselves by clinging to the overhanging branches of trees.

The total bag collected by the expedition amounts to about 2,000 specimens.

"We separated from Col. Roosevelt," said Capt. Magalhaes, "on Feb. 2, in accordance with the itinerary adopted. Col. Roosevelt has rugged health. He did not once suffer from any ailment. Before we parted he declared he had never seen natural beauties to compare with those along the big rivers in Matto Grosso, with their virgin growth. There was abundant hunting, especially of ounces, a species of mountain panther.

"We discovered regions rich in iron, gold, diamonds, and other minerals.

"One cannot mark out the line of the party's journey, because we were proceeding through totally unknown country."

Capt. Magalhaes said he believed Col. Roosevelt was bent on tracing the source of the Duvida River, and must have penetrated far into the interior, exposing himself perhaps to needless danger. He said the expedition was sufficiently supplied with stores to last it to the end of this month. He added that he expected Col. Roosevelt to be heard from very shortly.

FREDERIKA GOES AGROUND.

Cutter Mohawk Trying to Pull Freighter Off Barnegat Sands.

In the dense fog off the Jersey coast yesterday morning the Austro-Hungarian freighter Frederika, incoming from Cienfuegos with sugar, went aground on the sand banks about a mile and a half north of Barnegat Inlet and opposite the Harvey Cedars Life Saving Station. The sea was calm and the ship was boarded almost immediately by the life savers, but Capt. Suttora informed them that there was no danger, and his crew preferred to remain on board and aid in getting the ship off.

When the news reached Capt. John F. Wild of the United States Revenue Cutter Service in New York he sent the Mohawk to lend assistance in hauling the steamer off the sand.

In the afternoon the crew of the Frederika hoisted the bags of sugar from the hold and dumped them overboard to lighten the ship. The Mohawk arrived on the scene about 8 o'clock last night and preparations were made to try to get the steamer off shortly after midnight at high tide.

According to Capt. Falkenburg, of the Harvey Cedars Life Saving Station, in a dispatch received late last night, there was a prospect of a stiff northeaster being on the way. The wind had risen, he said, and the sea was very choppy. He sent a message to the Captain of the Frederika asking if he needed and assistance, but Capt. Suttora sent back a reply that none was needed.

SHIP AGROUND ON SHOALS.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., April 28.—The British steamship Arrow is reported ashore to-night on Oregon Inlet shoals, North Carolina coast, with the life savers of two stations standing by for any emergency.

The coast wire to-night brought news of the wreck at 9 o'clock. The vessel went ashore at 7:45 o'clock in a dense fog that envelops the entire coast. As the inlet is some miles off of the beaten path of vessels, it is though that the navigator of the steamer must have lost his course. A heavy sea is running and the wreck is being severely pounded, but the life savers report that they will be able to get a boat through the surf in case she shows signs of going to pieces.

LINER ASHORE NEAR QUEBEC

The Montfort, with 175 Passengers, May Be Floated To-day.

QUEBEC, April 28.—Navigation on the St. Lawrence River was opened inauspiciously to-day when the steamship Montfort of the Canadian Pacific Line, carrying 175 passengers from Antwerp and London, ran aground at Beauport Flats, two and a half miles below Quebec Harbor. Efforts to float her from the mud bottom failed at high tide to-night, but are expected to succeed to-morrow. The vessel is in no danger.

The Montfort, coming up by the South Channel in a thick fog, had come to a stop and was about to anchor when she grounded.

TRAIN'S RACE WITH FIRE.

New Haven Engineer and Fireman Burned, but Reach Milford Safely.

MILFORD, Conn., April 28.—With the engine cab a mass of flames and the engineer and fireman sticking pluckily to their posts, an eastbound express on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to-night raced into Milford, where local firemen, previously notified, put out the fire. Both the engineer and the fireman were burned, but not seriously.

A back draught caused the blaze. At Naugatuck Junction word was telephoned ahead to have the local fire department at the depot.

The train was delayed for an hour, the passengers swarming out of the cars and watching the work of the firemen. The train later proceeded to New Haven, its destination.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
From a Staff Correspondent.

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—Gen. Frederick Funston's brigade of United States troops, comprising the Fourth, Seventh, Eighteenth, and Twenty-eighth Regiments of infantry, is to-night sleeping aboard the transports which brought it from Galveston and are now tied up at the docks.

Arriving early in the morning and reaching the docks by the middle of the forenoon, the soldiers chafed exceedingly at the long delay that followed while the military and naval chiefs conferred about the plans for effecting the transfer of authority.

Rumors got about that, after all, the troops would not be landed at all, because of the pending negotiations in Washington for a settlement of the Mexican trouble by mediation.

In the afternoon, however, the unloading of animals and the immense amount of army baggage began. The men, it is expected, will go ashore to-morrow. Gen. Funston will take formal command of the united land forces on Thursday, when the 3,750 bluejackets who are now ashore will go back to their ships.

According to the present plans, as outlined by Major Frederick D. Evans, Gen. Funston's Adjutant General, the brigade of marines, totaling 2,800 men, will continue to hold the outposts around the city, while the army takes control in Vera Cruz.

Transports' Impressive Entrance.

The four transports which arrived off this port late yesterday afternoon, after an uneventful voyage from Galveston, under escort of the battleship Louisiana, entered the inner harbor at dawn this morning. Their trip was longer than was expected, owing to the inability of the Meade to make speed because of the foul condition of the hull.

The big craft made an impressive spectacle as they slowly steamed in, their decks crowded with soldiers eager to get ashore.

The Kilpatrick, on which was Gen. Funston and his staff, led the procession of transports, and was followed in order by the Sumner, Meade, and McClellan. Mexican pilots brought the ships into the harbor and up to the docks.

Crowds of Mexicans gathered on the piers and on buildings near the water, but there was no demonstration, and to all appearance they were quite indifferent to this new demonstration of the American purpose to hold the port.

Capt. Huse, Rear Admiral Fletcher's Chief of Staff, went out to greet Gen. Funston after breakfast. The General then came ashore without arms to consult with Admiral Fletcher as to the present status of affairs in the city. Later, Gen. Funston went out to the battleship Arkansas to confer with Rear Admiral Badger as to the arrangements for landing the troops and the disposition of the military forces when all were ashore.

Robert J. Kerr, an American lawyer, who formerly resided in Mexico City, was sworn in at 5 o'clock this evening as civil governor of the Port of Vera Cruz.

Captive Refugees Released.

Advices that reached here to-day concerning refugees were generally favorable.

Consul Canada received to-day a verbal promise from Mexican authorities that the Americans who had been arrested and jailed at Cordoba, Jalapa, and Orizaba would be released.

Late this afternoon a train arrived at the end of the undestroyed tracks, twelve miles outside the city, with a hundred or more refugees, which included at least some of those who had been kept imprisoned in Cordoba.

In all, thirty-six Americans, men, women, and children, were confined in the small court of the jail at Cordoba. After a strong protest, the women were transferred to hotels. Senator Guillermo Obregon of Tampico went out to Cordoba to-day to arrange for the liberation of the prisoners.

James Crawford, an Englishman who arrived here yesterday from Aguascalientes, says that the American Smelting and Refining Company paid $250,000 for permission to get its officials and employes from Aguascalientes to Mexico City. Among those on the train were C. L. Baker, the local manager; Frank Peyton, with his wife and two children; A. B. Culver and wife, H. F. Lee and wife, and C. Reelman, with wife and four children.

John Little, who also arrived here from Mexico City, said he saw a dead man on the street near the St. Francis Hotel. The natives said the body was that of an American, but he could not confirm their statement.

With perhaps one exception all the refugee trains from Mexico City will be run hereafter to Puerto Mexico via Cordoba, instead of to Vera Cruz. This is due to the destruction wrought by the Mexican soldiers on the line between Cordoba and Vera Cruz, making the transfer of refugees very difficult. The line to Puerto Mexico is still in working order.

Natives Glad Americans Came.

As a result of the continued peaceful conditions in Vera Cruz and the growing cordiality of the natives toward Americans, the order requiring every resident to close up his house and remain indoors after 7:30 o'clock at night has been modified, and, beginning to-night, stores and other places of business will be allowed to remain open in the evening.

The people of Vera Cruz are beginning to appear glad that the American forces came to the city. Half-reluctant testimony to this effect was given to-day by Roderigo de Llano, a reporter for El Imparcial of Mexico City, who came here on a refugee train to write up the situation in this port and started back for Mexico City this afternoon. In conversation de Llano said:

"I am surprised to find the people of the city apparently contented and willing that you should stay here. Actually, they appear to like the American occupation. I don't like to say it, but it is true."

All day yesterday the United States naval authorities were negotiating with the Terminal Company, a British concern, for the rent of its piers and buildings for the use of the American forces. They also sought to hire the company's employes. The company's price was regarded as exorbitant, and finally Rear Admiral Fletcher seized the buildings he wanted.

Walter Marcom, the President of the company, who is also General Manager of the Mexican Railway, at once lodged a complaint with Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, commanding the British naval forces here. Sir Christopher told Morcom that he would have to make his protest to the Foreign Office in London.

Flag Up on Old Fort.

One hundred marines from the North Dakota under Capt. Chamberlain have been installed as the garrison of the old fort on the island of San Juan de Ulloa in the harbor. On this island Cortes first landed when he invaded Mexico, and it was the last place in Vera Cruz to haul down the Mexican flag, which it did last night.

Capt. Stickney of the Prairie, as Captain of the Port, had investigated the fort, which was used as a prison, and found the sanitary conditions there extremely bad. There was almost no ventilation in some of the cells. Rats overran the place, filth was everywhere, and in some cells the floors were covered with water.

The guards of the prison, a small detachment of soldiers, were on the point of mutiny because they had received no pay of late, while the several hundred prisoners were rebellious because they were getting no food. Many of the prisoners were guilty of no crime, the commandant said, but were held there by order of Huerta, several of them having incurred his enmity through politics. José Vasquez Olivarez, one of the prisoners, was a brother-in-law of Madero.

Capt. Stickney reported the result of his investigation to Rear Admiral Fletcher, who promptly ordered that the fort be seized. The American flag was raised over it at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mules Show Joy When Put Ashore.

By The Associated Press.

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—The first disembarkation from the transports to-day was that of some 300 mules and horses from the Kilpatrick. The animals came timidly down the gangway, but immediately they felt the solid earth beneath their hoofs kicked up their heels, and then almost in every case rolled in the dust with evident relief, repeating the operation from time to time.

Gen. Funston held all his men on board the transports to-day with the exception of small details, who came ashore to take charge of the horses and mules.

After an interchange of calls with Rear Admirals Badger and Fletcher, Gen. Funston and his staff studied the American positions as indicated by the maps. Afterward he and his regimental officers rode through and around the city, choosing stations for their men.

The Medical Department of the Military Government began to-day clearing up the wreckage in the Naval Academy, where sharp firing took place, especially on the day following the landing of the American forces.

The building was riddled by shells from the ships on the second day, while window casements were torn away by rifle and machine gun fire. Despite the damage much of the contents of the building can be used. This consists mostly of the cadets' bedding, clothing, and crockery, which will be placed at the disposal of the officials of the charity hospital, where the poor of the city are being cared for.

The American forces are tolerant of almost all Mexicans, who enter their lines, and it is not improbable that any Mexican officer might with safety openly enter and depart from the city.

Six Federal soldiers who wandered too close to the American lines were captured yesterday by marines. When the Americans found themselves in possession of a squad of Huerta's soldiers, they did their best to entertain them. They gossiped with the Mexicans regarding the news beyond the lines, and after a field luncheon shook hands with them and sent them away.

Rodrigo de Llano, a reporter of El Imparcial of Mexico City, came into Vera Cruz yesterday. He visited the American headquarters and surveyed the entire field of operations without molestation. He plans to return to the capital with his story on the first train he can get to take him out.

It is generally understood that there will be no effort to extend the territory now held here until further orders to that effect come from Washington. This attitude, it is supposed, is the natural result of the negotiations regarding mediation, little information of which is reaching here, and because of the desire to continue efforts to bring Americans in Mexico City and elsewhere to the coast.

An early incident of the visit of Roderigo De Llano, a newspaper man of Mexico City, who came here to view conditions, was his arrest on complaint of Dr. A. J. Hoskins, an American refugee, who arrived here yesterday from Mexico City. Dr. Hoskins asserted that when he was accused of being a spy, De Llano was the interpreter and injured his case by misrepresentations.

De Llano was not held, but was told to report later at headquarters. When he called there to-day and disclosed his identity he was released from technical custody. Later he was received by Capt. Huse, Chief of Staff for Rear Admiral Fletcher, who gave him much information and the privilege of going anywhere in the city that he desired. He received permission to take photographs also.

Consul Canada was notified to-day by the Brazilian Minister at Mexico City that the embargo on Americans at the capital had been raised and that they were free to depart as they pleased.

Rear Admiral Fletcher was advised by telegraph from Mexico City to-day that several trainloads of refugees were ready to leave the capital.

British Ambassador Says Dictator Was Brought to Accept Through His Efforts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Progress is being made toward bringing peace to Mexico. But opinion here as to the outcome continues to be pessimistic. The Brazilian Ambassador and the Argentine and Chilean Ministers are very active in their efforts to forward the peace proposals initiated by them, and are encouraged by the fact that nothing has occurred since their tender of good offices was made to present any insurmountable obstacle.

When the mediators closed their late night session they announced that there was no statement they could yet make in regard to their peace plans, but all three appeared in optimistic mood. One of the envoys said he felt as if he would like to sleep twenty-four hours after the strenuous days of deeply thoughtful effort they had been giving to their task.

The present status of the negotiations may be set forth in this way:

1. The South American negotiators have formulated a proposal, which may be subject to further consideration before being transmitted, that all Mexican factions be invited to a conference in Mexico City to adjust their differences and establish a central Government of the republic. This proposal contemplates including Zapata as one of the parties to the conference.
2. The conduct of the proposed mediation under The Hague rules has been suggested and is being considered.
3. A suggestion, said to have come from Gen. Huerta, is that French, British, and Spanish representatives join the representatives of Brazil, Argentina, and Chile who are conducting the present negotiations.
4. A suggestion has been put forward that the diplomatic representatives of all nations in Mexico City endeavor to adjust the existing trouble and establish a provisional Government pending an election. This suggestion finds no favor either among American or European nations.
5. Gen. Huerta has indicated that he will make stipulations for the conduct of mediatory efforts.
6. Gen. Carranza's attitude toward the peace proposal is expected to be made known at an early date.
7. The proposal of the negotiators contemplates an armistice between the Mexican factions pending the conclusion of the negotiations. This probably will include the United States and the Mexican Governments.

Want Mexican Factions to Confer.

The evident desire of the negotiators is that all the Mexican factions shall be brought together through representatives to meet in Mexico City with the idea that Mexicans are best able to adjust their own differences. These factions would be assisted and advised by the representatives of Brazil, Argentina, and Chile in the Mexican capital, who would act as mediators to a limited extent, at least. The full details of this plan have not been disclosed, but it is understood to contemplate the inclusion not only of representatives of the Constitutionalists, but of Zapata, the leader of the guerrillas who have given Huerta so much trouble in the vicinity of Mexico City.

Huerta has not been aggressive toward Zapata for reasons of prudence, as Zapata's band is powerful, and its courage and daring have been demonstrated on several occasions. This course has turned out to Huerta's advantage, for, according to reports from Mexico City, some of Zapata's followers have entered the capital by invitation since the American occupation of Vera Cruz and have been received with great enthusiasm. It is easy to see that Huerta and Zapata have practically united in common cause against the invader, although Zapata is said to be chary of going to Mexico City until his safety is assured.

PEACE ENVOYS' PLANS---FLETCHER'S WORK AT VERA CRUZ PRAISED

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, called at the State Department this afternoon to make Secretary Bryan acquainted with advices he had received to-day from Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister in Mexico City in regard to the efforts made by him under instructions from his Government to impress upon Gen. Huerta the desirability of assenting to the tender of good offices made by the South American nations. The British envoy to Mexico apparently lost no time in seeing Huerta after he received the instructions which had been sent by the London Foreign Office at the request of Secretary Bryan.

Carden Pressed Huerta to Accept.

From Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Mr. Bryan learned that Sir Lionel Carden had been very earnest in pressing the Mexican President to become a party to the peace proposals. At the end of the interview, Gen. Huerta indicated that he would accept the tender, although he had apparently been disinclined to do so. He said that he would make stipulations for the further conduct of the peace negotiations; but what these stipulations were, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice was unable to inform Mr. Bryan.

The Whole diplomatic situation presents an odd appearance from the adoption of Mr. Bryan's point of view by the would-be intermediaries.

Starting out, as they did, to prevent a war between this Government and the Huertistas, they are now seemingly engaged in a preliminary effort to adjust the differences between the several Mexican factions without making the United States a party to the negotiations. It is not believed here that Gen. Huerta will consent to enter into any preliminary arrangement looking to peace that does not embrace the quarrel between his Administration and that of President Wilson. That the negotiators must have taken this into consideration is not doubted, but, as the contemplated basic proposal is understood, it provides for an attempt to bring together only the representatives of the Huerta Government, the Constitutionalists and Zapata.

Working First for an Armistice.

The proposed armistice seems to be the fundamental principle of the next step toward peace. Should the negotiators succeed in obtaining an agreement among the several warring factions in Mexico to cease hostilities, a long step would have been taken in the direction of the success of the peace movement. It was said to-night that feelers were being put out with a view to ascertaining the rival leaders' sentiments regarding the suggestion.

The proposers of the plan for an armistice find encouragement in the opportunity that would be given in case of its success, for the exercise of further efforts by Great Britain, Germany, and France to induce Gen. Huerta to show his accord with the spirit of the times. Carranza and Villa may be harder to handle, Carranza especially; but this Government has agents who have the confidence of both Constitutionalist leaders and have influence with them.

Should an armistice between the Mexican combatants be arranged, this Government would agree to take no further aggressive action against the Huerta Government pending the peace exchanges, provided, of course, that Gen. Huerta showed a reciprocal spirit. Huerta's present attitude is that he will not make war on the United States as long as the American forces do not advance. Officers of the Mexican Federal Army have told American naval officers that they have orders of that character. Altogether the prospect is bright for a cessation of hostilities between the Mexican and American armed forces.

The suggestion that all foreign Governments having representatives in Mexico City participate directly in the effort to adjust Mexico's troubles does not find favor here, least of all among European representatives, who characterize the discussion of the proposal as "idle gossip." European Governments realize that the Mexican problem affects the Western Hemisphere, and that direct efforts by them in the attempted settlement would be resented. There is no likelihood that such a suggestion would find any sympathy with the three South American countries whose diplomatic representatives in Washington are conducting the current exchanges. These representatives, according to the talk in diplomatic circles, were not wholly pleased over the fact that Great Britain, Germany, and France were asked by Secretary Bryan to use their influence to induce Gen. Huerta to assent to the tender of good offices.

Suarez and Naon Call on Bryan.

For two hours late in the afternoon Secretary Bryan was closeted at the State Department with Señor Naôn, the Argentine Minister, and Señor Suarez, the Chilean Minister. The two Ministers called at the State Department first to notify Mr. Bryan that through their Governments they had received positive assurances of the consent of Huerta to the principle of mediation. Neither the two diplomats nor Mr. Bryan would indicate further the matters under consideration.

It was understood, however, that there was discussion of the place where the international commission of inquiry should sit, and whether The Hague rules should apply to its deliberation. The view is entertained that Huerta may object to The Hague rules, while this Government is credited with taking the position that mediation is consistently practicable only under an agreement to abide by The Hague rules. These are ready at hand, having been worked out carefully in the light of experience, and meet every requirement of the premises.

The Hague rules are embodied in the convention for the peaceful settlement of international disputes concluded in 1908. Both the United States and Mexico were signatory powers to that treaty. It is significant also that Francisco de la Barra, formerly Mexican Ambassador to the United States and later Provisional President of Mexico, was a delegate to The Hague convention that adopted this treaty. Among the delegates also was Señor Pena, formerly Ambassador to the United States from Brazil.

To these Latin-Americans who participated in the deliberations of the second Hague Peace Congress the present opportunity to apply the principle of mediation is regarded as very important for the peace and good-will of the republics of the Western Hemisphere.

One source of complication is found in the fact that the United States has for the last four years been greatly annoyed by the internal strife in progress in Mexico by reason of which thousands of Americans have been deprived of property and driven from their homes. The claims for these losses have never been considered by the Mexican Government. These losses, under the conditions prevailing recently, have increased to an amount that can only be conjectured. The method of adjustment of these claims will be a subject for the deliberations of the international commission as well as the primary question of the elimination of Huerta from the Mexican Government.

Might Hold Vera Cruz as Security.

Whether the United States will take the position that the Port of Vera Cruz should be held as security for the payment of the many millions that must be paid to meet the claims of American citizens who have suffered loss in Mexico is yet to be determined. It is expected that Huerta will stipulate that the United States troops shall be removed from the soil of Mexico before the international commission shall proceed with its work. This, however, need not be conceded by the United States. As a matter of fact, it is not to be expected under the principle of mediation as set forth in The Hague treaty.

In that treaty it is provided that the acceptance of mediation, unless there be an agreement to the contrary, cannot have the effect of interrupting or delaying mobilization or other measures of preparation for war. Even if mediation is proposed after hostilities have been begun it does not operate to interrupt military operations. The position of this Government is, therefore, proper if it adheres to the purpose to retain Vera Cruz provisionally.

The treaty provides that the period in which the principle of mediation shall be permitted to govern cannot exceed thirty days. In that period the two Governments have no communication with each other and the mediatory powers have before them the task of settling the dispute as best they can. In certain cases where the facts are in dispute an international commission of inquiry is instituted which takes up all questions of fact. Whether any prolonged inquiry is necessary now remains to be seen.

This Government has no hesitation in taking the view that the facts have been established—that they have, as it were, gone into history so far as the usurpation of power by Huerta is concerned; and the insult to the flag at Tampico hardly admits of any extended controversy as to the actual facts.

Procedure of Mediation Commission.

The international commission is empowered to decide where it will sit, and once it has decided, the place cannot be changed without the consent of both parties to the dispute. These parties are entitled to appoint special agents to attend the meetings of the commission to represent them and to act as intermediaries between them and the commission. Counsel may also be employed by the parties to the mediation. The commission has the power to settle all details as to procedure, the taking of evidence, and all formalities concerned with its deliberations. On the inquiry each party must be heard. Each communicates to the commission and to the other party its statement of facts, and in all cases the instruments, papers, and documents which are regarded as necessary for the ascertainment of the truth, and the lists of witnesses and experts that are to be heard.

The commission usually sits in territory neutral to both parties. It also acts through the power in whose territory it sits in the matter of notifications and the procurement of testimony. Thus all witnesses are summoned through the Government in whose country the commission sits.

When the commission concludes its deliberations its report is limited to a statement of facts, and has in no way the force of an award. It leaves to the parties entire freedom as to the effect to be given to the statement. Each party to the mediation pays its own expenses, and an equal share of the expenses incurred by the commission. Throughout the whole transaction the mediation, whether undertaken at the request of the parties in dispute or on the initiative of powers strangers to the dispute, has exclusively the character of advice, and can never have binding force.

Our Thanks to Germany.

The thanks of the American Government to Germany for its friendly action in recalling the steamer Ypiranga, with war munitions in its cargo, from Vera Cruz, and for the energetic assistance given by the commander and crew of the cruiser Dresden in rescuing American refugees at Tampico, have been informally conveyed to Germany through Secretary Bryan.

The Secretary assured Ambassador von Bernstorff that a formal note of appreciation and thanks would follow in due course. These assurances of gratitude have been forwarded by Ambassador von Bernstorff by cable to his Government.

HUERTA WELCOMES ZAPATA.

Issues a Statement That the Bandit Chief Has Joined Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—President Huerta has issued a statement in which he asserts that all the southern rebels, headed by Emiliano Zapata, have joined the Government excepting three small bands, numbering less than 500 men, and that many guerrillas of the interior have also joined the Government. The rest, he says, have asked for information regarding the happenings at Vera Cruz before deciding upon their attitude.

The Government refuses to make any statement regarding the peace proposals of the South American republics.

PARIS PLANS A PROTEST.

Manifestation Against American Intervention in Prospect.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 28.—The Franco-Ibero-American Association of Paris proposes to organize, with the assistance of French and Spanish-American orators, a public manifestation in Paris against the armed intervention of the United States in Mexico. Neither the date nor the programme of the manifestation has yet been fixed.

Under the heading: "A New Power," the Petit Parisien comments on the peace proposals of the three South American powers.

"The republics of Latin America," it says, "formerly so divided, are now awakening. They have thought, right or wrong, that the invasion of part of the Mexican territory by the Americans of the North would constitute a menace for those of the South. They have offered their mediation to ward off the conflict they feared and to safeguard the equilibrium of the New World. That equilibrium is there, as in Europe, a guarantee of peace. France, equally sympathetic toward the United States and Latin America, can but applaud the courteous intervention of the A. B. C. powers and President Wilson's amicable reply."

FEARS MEXICAN DISEASES.

McAdoo Asks for $100,000 to Prevent Epidemics at Ports.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A new phase of the Mexican problem was brought to the attention of Congress to-day when Secretary McAdoo, on behalf of the Public Health Service, asked the House to appropriate and make "instantly available" $100,000 to prevent the introduction and spread of epidemic diseases. The current year fund for this purpose is exhausted.

"The danger to this country from the introduction of smallpox and typhus fever," Mr. McAdoo reported, "is greatly augmented on account of the removal of refugees and persons returning from Mexico to United States ports."

Secretary McAdoo also asked for the establishment of quarantine facilities at Providence, R. I. He proposed to use for that purpose the old cruiser Newark, now at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

On Page 7 of President Elliott's statement to the stockholders of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. is a table that shows what is going on in every industrial concern in the United States.

During the ten years ending 1913, the number of employees of the New Haven Railroad increased 11%; and the average yearly wage of each employee increased 29%.

There is only one way to effect this—and that is to make employees more efficient.

An "Ellis" Adding-Typewriter is one device that helps keep down costs. In commercial houses where Ellis machines are used, the cost of billing has been reduced over 40%. That more than offsets the increased wage scale.

An Ellis will pay for itself in any business where figures are handled in bulk.

REBEL CHIEFS AGREE TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

NOW HOLD PIEDRAS NEGRAS

Special to The New York Times.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 28.—Villa and Carranza have patched up their differences and Carranza has agreed to everything that Villa proposed. The rebel forces will not oppose the United States in its Mexican campaign so long as rebel territory is not invaded. The campaign against Huerta is being planned to begin at Saltillo and end at Mexico City.

This was the result of the conference which took place last night and this morning at the State Palace, in which Villa and his friends conferred long with Carranza and his advisers.

EAGLE PASS, April 28.—The vanguard of the rebel forces late to-day occupied Piedras Negras. Gen. Guajuardo, the Federal commander, whose forces were defeated at Allende and who was wounded in the battle, died last night near the Rio Grande as he was being brought to the American side.

Gen. Murgia, the constitutionalist chief, with the main body of his command and 300 Federal prisoners, is expected to arrive early to-morrow. He announced that he would hoist an American flag and fire a salute in Piedras Negras to show his friendship for the United States.

The advance guard of rebels which entered Piedras Negras late to-day numbered ten men. They rode to the bride and halted the exodus of fugitives, announcing that all property and citizens would be protected.

Small detachments of Federal soldiers crossed to the United States to-day for protection. Twenty-five Federals, including several officers, are detained in the Seventeenth Infantry camp. Other detachments have been captured by the cavalry border patrol.

Gen. Murgia did not execute any of the Federals captured at Allende. He said he had no interest in Huerta's quarrel with the United States, and declared all Americans in his district would be protected.

LAREDO, Texas, April 28.—The Constitutionalist commander of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, to-day reported to the American authorities here that the Federal troops who on Friday evacuated the town were trying to reach the Rio Grande above Laredo. United States troops at Minera were ordered to be on the alert.

The Federals retreating from Nuevo Laredo after dynamiting the border city left a trail of destruction behind them, according to a train crew arriving here to-day with the abandoned troop trains used by the Federals in their flight. The towns of Sanchez and La Jarita were completely destroyed, they reported, and the inhabitants have fled to the hills. The railroad bridge at Sanchez was not destroyed, as at first reported.

Constitutionalists have appointed a new Mayor and Council of Nuevo Laredo preparatory to rehabilitating the city.

EL PASO, April 28.—The report that Saltillo had been occupied by rebels under Gen. Francisco Cos, which has been received from Chihuahua, is discredited by rebel agents here. They declare Cos has only about 4,500 men, while the Federal garrison of Saltillo, reinforced by the fugitives from the Federal garrison at Monterey, is believed to number 10,000.

TROOPS EAGER TO LAND IN VERA CRUZ

taken from the jail and killed. It was also said that another American had been put to death at Cosamaloapan, about 60 miles south of Vera Cruz. Nothing has been received to confirm this story.

Previous to this word came that the Cordoba prisoners were sleeping on the stone flagging of the jail patio, with insufficient food, no sanitation, and threatened every night with assassination by drunken jailors.

W. H. Mechling of the Geological Survey of Canada, who had been working some time in Mexico in behalf of the Universities of Harvard, Pennsylvania, and Columbia, spent two days at Cordoba. He was detained but not put in jail, and finally was permitted to come here as an Englishman, although he is in reality an American.

Mechling went to the jail in Cordoba Sunday afternoon and talked to the prisoners, among whom were several he knew.

The prisoners were herded like cattle, and were jeered almost constantly by the keepers or the Mexican inmates of the jail. They were permitted to have food and drink only when the whim suited the jailers, and were kept in a state of terror by frequent threats of death.

Among the prisoners was a young American woman with a four-months-old infant. There are several other women and children, and the total number of all nationalities, according to Mechling, was 85.

The Mexican wireless station, which is the largest along the coast, but has only medium power, was taken over by the navy wireless officers to-day. Lieut. Charles H. Maddox of the battleship Utah was put in charge of the plant. This station will form an important link in the chain of wireless stations in case the United States forces should make further advances in Mexico. It is hardly strong enough to talk with Key West, but battleships, transports, or other craft may be able to relay messages from it.

The wireless reports from along the coast last night said that everything was quiet. The battleship Arkansas early to-day picked up messages from the Denver off Manzanillo, on the west coast. As these messages came after daylight, the Arkansas was unable to reply until to-night owing to atmospheric conditions.

Americans here who were preparing a memorial protesting against the United States Government further delaying a general movement of its forces in Mexico, have agreed not to take any action at the present time which might be likely to embarrass the Administration.

WEST COAST FORCE GROWS.

Chattanooga and West Virginia Start for Mazatlan.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 28.—After having been detained all day by sudden orders from Washington, the armored cruiser West Virginia and the protected cruiser Chattanooga sailed from the Puget Sound Navy Yard late to-day for Mazatlan, Mexico.

The two vessels fired their farewell salutes early in the day, and were about to get under way when instructions were received to delay their departure. No reason was advanced for ordering the delay.

FLETCHER PRAISED IN FUNSTON'S ORDERS

President Directs General to Work in Intimate Harmony with the Admiral's Policy.

NO HALT IN ACTIVITIES

Secretary Garrison Denies Emphatically That War Preparations Have Been Checked.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Although President Wilson is anxious that war with Mexico shall be averted and peace and order restored, no orders have been issued for any cessation of army and naval activities required to place the American Government in a position to strike when it is necessary.

Under The Hague rules, the acceptance of friendly mediation cannot, unless there be an agreement to the contrary, have the effect of interrupting, delaying, or hindering mobilization or other measures of preparation for war. Even when mediation takes place after the commencement of hostilities, according to The Hague rules, military operations in progress are not interrupted in the absence of an agreement to the contrary.

The officers at the front have been kept fully posted regarding the political aspects of the situation. Admirals Badger, Fletcher and Howard, and Gen. Funston have before them the full text of the proffer of friendly offices, as well as the United States Government's note of acceptance, and know that President Wilson is not desirous of war if it can be averted. They also know that they are expected to have the forces under their command fully prepared for war if it comes. Likewise, they are to be ready to protect Americans and meet any emergency that may suddenly develop. In the latter contingency, the orders allow the commanding officers at the front to use their discretion.

Shift Command on Thursday.

The navy will formally turn Vera Cruz over to the army on Thursday. This announcement was made by Secretary Garrison at 10 o'clock to-night on the basis of a message he had received from Gen. Funston. The War Department issued this bulletin:

"A message was received at 6:05 P. M. from Gen. Funston, who states that they were unloading and making arrangements for quartering of the troops that are to relieve the navy contingent on shore. The transfer of authority will take place on April 30.

"Gen. Funston states that Admiral Fletcher has devised a most excellent form of civil government under control of the military commander, and that he has requested Admiral Fletcher to put it into force.

"The city is under military government, and all the necessary functions of government are being performed."

Gen. Funston's arrival at Vera Cruz was not officially reported to the War Department until 10:28 o'clock this morning. At that hour the Adjutant General of the Army received this cable message:

"Vera Cruz, via Galveston, April 28.—To Agwar, Washington:

"FUNSTON."

Delayed by Transport.

The Fifth Infantry Brigade, in command of Gen. Funston, was scheduled to arrive early yesterday. As he explained, his expedition was held back by the condition of the transport Meade, one of the older transports of the service. All four of the transports are old, for that matter, and date back to the Spanish war. They traveled in formation, and the speed of the slowest governed their rate of progress toward Vera Cruz.

The delay in landing Gen. Funston's troops caused the report to be circulated in Washington that President Wilson had ordered that they be held back pending peace negotiations. Secretary of War Garrison to-night denied this emphatically. He said no such orders had come from the President, and that no such orders had been issued. Secretary Garrison added that the 4,000 men on the transports were to be landed at once. He said he had been informed by the Navy Department that the marines left ashore to co-operate with the army consisted of 3,333 men and 128 officers.

Secretary Garrison said to-night that no change had been made in the plans for the movement of the remainder of the Fourth Regiment of Mountain Artillery from Galveston to Vera Cruz as part of Gen. Funston's brigade. He said the artillery would sail as soon as a transport could be made ready.

Secretary Garrison said that when Gen. Funston arrived at Vera Cruz he found the following order awaiting him:

Acting in compliance with instructions received from the President, the Secretary of War directs that on your arrival at Vera Cruz, Mexico, with your command you relieve the navy of its duties ashore incident to the occupation and control of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and its environs.

The Secretary of War is explicitly requested by the President to say to you that the President entirely approves in every respect of the course which Admiral Fletcher has pursued in the occupation, control, and management of Vera Cruz since his landing; that he has the greatest confidence in Admiral Fletcher's judgment; has learned to depend upon his long acquaintance with the situation there for guidance, and desires that you keep in close touch and consultation with the Admiral, and seek to continue in intimate harmony with him the policy he has initiated there, except so far as changes of circumstances may demand a different course.

Orders are to be issued by the President, through the Navy Department, detaching the Marine Corps contingent at Vera Cruz for service with the army, the effect of which orders will be to place the Marine Corps contingent so detached under your command.

Week of Occupation.

The American occupancy of Vera Cruz rounded out its first week to-day with the landing of Gen. Funston. In that time the naval forces have seized the town, prevented the landing of the cargo of arms and ammunition carried by the German merchant steamer Ypiranga, disarmed the citizens of 12,350 weapons of all sorts, confiscated 133,000 rounds of ammunition and 6,000 pounds of powder, established martial law, taken over "as a military necessity" the operation of the Terminal tracks, wharves, warehouses, and cranes; taken over control of the military prison; restored law and order in Vera Cruz, handled thousands of refugees, and arranged every detail for the transfer of the control over the city to the American army expedition.

The Navy Department announced to-day that the railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City was "being rapidly destroyed from Tijeria, the ties being burned and the track loaded on the cars, according to information received by Consul Canada from a recent arrival from Mexico City."

Admiral Badger to-day reported that the naval aviators had made a thorough search of the Harbor of Vera Cruz and had found no evidence of mines or cables.

CAVALRY FOR THE BORDER.

Another Troop of the Tenth Is Ordered to Naco, Ariz.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Secretary Garrison announced to-night that another troop of cavalry would be sent to Naco, Ariz. There are now two troops of the Tenth Cavalry at that point. One-half of the Ninth Cavalry is stationed at Douglas, Ariz., and there are two troops of the regiment at Forest, Ariz. Naco is on the border of the Mexican State of Sonora, and commands the railroad to Cananea and San Jose. It is about half way between Douglas and Nogales.

The War Department also announced the arrival of Battery F of the Sixth Field Artillery at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. This battery was sent to the border from Fort Riley, Kan.

The armored cruiser West Virginia, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Doyle, left Bremerton, Wash., this afternoon for San Francisco on her way to the west coast of Mexico.

MORE CAVALRYMEN SAIL.

Remainder of 6th Regiment Starts for Vera Cruz—Aviators Also Ready

Special to The New York Times.

GALVESTON, Texas, April 28.—Forty officers and 880 men of the Sixth Cavalry with their mounts left here for Vera Cruz to-day on board the chartered transport San Marcos. One troop of the regiment already had sailed for Vera Cruz on the steamship Satilla with twenty-four pieces of field artillery.

The aviation corps which was ordered here from San Diego, Cal., arrived late this afternoon. The machines will be stored in warehouses here so they may be loaded on to ships immediately should the orders for embarkation be issued. While no such orders have been received, it is expected they will be as soon as ships to carry the corps are obtained.

It was announced from division headquarters at Texas City to-day that the remainder of the division now camped there was thoroughly prepared for immediate embarkation should such orders be received.

A complete United States Post Office, credentials, furniture, money order department, and officials left here on the San Marcos. H. M. Robinson will be Postmaster at Vera Cruz. He took with him to-day eleven assistants. This office will have entire charge of all mail passing into or out of Mexico through the port of Vera Cruz.

PERSHING TAKES COMMAND.

Troops from San Francisco Added to El Paso Guard.

EL PASO, Texas, April 28.—The division of troops now on the Mexican border is prepared to take the field at five minutes' notice, fully equipped for a long and severe campaign, according to Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, who took over to-day the command of the United States forces gathered here.

Gen. Pershing said the troops had been supplied with thirty days' field rations and sufficient ammunition and supplies to carry them through any campaign the War Department might deem necessary.

Gen. Pershing, who arrived to-day with the last sections of the Sixth and Sixteenth Infantry Regiments from San Francisco, made an immediate inspection of the border patrols. He established his headquarters at Fort Bliss, but the Sixth and Sixteenth Regiments encamped in this city.

Col. C. A. P. Hatfield, who was relieved by Gen. Pershing, has been ordered to take command of the Second Cavalry brigade, which is scattered along the Arizona border. Col. Hatfield will leave on Thursday for Douglas, Ariz., where he will establish headquarters.

Preparations were made to-day to move immediately to Fort Wingate, N. M., the 4,900 Mexican Federal prisoners interned at Fort Bliss. Troop trains have been requisitioned. The Mexican prisoners will be escorted by the first battalion of the Twentieth Infantry, which will turn them over to troops from Fort Meade, the latter to form their permanent guard.

CALEXICO, Cal., April 28.—Arrivals here to-day from Yuma, who came via Algodones, which is on the Mexican side of the line opposite Andrade, Cal., say the Mexican Federal soldiers at Algodones soon will be withdrawn to a considerable distance from the international boundary. It is reported this is to prevent possibility of a clash with colored American regulars at Andrade and is on orders of Col. Juan Lajero, commander at Mexicali.

The Mexican garrison at Mexicali was reinforced to-day by seventy-five cavalrymen, who came from the direction of Ensenada. Major Esteban Cantu, former commander of the garrison, has returned from a recruiting expedition.

Telegraphic orders from Huerta to Col. Lajero pass the American lines, but no code is permitted to go through. One of Huerta's recent messages instructed Lajero to accept all recruits, but not to pay them.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 28.—There is a standing reward of 500 head of cattle among Mexicans for the head of any Texas Ranger brought to Mexican soil, according to information received by Gov. Colquitt indirectly from the Madero ranch on the Rio Grande.

An investigation will be made, according to the Governor.

ALL WELL IN MEXICO CITY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 29.—The London manager of the Bank of Montreal received a cable dispatch from the bank's manager in Mexico City yesterday morning saying that all was going well and that the bank was still able to look after the interests of its clients, although it was not open for regular business.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 29.—Gen. Carranza, the Mexican Constitutionalist leader, in a dispatch to The Daily Chronicle, says that British subjects will have every guarantee of protection in the country under the power of the Constitutionalist forces.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Mexico City, dated Monday, says the various revolutionary chiefs in the States bordering upon the capital are in negotiation with the Government, and that some of them have already come to an agreemnt with it.

"But deep mystery covers the intentions or actions of the revolutionaries in the north," the correspondent continues. "The submission of certain of the leaders does not necessarily mean a pacific tendency of the revolution in general, as these leaders do not aim at an assumption of power, but only various benefits as in the case of the Indian rebellions in Morales. The insurgent force of the north more numerous, and armed and equipped by Americans, constitute the predominant part of the revolution, and must be regarded as the arbiters of the situation.

"So far President Huerta has on his side the military element, which still forms a solid nucleus of organization. While defending Huerta the army defends its own life.

"We may see the final struggle brought to the gates of the capital, the defense of which would be shared by the Indian hordes, who only the other day were in revolt in the neighborhood. It is a terrible prospect.

"Revolutionary agents are spreading the report that the period of atrocities is ended, and that when the northern rebels arrive here they will behave respectably. Certainly on the part of the leaders an effort will be made to restrain their barbarous followers and thus permit the United States to recognize them as Huerta is not to be recognized on the pretext of his inhumanity.

"But the revolutionists, arriving here with furious personal hatreds, would not allow their enemies to live. As to this there are sufficient revolutionary declarations to leave the matter in no doubt. The struggle would be a desperate one, and nobody could possibly restrain it.

"Over Mexico City hangs an agonizing threat. The population regards it as far more terrible than the famous 'tragic ten days' of last year, when 3,000 citizens lost their lives."

La Prensa Says Wilson May Realize Pan-American Ideals in Mexico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, April 28.—The American Legation and Consulate here are strongly guarded by the police, to prevent anti-American demonstrations. The President of Uruguay is facing a storm of denunciation for his pro-American attitude.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, April 28.—It is reported that a permit for an anti-American demonstration has been refused by the Minister of the Interior as applied for at an inopportune time.

La Nacion says that the tender of good offices by the South American diplomats must appeal to the civilization and justice of the world.

La Prensa says that President Wilson's acceptance of the offer is evidence that he now understands clearly the Mexican situation. The editor regrets that certain American newspapers and Congressmen are hostile. They do not understand Latin America, he says, as Root, Sherrill, and Barrett do. Col. Roosevelt, he asserts, if he were home, would favor the acceptance of the offer. The pacific settlement of the Mexican dispute, La Prensa thinks, will give the United States an opportunity to realize fully her highest Pan-American ideals. War with Mexico would destroy Pan-Americanism with one blow. According to this editorial, Latin Americans sincerely sympathize with Mexico as a victim and a martyr. The American press and people are urged to support President Wilson in his efforts for a peaceful settlement and to give the world an example of pure Pan-Americanism.

MONTEVIDEO, April 28.—The Uruguayan Minister of Foreign Affairs today conferred with the President of the republic in regard to the Mexican situation. It was decided that Uruguay should lend her support to the mediation of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile between the United States and Mexico.

BUENOS AIRES, April 28.—In spite of the advice of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, José Luis Mureture, that a proposed pro-Mexican demonstration be not held, the organizers of the demonstration declared to-day that their plans would be carried out.

The Governments of Peru and Cuba have advised the Argentine Government of their approval of the offer of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile to mediate in the trouble between the United States and Mexico.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The unpleasant incident at Montevideo, growing out of a demonstration against the American Legation last Saturday to express disapproval of the landing of American bluejackets and marines at Vera Cruz, has ended happily. A cable message to the State Department to-day told of amends made by the Uruguayan Government.

This statement was made by the department:

"The American Minister at Montevideo has advised the State Department that the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Uruguayan Government has called at the American Legation for the purpose of expressing the regret of President Battle y Ordonez at the anti-American demonstration which occurred in Montevideo on Saturday. He stated that this demonstration did not represent the opinion of the Government of the republic, but was the act of a small group of young men.

"Minister Grevstad reports that in reply he expressed appreciation of the courtesy of the call and of the firm and impartial attitude maintained by the Government of Uruguay."

Tell of Anti-American Feeling.

Sir Joseph Bampfylde Fuller, former Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, who has spent thirty-four years in the Indian Civil service and who arrived yesterday on the United Fruit steamer Calamares, from South America, appeared surprised to hear that the United States had accepted an offer of mediation from three of the Latin Republics.

"What is this I hear," he asked the reporters, "about the United States accepting the offer of mediation from Brazil, Argentina and Chile?"

When informed that the report was correct, Sir Joseph said:

"There is a strong anti-American feeling in those countries. I have attended anti-American meetings on my present trip in Brazil, Argentina and Chile."

"I can appreciate the fact," he continued, "that President Wilson's acceptance may have a good effect in encouraging trade relations. Previously, however, I always thought that the United States was well able to take care of its own affairs."

With regard to President Wilson he said that England had a great respect and admiration for him, but it was generally felt that he had made a number of mistakes in his Mexican policy.

Sir Joseph Bampfylde Fuller was Lieutenant Governor of East Bengal and Assam, after the division of Bengal caused such trouble among the natives in that part of India. When the native children marched out of school carrying red flags and shouting out "Down with the English," Sir Joseph ordered the schools to be closed. When this was reported to the home Government in London he was instructed by cable to open them again. On receipt of the message the Lieutenant Governor resigned.

John Dewar, who has just returned from a tour through South America, sailed yesterday on the Mauretania to visit his uncle, Sir Thomas Dewar.

When told that Sir Joseph Bampfylde Fuller had spoken of the anti-American feeling in the South American republics, Mr. Dewar said that it certainly existed.

"Of course we do not talk about it," he said, "but the fact remains that there is a strong anti-American spirit, especially in Argentina and Chile. I do not know quite whether the people down there are jealous of the United States or afraid of her power. In my opinion the South American republics dislike Americans and just tolerate Europeans.

"The offer of mediation in the trouble between the United States and Mexico, which has been accepted by President Wilson, may promote a better understanding among the South American peoples."

No Money Paid, Says Loeb.

William Loeb, Jr., former Collector of the Port of New York, now a Director of the American Smelting and Refining Company and otherwise closely associated with the Guggenheim interests in an executive capacity, denied last night that any money had been paid by the company to get its officers and employes safely out of Mexico, as was reported by James Crawford, an Englishman, arriving at Vera Cruz.

DECLARES BRITAIN WILL HELP IN PEACE

Grey Tells Parliament Government Will Do All It Can to End Mexican Trouble.

PRAISES ENGLISH OFFICIALS

Huerta Has Received No Advice from British Government—Seizure by Fletcher Not Objected To.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 29.—"The trouble in Mexico is one of grave concern to the British Government on account of the large British commercial interests involved, and we are, of course, ready to encourage and further in any way we can any proposals for mediation which will have the effect of bringing the trouble to an end."

This statement was made by Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday, when he formally announced that the United States had accepted the proffered good offices of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile.

The Foreign Secretary added that he had not definitely heard what atitude Mexico had taken in connection with the proposal.

Sir Edward paid tributes to Thomas B. Hohler, British Secretary of Legation at Mexico City; to Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, and to other British officials who have been active in getting foreign refugees out of Mexico City. He said:

"All the arrangements seem to have been executed with great tact, and to have been of real service to British and other foreigners, as well as to the Mexicans."

Sir Edward referred to the mission of Commander Hugh J. Tweedie of the British cruiser Essex, who was sent to Mexico City. He said:

"Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock is endeavoring to send an unarmed party with dispatches to Mexico City with the full cognizance of the United States Admiral and with the sanction of the Mexican General near Vera Cruz.

"The dispatches, which are for the British, French, German, and Spanish Ministers in Mexico City, are addressed to Provisional President Huerta with a request for his sanction for their delivery.

It was learned later at the Foreign Office that the circumstantial accounts published in reference to Commander Tweedie's mission were wide of the mark, and that he is simply carrying dispatches concerning the succor to be given to refugees.

It has been ascertained that, so far as Great Britain is concerned, Gen. Huerta has received no advice from the Government in London, which has confined itself to the protection of its subjects and the encouragement of the mediation offered by the South American nations.

American Ambassador Page saw Sir Edward Grey yesterday afternoon. The Ambassador had no special message to deliver, but discussed the situation generally with Sir Edward.

The seizure on Monday by Rear Admiral Fletcher, U. S. N., of the property of the British-owned Terminal Company at Vera Cruz is accepted by the British Foreign Office as a perfectly natural action, quite within the Admiral's rights and in accordance with propriety. The officials here regard the Admiral's action as coming within the ordinary routine of such circumstances. It was stated yesterday that if the Terminal Company presented a claim to the British Foreign Office it would be forwarded to Washington in the ordinary course.

OUT OF VERA CRUZ BASTILE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The American occupation of Vera Cruz will prove a godsend to 325 Mexicans who were thrown into prison by the Huertista military agents for no other reason than to force them to bear arms in the Mexican Federal Army.

The fact that these men were incarcerated on this account became known officially here to-day, when Secretary Daniels received from Admiral Fletcher a dispatch announcing that the Admiral had taken over the prison fortress at San Juan d'Ulloa. This action was necessary to insure the control of the prison. Admiral Fletcher reported that conditions there were described to him as awful.

The Admiral recommended that the 325 prisoners against whom there was no charge be released at once, and that the remaining 118 be held pending further investigation.

Secretary Daniels telegraphed the Admiral immediately to release the 325 prisoners who were uncondemned.

Admiral Fletcher's dispatch read, in part:

"The Prison of San Juan d'Ulloa has been taken over under mutual agreement made between myself and Col. Vigil, in charge, which agreement was approved and signed by Admiral Badger.

"There are in the prison 43 persons who have been sentenced for crime, 75 who have been accused of crime, but have not been brought to trial, and also 325 who have not been accused of any misdemeanor whatever. These 325 were arrested mostly within the last two months in order to be forced into the Federal Army, and for no other reason. The above data were obtained from the Mexican officer in charge. The conditions in the prison under which the 325 men are living is described as frightful."

The military prison in which these uncondemned men were jailed is one of the most famous in the Western Hemisphere, and dates back to the great days of Spanish domination. The guns of the old fortress of San Juan d'Ulloa were trained on the streets of Vera Cruz when the bearded and be-pistolled buccanneers came plundering, burning, and ravishing.

The Castillo de San Juan de Ulua, as the fortressis also known, is located on Gallega Island, or reef, in the Bay of Vera Cruz, about one mile from the docks where the American marines and steamers landed last Tuesday morning. On this small island are the old fortress and military prison, a dry dock, lighthouse, and a chapel in which offering were formerly made insure safe return from sea voyages.

The cornerstone of the Castillo, was laid in 1528, nearly 386 years ago, on the spot where Juan de Grijalva first landed ten years before. When Grijalva was exploring this island he asked an Indian the significance of a native rite of ripping open living human bodies and offering the hearts to hungry gods, and the Indian replied that that was the way the people of Culhua, or Ulua, would have it. From this circumstance and the fact that the Spanish commander's name was Juan the island was named Juan de Ulua.

The fortress was very massive. Its foundations alone cost $2,000,000 and have withstood the pounding of the sea for nearly four centuries. As early as 1746 the fortress mounted 120 guns and three mortars. Altogether $20,000,000 have been spent on it. Tourists at Vera Cruz are told that these vast expenditures attracted the attention of Charles V., who one day, as he stood on the balcony of his palace in Spain, shaded his eyes, looked intently toward the west and, when asked at what he was gazing, replied to the inquiring courtier: "I am looking for San Juan de Ulua; it has cost me enough to be seen across the sea."

Until recently the island was used as a penal settlement. A twenty years' term to this presidio was considered the equivalent of a death sentence. During the old Spanish regime the unfortunates sent there were to be commiserated. Many of the cells were mere holes in the sea wall and were half flooded at high tide. Some of the dungeons were too small to admit the bulk of a man except in a crouching attitude. The walls were vermin-infested and slimy with filth. When the tide came in the prisoner sat immersed to his chin in sea-water. Food was lowered to the prisoner through a manhole in the ceiling. The dungeons still exists, but visitors of late years have been told that the Mexican Government was too humane to use them.

Hernando Cortez was only 34 years old when he was put in command of the fortress of San Juan de Ulua for the beginning of his conquest and exploitation of Mexico.

NAMES CIVIL OFFICERS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Civil government under martial law went into effect at Vera Cruz to-day.

The designation of officials to carry on the functions of civil government under the direction of the military followed a conference between Admiral Fletcher and Gen. Funston to-day. The facts were announced in a bulletin by the Navy Department at 11:45 o'clock to-night containing this dispatch from Admiral Fletcher:

"I had a conference with Gen. Funston this morning upon his arrival. At 5 o'clock to-day I established civil government under martial law for Vera Cruz. The following officers were appointed: Civil Governor—Robert J. Kerr, lawyer, of Chicago and Mexico City; Inspector of Port and Customs—Commander Stickney, United States Navy; Administrator of Justice—William F. Buckle, lawyer, of Austin, Texas, and Mexico City; Treasurer—Charles H. Stewart of Indianapolis and Cordoba, Mexico. The functions of the Government became operative immediately, and the organization is that which was reported in my cable of April 26, giving the proposed regulations for establishment of civil government under martial law."

AMERICANS IN MEXICO ALL SAFE—MAYO'S ACT A SAFETY MOVE—CRUISER SALEM SAILS

SAY AMERICANS NOW ARE OUT OF PERIL

Reassuring Advices Lead the Government to Believe That All Will Escape.

CORDOBA PRISONERS FREE

Maass Will Not Restrain Foreigners—No Americans Killed or in Danger, Government Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Conditions in Mexico City practically are normal from all outward appearances, and the demonstrations against Americans have ceased. Orders have been issued by the Mexican Government to permit Americans and other foreigners to leave Mexico at will.

No American has been killed or is imprisoned or is in danger throughout Mexico, according to assurances given by the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Huerta Government. Other advices say that one American, suspected of dealings with the Constitutionalists is in prison. Mexican military officers have said that they are under orders not to fire on American troops.

Much satisfaction was expressed to-night by Government officials over this information, which came to the State and the Navy Departments in telegrams from their representatives in Mexico. They believe that all Americans who care to leave the country will be out of Mexican territory or under the protection of the United States soldiers and marines at Vera Cruz before hostilities can be resumed.

The Navy Department at 9:30 o'clock to-night announced that 109 Americans arrived at Vera Cruz at 5 o'clock this afternoon, according to a telegram received from Admiral Fletcher. Of these sixty-three were from Lomo Bonito, eleven from Potrero and the rest from Cordoba, Tierra Blanca, and outlying districts. Admiral Fletcher reports that all Americans are now supposed to be out of the country lying between El Burro and Cordova as well as between Cordova, Tierra Blanca, and Vera Cruz.

From W. W. Canada, the American Consul at Vera Cruz, the State Department received a telegram to-day filed at 10 o'clock last night, in which he said that he had just received this dispatch from the Brazilian Minister at Mexico City, who is in charge of American interests in Mexico:

> According to assurances Minister Foreign Affairs, no American killed, in danger, or imprisoned except one at Aguascalientes, who was delivered to judicial authorities, some proofs having been found of his connivance with revolution.
>
> Have been given all assurances of full protection American and foreigners.
>
> Departure Americans from here being arranged for to-morrow. With my best compliments.
> (Signed) BRAZILIAN MINISTER.

The Navy Department received a dispatch to-day from Rear Admiral Badger, dated Vera Cruz, midnight, April 27, saying it was difficult to ascertain conditions in the City of Mexico, but it was believed that reports of killing and pillaging were exaggerated. It was believed that Americans desirous of leaving the City of Mexico were to receive the opportunity. The refugees are reaching Vera Cruz slowly, as train service is very poor. The anti-American demonstrations in Mexico City were apparently less serious, Admiral Badger said.

Will Let Foreigners Depart.

Gen. Maass, who commanded the Mexican troops driven from Vera Cruz by the American bluejackets and marines, sent reassuring advices to Consul Canada from Soledad, twenty-six miles from Vera Cruz, where he is believed to be concentrating his forces. This was the telegram from Gen. Maass to the Consul, as given out by the Government authorities to-day:

> I hereby answer your esteemed letter of the 25th instant, advising that in accordance with instructions which I have received from my Government the military authorities under my command have been ordered to permit foreigners of any nationality whatsoever to leave the republic at will. Relative to Mexican citizens, who desire to leave the City of Vera Cruz you may permit or prohibit same according to the orders you may have in the premises.

These things go to show that Gen. Huerta has adopted a policy of making no hostile movement. They confirm the previous belief that he would commit no act of aggression and would permit his troops to fight only if attacked, the actuating idea being that Huerta would be able better to support his claim that Mexico had been forced into war, if war should come.

The Navy Department received a telegram from Rear Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz saying that he had "it upon most reliable and personal information," that Mexico City was tranquil, and for the present anti-American feeling was in abeyance. The street and theatres of the capital were crowded, he said, "and the status quo most hopeful."

Rear Admiral Fletcher sent Lieut. Frank J. Fletcher of the navy to bring back refugees to Vera Cruz. Lieut. Fletcher was told by Mexican officers that their men in the vicinity of Vera Cruz had orders not to fire on American troops, but simply to keep the country free of bandits.

"He was also given to believe," reported Admiral Fletcher, "that American and other foreigners who wished to, could get out. The information was received that no Americans were injuring Mexico City and the resentment against Americans had changed after learning the truth of what had taken place at Vera Cruz."

The consular agent telegraphed the State Department early to-day that the Americans who had been detained at Cordoba were well treated. The American women were in a hotel. It was reported that the impression in Cordoba was that the Americans were detained to safeguard them from mob violence. No American property there had been disturbed. Federal troops were said to have taken all Americans from Potrero to Cordoba.

The consular agent at Tuxpan reported that news from Yucatan made it inadvisable to send an American warship there to get refugees. It was believed that the appearance of the vessel would start an anti-American demonstration.

The Consular Agent also said that the only Americans beside himself and his staff who remained at Tuxpan were a few who refused to leave on the United States naval collier Jason.

British Marines Get Americans.

Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock of the British squadron at Vera Cruz told Rear Admiral Badger, according to advices received by the Navy Department, that H. M. S. Hermione reported that Major Clark of the Royal Marines had left Tampico for Orange Hill, forty miles inland, to bring out eight Americans. The Hermione had sent out thirteen refugees, and more were in the way to take passage on the Des Moines. Admiral Badger said he had thanked Admiral Cradock for the assistance given.

From Puerto Mexico the British cruiser Berwick reported that the British steamship Dictator would leave there to-morrow with several destitute American refugees.

This telegram came to the State Department this morning from Consul Simpson at Nogales, just over the Arizona line:

> April 27, 3 P. M.: Special train from Torres this morning brought 145 Americans and about 15 children. With few exceptions all Americans are being deprived of arms and ammunition before being allowed to leave. Am keeping Consulate open on American side to assist refugees continuing to arrive. Train from Culiacan expected to-night.

Consul Louis Hostetter, who left Hermosillo, Sonora, his post, with refugees, arrived at Nogales, Ariz., last night. He telegraphed the State Department:

> Everything perfectly quiet in Sonora. About forty arrived with me; ninety coming to-night from Sinaloa.

Gaston Schmutz, Consul at Aguascalientes, who said several Americans were imprisoned during the period when it was believed that Mexican non-combatants were forbidden to leave Vera Cruz, reports his arrival in Mexico City with 110 Americans. About 20 other Americans, he said, remained in his consular district.

Consul Canada reported from Vera Cruz to-day that 260 refugees, mostly Americans, left Tuxpam on April 27 on the naval collier Jason for New Orleans. Practically all Americans were out of the Tuxpam district, Mr. Canada said. The few remaining refused to leave on the Jason. They were all at Labarca.

Consul Canada also sent this telegram dated Vera Cruz, April 27, 10 P. M.:

>
> Following given passes to Monterey: G. A. Denny, F. W. Fuller, J. Gill, wife, and child; F. D. L. Green and mother, G. Meade, with wife, four children, mother-in-law, and nurse; William Morcom, wife, two daughters, one child, and nurse, and F. Percy Owens.
>
> Suggest that these names be published in American press and also telegraphed to London.

Consul Garrett at Neuvo Laredo, just across from Laredo, Texas, sent this telegram to the State Department today:

> M. C. Lyon and wife and Harry Gibbs, employes of American Metal Company of New York, are still in Villadama, Mexico, and I have no means of communication. All Americans out of my consul district.

A special train from Torres brought 145 Americans to Laredo to-day. They had been deprived of firearms.

From Tampico Admiral Mayo reported that he would have 37 more refugees to-morrow. The Spanish steamer Montevideo sailed from Tampico for Vera Cruz yesterday with refugees.

West Coast Conditions.

Conditions with respect to Americans on the west coast of Mexico are satisfactory. Rear Admiral Howard reported this afternoon by wireless from his flagship, the armored cruiser California, at Mazatlan, that he was assuring Mexican coastwise steamships that they would not be molested, and could carry refugees. The Mexican steamship Benito Juarez will make her regular trip to San Diego, Cal., carrying passengers and refugees.

"I have assured her," Admiral Howard said, "that she will not be molested by the naval forces."

The dispatch continues: "All refugees at Mazatlan have had ample opportunity to leave. The consular agent at Guaymas and all others are now on board ships. The Denver and Annapolis arrived at Salina Cruz on the 23d. The Jupiter has arrived at Mazatlan, and she, with the Truxton, La Paz, Perry, Stewart, and Paul Jones, sailed for Topolobampa. The Raleigh for Manzanillo called at San Blas and Miramar to take on refugees at either place. Three hundred refugees left Manzanillo and seventy-eight left Mazatlan.

Consul Alger, at Mazatlan, has reported to the Department of State that he has put the consulate in charge of the French consular agent, Enrique Claisse. He advises that Americans remain. Other foreigners there are 471 Chinese, 150 Spaniards, 50 Germans, and various other nationalities to the number of about 50. A number of refugees will arrive at San Francisco on May 2.

From Guaymas the State Department has been informed that all Americans—93 in number—are temporarily on board the Mazatlan by permission of the Captain of the German cruiser Nuremburg, who has chartered the Mazatlan for Germans and other foreigners. The consular agent and his wife are on the New Orleans and the consular effects have been placed in charge of the French Vice Consul. Conditions at this point are reported quiet.

Stretch Law to Help Porto Ricans.

The Constitution as interpreted by the Federal courts, was stretched a litttle to-day to help Porto Ricans in Mexico listed among the refugees desirous of leaving that country during the present crisis. This was done when the War Department decided that 150 Porto Rican refugees might be considered as Americans for the purpose of being taken out of Mexico under the $500,000 emergency appropriation made last week for helping American refugees. Under Federal court decisions Porto Ricans are not regarded as American citizens, but they are under the protection of the American flag, and the Administration feels that it should do as much for them as for American citizens in Mexico.

Some time ago about 300 Porto Ricans employed as laborers in Mexico asked the Government to take them as refugees to their home island. In that instance it was decided that while they were not American citizens it was incumbent upon this Government to treat them as such. This precedent is now being followed in the decision reached to-day to send 150 Porto Ricans from Mexico to Porto Rico.

These Porto Ricans have been loyal in their expressions of support of the American Government in the Mexican crisis. This has offended some of the Mexicans, and the Porto Ricans considered it wise to leave Mexico at this juncture. The resolution passed last week appropriating $500,000 for refugee purposes is so worded as to confine its expenditure to the relief of "American citizens," but some of the money will be used to aid the 150 Porto Ricans who appealed to American Government officials to aid them in leaving Mexico immediately.

Quiet in Rebel Stronghold.

The Government authorities expressed pleasure to-night over the information contained in a dispatch received from American Consul Edwards at Juarez, opposite El Paso, indicating that there was little military activity in the Carranzista country south of Juarez. The message from Consul Edwards showed that American and other refugees were arriving safely from Torreon. This was the message:

> Special train arrived this morning from Torreon bringing sixty-five Americans and thirty-five other foreigners. About a third of the Americans will probably ask for transportation to their homes in the United States. This brings out nearly all the foreigners from Durango and Torreon. Fully 200 refugees have crossed the border from this district during the past week. All of them report courteous treatment by the natives during their journey. Those expressing their determination to wholly abandon Mexico or remain away until peace is fully restored are largely in the majority. There is very little military activity and no alarming symptoms in the local situation.

516 AMERICANS ON LAST TRAIN

Was to Have Left Mexico City Last Evening.

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—Mexico City was tranquil to-day. There have been no demonstrations since Sunday.

Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, notified all Americans to-day that the last refugee train from the capital would leave this evening at 6:30 o'clock. Up to noon 516 Americans had registered for passage on the train.

Virtually all the American women and children in the capital will leave the city by this train. Headquarters of the Americans in the Hotel de Genéve was thronged with Americans all day.

The train will proceed to Puerto Mexico, running in two sections which will fly British and American flags. An escort of 100 Federal troops and six representatives of the British Degation will accompany the train.

A British warship in the harbor of Puerto Mexico will guarantee the protection of the refugees when they arrive, and Admiral Fletcher has been notified so that he may send transports for the refugees.

The American banks and some American business houses were open to-day, but most of the American concerns remained closed. Mexican volunteers to be used in repelling an American invasion are being drilled daily by representatives of the War Department.

SALEM SAILS AWAY; WILL JOIN WINSLOW

Collier, with 10,000 Tons of Coal, to Start To-day for Vera Cruz.

NAVY KEEPS HARD AT WORK

Docking Facilities at Brooklyn Yard Likely to be Overtaxed — The Washington Will Leave To-day.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—The scout cruiser Salem, one of the fastest ships in the navy, sailed from the Philadelphia Navy Yard at noon to-day for Vera Cruz. The naval greyhound was ordered to leave last Saturday, but was delayed because of trouble in the engineroom.

The Salem carried two hundred bags of mail for the officers and men of Rear Admiral Badger's fleet. This mail had been accumulating at the navy yard for nearly a week. The cruiser also took as passengers a number of naval officers who have been ordered to report to the commanding officer at Vera Cruz. The Salem is attached to Rear Admiral Winslow's Special Service Squadron.

The collier Hector, it is expected, will leave the Navy Yard to-morrow with 10,000 tons of coal for the fleet.

War preparations at the Navy Yard in Brooklyn have not abated despite the talk of mediation to settle the differences between this Government and Huerta. Workmen are busy getting the vessels of the navy available for service in Mexican waters ready with all possible dispatch.

The yard is rapidly filling up with sea fighters of every class. Within a week the docking facilities will be overtaxed. Besides the battleships Texas and Wyoming at the yard there are the armored cruiser Washington, the gunboats Machias, Marietta and Isla de Luzon; the torpedo boat destroyers Macdonough, Parker and Benham; the monitor Ozark, the supply ship Culgoa, several submarines and the big Washingtonian, recently chartered from the Hawaiian-American Line to transport supplies for the fleet in Mexico.

The vessels reported on their way to the Brooklyn yard are the monitor Tonopah, the cruisers Sacramento and Tennessee, the supply ship Uncas, and a half dozen submarines.

The cruiser Washington, which recently was used as a receiving ship at the yard, took aboard her ammunition yesterday. She will leave the yard this morning to join the Special Service Squadron under the command of Rear Admiral Winslow. On her trip south the cruiser will stop at Fort Monroe and at Port Royal, South Carolina. At the last-named port she will take on additional men to make up the complement of her crew.

The battleship Wyoming was put in drydock yesterday to receive her first coat of paint since she was commissioned. This vessel is expected to sail to join the Atlantic fleet on May 7, to relieve the flagship Arkansas.

The gunboats Machias and Marietta were used until a few days ago by the naval militia of Connecticut and New Jersey, respectively. Work to get them ready for active service was rushed yesterday. These vessels will probably be ready for service in Mexican waters next week. They have been placed in commission. The Isla de Luzon may be ready to leave the yard in three weeks.

"LITTLE NAVY" MEN LOSE.

Fail to Cut $3,178,890 Appropriation for Ammunition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Repeated efforts of the "Little Navy" men to reduce the allowances for powder and ammunition as carried in the Naval Appropriation bill for next year met defeat in the House to-day.

As Representative Witherspoon of Mississippi offered his last amendment to lop off about $350,000 from a total of $3,178,890 for the production and handling of ammunition for issue to ships, Representative Sereno Payne, the veteran New York member, heaved a sigh that resounded over the chamber.

A few minutes later Chairman Padgett of the Naval Committee moved an adjournment, but not until the Witherspoon proposal had been lost in an avalanche of votes.

"This doesn't appear to be a very appropriate time to cut down the powder allowance of our navy," commented Chairman Padgett.

Mr. Witherspoon, in purging his plea for moderation in naval expenditure, asserted that there was now enough smokeless powder stored away in the navy's powder magazines to wear out every gun in the United States Navy. He informed the House that 13,000,000 pounds of powder fired from the guns would put all of them out of commission. Then, after saying that he knew, but could not tell, because it was a "navy secret," how much powder the Government had in reserve for the use of the navy, he asserted that the amount was more than three times as much as was necessary to wear out the guns. Members concluded from his remarks that there were aproximately 40,000,000 pounds on hand.

Chairman Padgett said that, even with the large reserve supply, the whole could be wiped out in two hours if every gun in the fleet were engaged in continuous rapid firing. He said that the supply was actually 12,000,000 pounds short of the usual reserve store.

Discussing the situation as to torpedoes, the Chairman dismissed reports of the navy's deficiency by saying: "We are in fine shape as to torpedoes." He would go no further than this, although urged by members to approximate the number on hand. This also was a "navy secret."

"Anyhow," suggested Representative Bryan of Washington, "the statements of certain officials that we are totally unprepared for war are not accurate in this respect."

"We are not unprepared for war," replied the Naval Chairman, as he smiled knowingly.

The battleship provision of the bill, which will furnish the real tug of war as between the small and the large navy men, will probably not be reached until Saturday.

SAILORS IN QUARANTINE.

Men Ordered to Join Winslow Still Kept at Newport.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 28.—The enlisted men, including petty officers, ordinary seamen, and coal passers, selected for the ships of Rear Admiral Winslow's squadron are still held at the training station here because of the outbreak of measles among the apprentice seamen. The apprentices will be held in quarantine for two weeks. No new cases developed to-day.

It is reported in naval circles here that Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, when the Mexican situation clear will when the Mexican situation clears will be relieved and Rear Admiral F. F. Fletcher will be put in command. Rear Admiral Badger, after being relieved, it is said, will become a member of the Naval General Board.

NEW EXPLOSIVE TRIED.

Twenty-second Engineers Practice at Blowing Up Bridges.

Residents of Washington Heights in the neighborhood of 168th Street and Fort Washington Avenue were startled last evening by a series of explosions which well might have signaled the approach of an invading army of Mexicans. The supposed bombardment, however, was traced to the Twenty-second Regiment Engineers Armory, where it was found that the demolition squad was at practice. The explosions, following in quick succession, attracted a crowd of more than 500 persons to the building, and inside watching the practice were an additional 250.

The practice drill of the "Dynamite Squad," as the demolition squad is otherwise called, was held preparatory to a hike on Friday night to drill grounds to the north of Yonkers, where the squad will undertake to work out some real war problems. The squad is composed of twenty-four men, under command of Lieut. Harry C. Woodward and two other officers.

The explosive used by the demolition squad is an invention Lieut. Woodward completed two years ago, when the squad was organized. He explained last night during the test practice that the explosive was a combination which would not explode unless fired by fifteen grains of fulminate of mercury. He said that ten pounds of the explosive would tear a hole in the earth 10 feet deep and 12 feet square, throwing the earth 300 feet in the air. Fifty pounds would be sufficient to blow up a bridge for a distance of 100 yards, and 200 pounds would blow up the biggest battleship afloat. Only the smallest quantities of the explosive were used last night.

FIND SMALLPOX ON CYCLOPS.

Negro Refugee at Galveston Afflicted—General Vaccination Is Ordered.

GALVESTON, Texas, April 28.—Smallpox was discovered on the collier Cyclops to-day after half of the 360 American refugees brought here by the collier had been landed. Earlier in the day the steamship Esperanza and the convoy Dixie landed their refugees, and by nightfall more than 1,000 American refugees awaited trains to depart to their homes.

While refugees on the Cyclops were passing down the gangway the ship's doctor observed a negro who was developing smallpox. Immediately the landing of the refugees was halted and most of those who had left the ship were sent back. All on board were vaccinated and then permitted to depart.

Hereafter all refugees brought to this port will be vaccinated. Under the State laws no ship can be held in quarantine longer than six days, and as smallpox does not develop for two weeks quarantining a vessel does not prevent the introduction of disease into port.

In consequence Dr. McGlasson, State Health Officer, will vaccinate all refugees.

The battleship Connecticut will be released from quarantine on Thursday morning.

M. M. Johnson of Los Angeles, one of the refugees landed to-day, is at the head of 100 men refugees who wish to enlist in case volunteers are called out. His associates all speak and understand Spanish.

Resolutions of thanks to the German and English Governments for their protection of American subjects at Tampico after the vessels of the United States had been withdrawn from that harbor were adopted by the 570 refugees on the Dixie.

THE NAVY AS AN ASSET.

Daniels Shows Economic Value of Educating the Sailors.

In an article on "Making the Navy an Economic Asset," Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, says in the forthcoming issue of The Scientific American:

> I am mentally convinced, as any reasoning man who has studied the subject must be, that our navy should be strengthened. I subscribe to much of the argument in the series of articles in this paper, to which I contribute this closing number; but if, in spite of the advantages given me by my position to learn the whole truth, it is hard for me to shake off this instinctive feeling that our nation needs no protection beyond its own brave citizens, how much more must those living far inland, whose only knowledge of dreadnoughts comes from the illustrated papers, hold to the view that Providence will protect our country without the need of dreadnoughts, and that an adequate navy is merely a needless national expense.
>
> I sometimes fancy that our naval officers fail to understand the extent and depth of this feeling throughout the country. It is a point of view impossible to men like themselves who, from the day when they entered Annapolis, have had cold facts and figures hammered into them regarding the necessity of a defensive fleet to any country whose coasts are worth the harrowing and whose ports can be made to yield vast tribute to an attacking fleet.
>
> The task that lies before the Secretary of the Navy, who understands this feeling on the one hand, but who has become convinced of its erroneousness on the other, is to find some way to secure at least the passive support of these people.
>
> Such being the problem, it would seem that if a way could be found to convince this portion of our people that the navy is not merely an expense, but an economic asset to the country and a good business investment of the taxpayers' money, it would go a long way toward a solution of the situation, and would do much to win them from a position of active objection to one of absolute encouragement of a proper naval construction programme. The greatest economic loss to the country from the navy, be it necessary or unnecessary, lies not in the money spent, but in the 50,000 men taken from gainful industrial pursuits; for the money spent on the navy, it must not be forgotten, goes back again into the taxpayers' pockets to a very large extent. The navy is not like the rich American who goes abroad to spend his money, but the funds appropriated are used to pay American workmen and American merchants and American manufacturers, and is, in time, distributed among other American citizens, so that, in the end, practically all of it gets back into the taxpayers' pockets from which it came; but if the country loses the productive services annually of 50,000 men, it is a real economic loss without compensation.
>
> Now, it is practically universally admitted by students of economics and political economy that the best investment a great and powerful nation like our own can make is in the education of its young men, particularly along industrial lines, and that the nation which has the most efficient and well-trained citizens, skilled to use their heads as well as their hands, is most certain to win in the fierce competition for the world's industrial supremacy. On this point the theorists and legislative bodies of the great nations of the world are agreed, if the legislation in all these countries in the last few years means anything.

MAYO'S ACT BALKED TAMPICO FEDERALS

Rebel Forces Were About to Unite with Them When He Withdrew from the River.

EXPLAINED BY DANIELS

Safety of Americans and Other Foreigners Assured by Removal of United States Squadron.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—An official explanation of the reasons which impelled Admiral Mayo to withdraw his warships from the river at Tampico was given out at the Navy Department to-night. Some of the refugees from Tampico and its environs were quoted, upon their arrival at New Orleans, as having criticised the withdrawal of the American vessels.

The statement issued to-day showed that Admiral Mayo's action was justified by the results and that it was in the interest of Americans in Tampico for the warships to withdraw after an arrangement had been made with the commander of the British vessels at Tampico to ferry the refugees down the river from the town to the American vessels.

The explanation of Admiral Mayo's action issued by Secretary Daniels tonight said:

"The reason for withdrawing the naval forces under Admiral Mayo from Tampico was that Admiral Mayo was informed by persons intimately in touch with the situation at Tampico that it was necessary for the safety of all foreigners that the United States naval vessels should not be near the town. He was informed that the Mexicans apparently considered war on, that the Federal and Constitutionalist forces were exchanging overtures to unite again Americans, and that the presence of United States ships near Tampico would almost surely cause the two forces to combine. The British naval captain volunteered to send out all Americans, and, therefore, Admiral Mayo decided that it was in the best interests of Americans at Tampico that his ships should not be at Tampico.

"Admiral Badger agreed entirely with Admiral Mayo, and so reported to the department. The department in view of this information, and further information in its possession, endorsed the action of Admiral Mayo. Results have justified the action taken.

"The situation at Tampico is now satisfactory to the American Government. An official announcement to-night says that Admiral Badger, wiring from Vera Cruz at 5 A. M. Tuesday, quotes Admiral Mayo, who reported the situation at Tampico on Monday at 9 P. M. as follows:

> Situation here unchanged. Will have thirty-seven refugees more to-morrow. Constitutionalist attack appears to continue. There was some heavy gun firing to-day. The Federals are making further overtures to the Constitutionalists for a combination of forces against the United States. The Spanish steamer Montevideo sailed this afternoon to Vera Cruz with refugees.

EL PASO SEIZED—ON PAPER.

And Mexican Generals in the Best Hotel, Says El Imparcial.

EL PASO, Texas, April 28.—A copy of the Mexican newspaper El Imparcial received here to-day tells of the "capture" of El Paso by the combined forces of Gen. Velasco, the Federal leader, and Gen. Villa.

The story, under date of last Thursday, says that the Americans were surprised and overwhelmed, and that Villa and Velasco established headquarters in the leading hotel.

Netgotiations ensued, the inspired story says, as a result of which the frightened Americans ceded the southern half of the city back to Mexico.

WILSON PRAISES A PATRIOT.

President's Letter to Georgian Who Lost Brother at Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, April 28. — President Wilson was heartened to-day by a letter written by L. W. Summerlin of Willacoochee, Ga., brother of Randolph Summerlin, one of the marines killed at Vera Cruz. Mr. Summerlin had been asked by a newspaper for an interview on the uselessness of mediation, in view of the lives already sacrificed.

"I believe President Wilson is right and favor his policy," wrote Mr. Summerlin, "and Randolph has four brothers and a father who stand ready to make the same sacrifice. If we could not be loyal to our country and our President, we would move out."

The President wrote to Mr. Summerlin as follows:

> My Dear Mr. Summerlin: My attention has just been called to your correspondence with regard to the death of your brother at Vera Cruz. It has moved me very much. It rings so true and has such a genuine note of patriotism in it, and the deep feeling which makes citizenship in this country so noble a thing.
>
> No one was more distressed than I at the loss of life at Vera Cruz, and I sympathize with you and your father and brothers most deeply. It is the more gratifying to find the noble spirit in which you take the loss because I know what it must have cost you to lose a gallant brother like yours.

F. J. SPLITSTONE IS SAFE.

Leslie's Receives Word That Its Managing Editor Is in Mexico City.

Frederick J. Splitstone, managing editor of Leslie's Weekly, who was arrested by Federal soldiers in Mexico, and for whom fears were expressed, is safe in Mexico City. John A. Sleicher, editor of Leslie's, yesterday received this telegram from Mr. Splitstone:

"Mexico City, April 26.—Arrived Mexico yesterday. Time of leaving uncertain. Notify family."

In response to a message sent to Mexico City a few days ago by F. L. E. Gauss, general manager of Leslie's, asking for news of Mr. Splitstone, this reply was received yesterday:

"Mexico City, April 28.—A few days ago Mr. Fred J. Splitstone arrived in this city. He enjoys absolute safety and has our perfect esteem. His address is 'Hotel Lascurain, Hombres Ilustres, 59, Federal District.'

HALF RATES FOR REFUGEES.

Commerce Commission Permits Railroads to Make Concessions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28. — Railroad companies with lines extending to the Mexican border have obtained permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to give reduced rates to the State Department for the transportation of American refugees from Mexico.

A fund of $500,000 to bring refugees away was placed at President Wilson's disposal by Congress last week at the President's request.

U. S. BUYS 995 HORSES.

East St. Louis Firm Gets Contract for Mounts—Mule Bids Too High.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 28.—The War Department has accepted the bid of an East St. Louis firm to furnish 995 horses for the cavalry and artillery. The prices range from $161 to $165 a head, and the total price will be about $165,000.

Bids for 250 mules at $200 to $260, submitted by an East St. Louis firm, were rejected because the prices were deemed too high.

Cable Business with Vera Cruz.

J. F. Nathan, Commercial Superintendent of the Western Union in New York City, sent out a bulletin to all Western Union officials last night stating that "messages in any language and business messages in code may now be accepted for Vera Cruz." This does not indicate, however, that the censorship has been lifted in Mexico City.

MILITIA PROFITING BY PEACE MOVES

Will Be Stronger and Act Quicker if the Call to Service Comes.

WHOLE GUARD BETTER OFF

Hundreds of Recruits Have Been Gained and Officers Have Had Valuable Experience.

War preparations in the regular army and the National Guard in this State went on yesterday while those in charge speculated on the outcome of the peace negotiations. Much of the actual work of putting the troops on a war footing has already been done, but the officers of the national and State branches of defense are still engaged in working out the details.

"How long would it take the National Guard to mobilize?" a staff officer of the Department of the East on Governors Island asked Col. Walton, Adjutant General of the militia, in charge of the headquarters in the Municipal Building. His reply was that within a very few minutes the call could be sent out to every militiaman. Each day sees a diminution in the time it will take the militia to send the call to arms to the rank and file.

Col. M. Gray Zalinski, the Depot Quartermaster, with offices in the Army Building in Whitehall Street, has provisions and equipment ready for placing 50,000 men in service, and he has perfected plans by which, with the calling of troops in the East, he could within a few hours obtain supplies for twice that number. All that the officers of the Quartermaster's Department and the medical branch of the service are waiting for is the command which will set the machinery of their offices in motion.

With the National Guard, the planning has been not only the actual getting ready of the commands, but the officers seek to profit by the experiences of 1898 and to assemble without the quibbling, misunderstandings, and mistakes which marked the beginning of the war with Spain.

Under Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan are four brigade commanders, Gen. George R. Dyer, First Brigade, Manhattan; Gen. John G. Eddy, Second Brigade, Brooklyn; Gen. James W. Lester, Third Brigade, Albany, and Gen. Samuel M. Welch, Fourth Brigade, Buffalo. Upon these men is falling the responsibility for the assembling of their commands and transportation to the mobilization camp if the call comes.

Recruiting among the various military units of the city continued yesterday, but there was lacking a measure of enthusiasm which was so noticeable when the first news of the trouble at Vera Cruz was received.

Col. William C. Bates, commanding the Seventy-first Regiment, announced yesterday that twenty-five recruits had been added to the roster of the regiment. He said that during the last two weeks more than 300 men had applied at the regimental headquarters for enlistment. The regiment is now 925 strong, and in the event of a call for service, the officers say, it can be quickly recruited to a strength of 125 in each of the twelve companies.

Col. W. B. Hotchkin of the Twenty-second Engineers reported that every company of his command was increasing its strength, and that its present strength was 825 officers and men. The war standing of the regiment will be 2,000 officers and men.

This is the report, with modifications, from every armory in the New York Division. Whether there comes a call for active service or not, it is the militia that is getting the benefit of the war fervor and the wave of patriotic feeling. If the war preparations end and mediation succeeds the militia will have gained much. The officers have had a glimpse of the actual work entailed in getting on a war basis. The commissary, Quartermaster, medical and hospital services have all been helped by this preparedness and working out of details. Hundreds of recruits have filled up the ranks, and the National Guard, it is said at headquarters, is better and stronger to-day than it was a month ago.

Six machine guns of the Benet-Mercie pattern arrived yesterday at Squadron A Armory, Ninety-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, from the United States Arsenal at Watervliet, N. Y. The guns are of the latest pattern and fire from six to seven hundred bullets a minute. The cartridges are .30 calibre, the same as used in the new army Springfield.

Commander Russell Raynor of the First Battalion Naval Militia, with headquarters in the Granite State, and Lieut. Commander Charles O. Brinckerhoff of the Second Battalion of Brooklyn, both report that they are prepared to man the gunboats now in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. There are 425 men in the Second Battalion and 650 in the First. It is believed their services will not be required to man the gunboats now in the navy yard, as there are plenty of regular navy men available to send out the gunboats Marietta, Machias, and Isla de Luzon, which, with others, might be added to the special service squadron under Rear Admiral Cameron McRea Winslow.

It is said that the naval militiamen could be ready to board ship on forty-eight hours' notice. The Naval Reserve is under the direct charge of the Navy Department, and is not a part of the State Militia command under Gen. O'Ryan. Its status, if called upon for foreign service, will be the same. The commander of this branch of the Naval Reserve service in New York State is Commodore R. P. Forshew.

Commander Russell Raynor, commanding the First Battalion, said that the work of recruiting was being actively carried on.

"We are ready to ship at a moment's notice," he added.

WANTS CUBAN SURGEONS.

Gen. Wood Seeking Doctors Familiar with Tropical Diseases.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 28.—It is announced here that Major Gen. Leonard Wood is seeking Cuban surgeons for service in the American Army in the event of an invasion of Mexico, because of their familiarity with diseases in Southern climates and their knowledge of the Spanish language.

President Menocal will ask to be allowed to detail several Cuban officers to accompany the United States Army in the event of an invasion.

Why you should care for your Throat Daily •

From an article in "The Lancet."
March 28th, 1908.
"The sole object of a medicinal lozenge is to keep part of the mouth or throat one desires to treat bathed for a time in a drug dissolved in the saliva. I know of only one medicated lozenge—FORMAMINT—which meets the requirement."

Dr. Wm. Lee Howard,
The well-known medical author, writes: "I have no hesitation in stating that in Formamint we have a remedy that is invaluable in keeping the mouth and air passages free from germ infection."

Free Sample Offer
Send a 2-cent stamp to pay postage and we will gladly send you a free trial tube. It is of generous size and will prove to you that Formamint is wonderfully effective as well as pleasant in mouth and throat troubles.

YOU can now give the same daily attention to your throat as to your teeth; and throat care is even more important than tooth care.

The throat is the great breeding place for infectious germs which lodge there when inhaled from the dusty air and often invade the body to cause influenza or other infectious fevers. Sometimes they attack their breeding ground itself and give rise to sore throat or tonsilitis.

Throat specialists and the medical profession generally have hailed with great acclaim

Wulfing's
Formamint
THE GERM-KILLING THROAT TABLET

on account of its simplicity and efficiency. Formamint is a delicately flavored tablet, which is sucked like candy, setting free a powerful, yet harmless germicide, turning the saliva into an antiseptic liquid which bathes the entire living membrane of mouth and throat.

To overcome sore throat and so forestall worse evils—or to prevent it altogether—you should use Formamint regularly. Its use is a pleasure, and the cleanliness produced is a safeguard and a source of personal satisfaction.

EVERY COAL CAMP IN COLORADO MINING DISTRICT IN REVOLT

WILSON SENDS TROOPS TO COLORADO

soon as the troops of the United States have reached the scene and are ready to take over the necessary control.

WOODROW WILSON.

Colorado members of Congress who have been following the situation closely say the mere presence of Federal troops will restore normal conditions and prevent rioting.

Suggests Federal Ownership.

Representative J. W. Bryan, a Progressive, of Washington, offered a plan in the House to-day looking to Government ownership of the mines in the Colorado strike district as a means of settling the difficulties there. He introduced a bill which provided not only for the confiscation of the property, but which would authorize and direct the President to employ Federal troops to quiet the disturbance. Mr. Bryan thinks that this drastic action could be brought about under the constitutional interpretation of "promoting the general welfare."

An appropriation of $10,000,000 is called for as a starter by the author of the bill, who has stipulated that the President shall by private purchase take up all of the stock of the corporation at the actual value of the stock, having regard to the proportion that this value bears to the actual physical value of the property.

The measure is worded in peculiar terms. Following the usual "be it enacted" preface, it continues with a statement that "a state of anarchy and insurrection against the Constitution and laws of the United States" exists in Colorado. It then provides:

> That law and order must be re-established, constitutional rights must be respected, and the general welfare of the people of the State of Colorado and the United States must be observed.
> To that end the President is hereby authorized and directed to use the army of the United States to restore order and respect for law in the said regions. The President is further authorized and directed, as Commander in Chief of the Army of the United States, to dispossess the said John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and all persons claiming to own or control the mines or property used for mining purposes and under the control of the said interests, and to begin at once, after the nature and capacity of a receiver of the said property and the said interests, to operate the said mines and properties in all respects as could or should be done by the said interests under normal conditions, marketing the output of said mines and giving employment to all who are needed in the operation of said mines, plants, enterprises of said individual corporations and the interests referred to herein.

It is provided, further, that the President would have all the powers and rights of a Board of Directors. The condemnation proceedings would be instituted by the Attorney General. The parties named as being the owners or in control of the mines include the Rockefellers, father and son, the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, the Colorado Industrial Company, the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company, the Grand River Coal and Coke Company, and the Pueblo Realty Trust Company.

The bill was referred to the Military Affairs Committee.

EVERY COAL CAMP IN REVOLT.

Fighting Despite President's Action and Governor's Proclamation.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., April 28.—Every coal camp in the State of Colorado is in revolt to-night as Federal troops, ordered out by President Wilson to take charge of the situation, are on their way to the disaffected districts. News of the ordering of Federal soldiers to the field apparently has had little effect on the strikers, and the mine guards who have been engaged in battle for a week.

From north and south reports of uprisings poured into the Executive until the Governor issued a proclamation in which he asserted the supreme power of the Chief Executive under the full force of the Moyer decision, and virtually placed the State under martial law.

The proclamation said the State authorities had but one desire, "to restore and maintain order," and declared that until this was accomplished "there can be no machinery to secure justice in the courts."

The Governor said the militia had been in the field for nearly six months, "were there to restore law and order" and for no other purpose, and were not interested in the outcome of the strike. He cited the fact that until he left for Washington, about ten days ago, "not a single person had been killed by the militia because of the strike, and only two altogether—one by accident and one a fugitive from justice."

The proclamation declared "there need be no further bloodshed if the strikers will quit and return to their homes. If they refuse, every available power will be brought to bear to compel them to do so." The proclamation concludes:

> Peace officers throughout the State are urged to arrest and hold for conspiracy every man caught collecting arms or ammunition to ship to any part of the State, calling for volunteers, or organizing companies of men to be used against the constituted authorities of the State.

"There is no hidden meaning in the proclamation," said the Governor. "It applies to all alike, including mine guards. All we want is peace and order, and we will have it if we have to fight for it."

In reference to two companies being formed by the Cigarmakers' Union and the Building Trades Council in Denver, he said that these proclamations called for the acquiring of arms legally. That raises the question as to what constitutes the legal acquision of arms.

Norton Montgomery, Deputy Attorney General, said that if the result of the call was an over act, that was treason in the eyes of the law. Whether a call to arms under existing conditions was in itself an overt act was a matter upon which he would not express an opinion. When asked if action against anyone would be taken at this time he replied that the present was too momentous a crisis to discuss that question.

Col. Lee late to-day confiscated twenty high power rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition which he took from an automobile in which W. T. Hickey, Secretary of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, was driving toward Louisville.

Following accounts of the fierce fighting at Louisville, the Governor ordered 100 men sent at once from Canon City, where they went yesterday to quell the Chandler disturbance, to Boulder County. At the same time a hurry call was sent forth for every guardsman in the northern counties to rally to the State colors and resume service.

Not a man dare be moved from the western slope, according to Col. Leo Lee, Assistant Adjutant General, who said that fear of trouble at Durango and Crested Butte prevented the removal of the troops stationed in that portion of Colorado. The possibility of further turbulence in Routt County has also prevented summoning any militiamen from that section.

What result the arrival of Federal troops will have is uncertain. Gov. Ammons said to-night he would respect the President's request and withdraw the State Militia as soon as the regular soldiers reached the scenes in the various turbulent zones. In his opinion not a shot would be fired when the Federal companies arrived. Hawkins and Lawson, speaking for the unions, declared the strikers would welcome the United States soldiers.

Firing was begun at La Veta, a few miles south of Walsenburg, to-night. La Veta was the only peaceable camp in the State at noon. To-night there is not one where strikers are not arrayed against mine guards or against State militiamen.

The most serious fighting of the day was at Walsenburg and at Louisville. Three mines were attacked by strikers at Walsenburg early in the morning following the burning of the McNally mine at the outskirts of the city by strikers last night.

District Attorney Acts.

A special grand jury has been summoned by District Attorney Carlson for Boulder to investigate the rioting there. He has sent word to all the constituted authorities in Boulder, Weld and Larimer, which counties come under the jurisdiction of his office, to assemble in Boulder prepared to wage battle against the striking miners in the event that the latter refuse to cease hostilities. Mr. Carlson also telephoned to the union leaders in all the surrounding camps, Lafayette, Superior, Erie and Marshall, warning the strikers there to restore order and to keep to their homes.

In the Trinidad district and at Ludlow near by there has been no actual violence since the truce was formed there days ago, although both the strikers and the militia are lined up and ready for battle on an instant's notice.

The Governor to-day faced another large committee of women. He denied their request for the appointment of a committee of women to go to Ludlow and search the old strikers' tent colony site, where they asserted are more bodies. They told the Governor that [illegible] that other investigating parties had announced no more bodies could be found at the old colony grounds.

USE HOME-MADE CANNON.

Mine Guards Defend Hill with Artillery Fashioned from Shafting.

Special to The New York Times.

WALSENBURG, April 28.—After thirty-six hours of continuous fighting, with two known dead, eight others reported lying dead on the field of battle, and a half-dozen wounded, the fighting is raging to-night in this vicinity more desperately than ever. The fighting began yesterday afternoon at the McNally mine, and during the night spread to the Walsen-Robinson mine on the edge of the town.

The fighting at the Walsenburg mine began last night soon after the McNally mine had been captured by the strikers and its defenders driven out. The seventy-five Walsen guards took their stand on Water Tank Hill, above the mine, where the powerful searchlight installed by the company was operated. A heavy fire from the strikers on surrounding hills was replied to vigorously by the guards.

During the fight at Water Tank Hill, the residents of Walsenburg were startled by reports of artillery. The guards had mounted on the hill two cannon made in the company machine shops. The guns were constructed from eight-inch shafting with three-inch holes bored through.

The guards loaded their improvised artillery through the muzzle with powder and various missiles and fired them at the hills. The miners were shooting with high-power rifles. The successful defense of Water Tank Hill was attributed largely to the effect of the cannon.

Late in the night, while the guards still were pounding the surrounding mountains with artillery and rifle fire, an attack was made on the Walsen mine proper, iside the town limits. Before daylight the fire of the strikers was directed into the camp from the east, west and south.

The fighting continued until about 11 o'clock, when it gradually died away, and most of the strikers disappeared into the more distant hills.

Later they returned, and to-night there is a continuous rattle of small arms punctuated with the roar of the cannon. The militia are all on the firing line on Watertank Hill. The battlefield lies to the south and west of Walsenburg, about three-quarters of a mile.

The "hogback," centre of the strikers' position, is a like formation, 200 feet high, running southwest and northeast for a mile. Just below the "hogback," to the south in the valley, lies the McNally camp that was captured and partially burned by the strikers yesterday afternoon. From the McNally mine across a valley south a half mile is the Watertank Hill, where the guards are making their stand. Below Watertank Hill, 200 yards, lies the Walsen and Robinson camp.

TRINIDAD, Col., April 28.—A dispatch was received late to-day at the offices of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company that the women and children from the Primrose Camp had arrived at the strongly defended mine at Rouse. The message said that Primrose had been warned of an attack by strikers.

BOULDER CITIZENS ARM.

Form Volunteer Companies to March Against the Strikers.

BOULDER, Col., April 28.—One dead and six wounded, two of them fatally, are the known casualties in the fighting at the Hecla Mine at Louisville, which began last night and continued, after a brief truce, until this evening. Six hundred men were engaged in the battle.

During the truce all the women and children, with the men who were working in the mines, were removed to Boulder and Denver, leaving only the mine guards at the property.

The strikers are entrenched on every hill around the Hecla mine, prepared for a renewal of the attack, according to M. M. Rinn, attorney for the mine owners.

The Hecla mine, the property of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company, is about one mile from Louisville, bounded on one side at some distance by a public road, beyond which is a row of houses and cabins. Sheriff Buster in his account of the night's fighting, given by telephone to-day, said the strikers were using these houses and cabins as protection.

For two hours last night the Sheriff was between the lines of fire and took refuge in a store. There came a lull in the shooting and the Sheriff, his Deputy, A. J. Krist, and L. McDonald, former Marshal of Louisville, made a dash and gained the mine inclosure.

Sheriff Buster and County Attorney Harold P. Martin were held prisoners when the strikers surrounded the guards at the mine to-day, but Deputy Sheriffs Greenwood and Clark, on an order from John R. Lawson, district organizer, and other mine workers' officials in Denver went to the sentries and procured their release.

Business men of Boulder and Longmont are organizing volunteer companies to move against the strikers if necessary. The volunteers here are under the leadership of Mayor W. L. Armstrong, former District Judge Harry Gamble, Postmaster J. L. Moorehead, and Dr. George Cattermole, and at Longmont under R. H. Kiteley. Hardware dealers in the two towns turned over their stocks of arms and ammunition. Arrangements were made with the Colorado and Southern Railroad to move the volunteers to Louisville.

Word was received that Sheriff Cook of Larimer County was coming to Boulder with automobiles, gathering up all available arms and ammunition en route.

Plans were completed for sending strong detachments of citizen volunteers to Marshall to protect the Gorham mine and to guard the Industrial mine at Superior.

The train carrying Gen. John Chase and 120 militiamen, which left Denver at 4 o'clock, was reported to have stopped at Webb, two miles from Louisville, and it was said a strong force of miners was moving in that direction.

APPEAL BY DENVER PRESS

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DENVER, Col., April 28.—The Colorado Fuel & Iron Company has sued The Rocky Mountain News, The Denver Times, John C Shaffer, and the managing editor of his papers, for $500,000 damages because they printed news of the massacre of women and children at Ludlow and because they refused to doctor their news on demand of a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

We take the position that this is a fight for the freedom of the press against special interests, and we have appealed in an editorial to-day to the press of the country to watch this case closely.

RAISING FUNDS FOR ARMS.

Anarchist to Aid Strikers—Hebrew Trades Against Sending Troops.

Alexander Berkman, a leader of the Anti-Militarist League of the Anarchists and the I. W. W., said yesterday that the league was putting in operation a new plan to help the striking miners in Colorado. The league, he said, was holding nightly sessions to collect as much money as possible, which would be sent to the miners to buy weapons and ammunition.

The United Hebrew Trades, which is preparing for its May Day demonstration on Friday, adopted resolutions yesterday which had already been passed by the Women's Trade Union League and were submitted to the United Hebrew Trades for indorsement, demanding that Congress refuse to send Federal troops to the Colorado strike regions.

Dr. Isaac A. Hourwich, who was deposed as chief clerk of the Cloakmakers' Union after he had nearly caused a split in the organization, and was at one time a statistician, was heard from again yesterday. He said he was going to ask Congress to start an investigation as to data concerning conditions in the mining regions, which, he said, were collected by a census official and not published.

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Explains Why He Rejected Overtures For Peace.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., after a six-hour conference yesterday with his associates, including Starr J. Murphy, his immediate legal adviser, issued the following statement:

In view of the inaccurate accounts which have appeared in the press regarding my interview yesterday with Congressman Foster, Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining, I think it proper to make the following statement:

In that interview, at which Starr J. Murphy, one of the Directors of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, was present, we pointed out to Dr. Foster that of the many coal companies in Southern Colorado we were interested solely and as minority stockholders in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, which controls only about one-third of the output of that State.

After a long and full discussion of the question in all its aspects, Dr. Foster was unable to make any suggestion which did not involve the unionizing of the mines or the submission of that question to arbitration. We stated to him that if the employes of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company had any grievances, we felt sure that the officers of the company would be willing now, as they have always been in the past, to make every effort to adjust them satisfactorily. We showed the doctor that all of the points which are claimed to be at issue, with the exception of unionizing the camps, the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company had voluntarily granted to its employes long before the strike was called or talked of.

Concessions Already Granted.

These points are:

First—The eight hour day. This was established by the fuel company for all of its coal miners some time ago.

Second—Semi-monthly pay. When this question was raised by one or two miners in one of the camps of the company, the officers at once studied the question and without delay decided to pay not only the miners in that particular camp twice a month, but all of the miners employed by the company.

Third—Check weighmen. For several years the Fuel Company has raised no objection to the employment by the miners of their own check weighmen, as is done in Eastern mines where union labor is employed. In order that new men might understand their right in this matter, some time since the officers of the company gave instructions that circulars should be posted in all the mines, stating that the company had always encouraged its miners to employ their own check weighmen.

Fourth—Company stores. It has been charged that the employes of the Fuel Company are obliged to buy at the company's stores. The storekeepers are under strict instructions to say to all that they are at liberty to trade where they please; that the company is glad of their patronage, but that their standing will not be affected one way or the other by their action in the matter. As a result of a study made in one of the mining camps of the company, it was found that only 22 per cent. of the wages of the men was spent in the company's stores.

Fifth—Wages. In spite of the fact that no dividends have been paid on the common stocks of the company since our connection with it—a matter of at least ten or twelve years—and only $780,000 has been paid on the preferred stock, of which the greater portion represented payment on account of an accrued dividend which had accumulated during many years, the company voluntarily increased the wages of its miners last year by a total amounting to $300,000 a year, and of its steel employes by a total of $250,000 a year. The wage scale compares favorably with that of any similar mines, whether union or non-union, in any part of the country.

In addition to the above, the only matter which has been raised by the union is the unionizing of the company's camps. On this question of the open shop, namely, the right of every American citizen to work on terms satisfactory to himself without securing the consent of the union, I reiterated to Dr. Foster what I had said in may examination before the Committee on Mines and Mining in Washington a few weeks ago—that we regarded this as a matter of principle, which could not be arbitrated.

In reply to his request for some suggestion as to how the strike could be terminated, we said to Dr. Foster that if the President would make a public statement that the Federal troops were being sent to Colorado for the purpose of enforcing obedience to the law and securing to every citizen the right guaranteed to him by the Constitution to be protected in life and liberty, whether he chooses to work as a member of a union or not, it would go far to terminate the deplorable conditions which now exist.

It was a source of profound regret to us that our conference with Dr. Foster did not result in any suggestion looking toward a solution of the difficulty.

Responsibility for the Trouble.

The effort has been made to place the responsibility for the continuation of this strike upon us as individual owners of stock in one of the mining companies involved. As outlined above, in our talk with Dr. Foster, the record of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company in providing for its employes, long before the strike, the very things for which the union is ostensibly contending, should make it clear that the only point at issue, so far as the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company is concerned, is that of unionizing, and unionizing at the behest, not of our employes, less than 10 per cent. of whom were union men, but at the demand of an outside body. This, as I have said, is a matter of principle which we could not concede or arbitrate.

In order to correct an impression which seems to have gained currency, I desire to re-state what was fully stated in the Congressional examination, namely, our position with reference to organized labor. We do not question the right of any workmen to freely associate themselves in unions for the furtherance of their common and legitimate interests, but we do assert the equal right of an individual to work independently of a union if he so elects. We are contending against the right of unions to impose themselves upon an industry by force, by assault and murder, and not against the right of men to organize for their mutual benefit.

The impression has been created that if we would agree to submit to the unionizing of the camps of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company this entire trouble would be ended. The public generally does not seem to consider whether or not this is a right or fair demand and in the interest of the employes of the company as a whole. What would become of the great majority of its workers were such surrender to be made? All of its loyal non-union employes, numbering several thousands, more than 90 per cent. of the total number employed in the mines, who have been faithful and true to its interests, would be thrown out of employment unless willing to submit as individuals to union dictation. Is it the spirit of American fair play which is asking such ruthless disregard of the interests of honest men, or is it the spirit of partisanship and self-seeking?

But the issue is not one of merely local importance. It affects every workingman throughout this land. The fact that labor unions represent but a very small minority of the workers of the entire country seems to be lost sight of by those who urge the termination of this local difficulty at the price of surrender to union domination. Surely, no thinking man can ask, much less expect, that we will abandon our own employes and the cause of the workers of the entire country because violence and wholesale slaughter are brought about by an element which has come to regard itself as above and beyond the reach of the law.

Are the labor unions, representing a small minority of the workers of the country, to be sustained in their disregard of the inalienable right of every American citizen to work without interference, whether he be a union or a non-union man? Surely the vast majority of American citizens will, without fear or favor, stand for even-handed justice under the Constitution and equal rights for every citizen.

But there is a final aspect of this grave matter which deserves more than all else the attention of the American public in this crisis; whether the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company and the other operators have been wholly free from blame or not in the present controversy, the issue now to be decided is whether the State, or failing the State, the nation shall make good the constitutional guarantee of law and order. At the present moment in Colorado funds are being openly raised and citizens are being armed with the avowed purpose of resisting the authorities of the State. Since that issue of resistance to constituted authority is raised it is unthinkable that the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, or any of the companies operating in the State should be asked to yield its position on a preliminary and now extraneous matter of dispute, as the price of securing the withdrawal of forces armed to combat their own Government.

President's Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, It is provided by the Constitution of the United States that the United States shall protect every State in this Union, on application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence; and

Whereas, The Governor of the State of Colorado has represented that domestic violence exists in said State which the authorities of said State are unable to suppress; and has represented that it is impossible to convene the Legislature of the State in time to meet the present emergency; and

Whereas, The laws of the United States require that in all cases of insurrection in any State or of obstruction to the laws thereof, whenever in the judgment of the President it becomes necessary to use the military forces to suppress such insurrection or obstruction to the laws, he shall forthwith by proclamation command such insurgents to disperse, and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within a limited time:

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, do hereby admonish all good citizens of the United States, and all persons within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States against aiding, countenancing, abetting, or taking part in such unlawful proceedings; and I do hereby warn all persons engaged in or connected with said domestic violence and obstruction of the laws to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes on or before the 30th day of April, instant.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at this city of Washington, this twenty-eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and fourteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-eighth.

WOODROW WILSON.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN,
Secretary of State.

GAS EXPLODES IN TWIN MINES

lowered down the shaft of No. 6 mine. For a time the steadily growing crowd of frightened women and children waited in suspense, but soon the signal came to hoist away and the cage responded. It bore two men badly hurt, a few o fthe rescue party, and two bodies.

The other trips were made as rapidly as possible, and each time blackened and burned miners were brought to the surface. The injured were assisted to near-by houses, where physicians waited to care for them.

The rescued men expressed doubt whether the remaining thirteen miners in No. 6 would be taken out alive. Some of the men stated that portions of No. 5 mine were badly wrecked, and they believed that the entrance connecting with No. 5 mine had been completely destroyed. Half the miners employed are Americans, the remainder being negroes and foreigners.

A Government rescue car reached the mines from Bluefield, West Va., at 5 o'clock and another will arrive here from Pittsburgh, Penn., at noon to-morrow.

The rescue parties worked with all their might during the evening directing their efforts to Mine 5, where the 190 men were entombed. Nothwithstanding the feverish haste of the rescuers, they could make little progress because of the intense heat and gases.

Fan and Air Circuit Put In.

Men on the rescue car from Bluefields installed a new fan and an air circuit in No. 5, which will permit the rescue work to be done more safely, and gives rise to the possibility that by early to-morrow morning some of the victims can be reached. To tear away the fallen timbers and make the underground passages safe for the rescuers requires a great deal of time.

Two carloads of coffins have been ordered from Cincinnati, and will arrive at Eccles by the time the bodies of the entombed victims can be moved.

The mines are operated by the Guggenheim interests, and have been considered among the safest in the West Virginia fields.

The disaster is the first of considerable extent in West Virginia for several years. It is probable that it is second only in fatalities to the Monongahela horror in December, 1907, when 366 miners lost their lives.

While the loss of life here will be heavy, there is a relief for the families of the victims that was not in force when former disasters occurred. The new workmen's compensation act provides $20 a month for the widows of the dead, and each of the surviving children, not to exceed three, is entitled to $5 a month.

The four bodies taken from Mine No. 6, although somewhat burned, were examined late to-night. Death in each case was due to suffocation, an indication that the deadly gases did their work before the flames.

A search of Mine No. 6 has failed to disclose the men known to be in that operation. It is believed their bodies will be found under débris.

PICKETS TO HAUNT J.D.ROCKEFELLER,JR.

UPTON SINCLAIR'S IDEA

The offices of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at 26 Broadway, will be picketed this morning by men and women in funeral garb in an attempt "to carry home to the young Standard Oil millionaire the message of the suffering miners in Colorado," provided plans made last night by Upton Sinclair and other strike sympathizers at the Liberal Club are carried out.

The primary reason for the picketing is that the younger Mr. Rockefeller declined yesterday to meet Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair and Mrs. Laura Cannon, wife of an organizer of the United Mine Workers on duty in the Colorado strike district.

It was their purpose on this visit, Mr. Sinclair explained last night in asking for volunteers for the picket line at 26 Broadway, to "make sure that Mr. Rockefeller knew at first hand of the Colorado atrocities as Mrs. Cannon had become familiar with them."

Mr. Sinclair further explained that he had made the visit in the hope of being able to do peaceably something which would relieve him from what had become an almost overpowering temptation "to wait for Mr. Rockefeller at the entrance of his office and publicly horsewhip him."

Mr. Sinclair is blue-eyed, fair-haired, and weighs perhaps 135 or 140 pounds. His eyes flashed and twenty women and seven men applauded as Mr. Sinclair told of the terrible time he had to prevent his impulsive nature from running away with him and forcing him into an attempt to horsewhip Mr. Rockefeller.

"And if I had horsewhipped him, as I fully intended to do when I arose yesterday morning," he lisped, "why then I would have gone to jail quite happily, and would have at once gone on hunger strike. I would have remained on hunger strike until the Colorado situation was adjusted."

The plan for establishing a picket line in front of the Rockefeller offices, as finally agreed upon by Mr. Sinclair and his auditors, calls for six persons to take up a post in front of 26 Broadway at 10 o'clock this morning. All will wear big bunches of black crepe. None will speak to any passerby or attempt to distribute literature or display any banner.

"I realize that the police will be very sensitive to any action reflecting on Mr. Rockefeller," Mr. Sinclair explained in urging the need for refraining from speaking or passing handbills. "They can arrest us if we pass handbills. They can arrest us if we stop in a group. So we must keep moving. We can shift our force of six picketers each hour and we must keep the watch up all through the night. We must let Rockefeller, Jr., know that we are never off the job; that his office is never without the presence there of the mourners for the Colorado dead among the miners."

Sinclair organized his picketing movement between 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Rockefeller refused to see him, and 11 o'clock last night, when half of those whom he invited to come to the Liberal Club to consider it, withdrew because they disagreed with the plan, and the group of women, with a few men, agreed to see the movement through.

He read to his friends, as he called those who agreed to join him, two notes upon which, he said, his action was based. These notes he had sent to Mr. Rockefeller during the day. To the first, which asked for an audience and an opportunity to explain the situation in Colorado, there had been a courteous verbal answer to the effect that Mr. Rockefeller sympathized with the miners in Colorado and those attempting to help them, but could not yield on the open-shop principle. To the second he reported that a clerk had brought back the message: "No answer."

In the second note Mr. Sinclair sent to Mr. Rockefeller this warning and statement of his intentions:

> You have refused to see us, and I wish to make this last appeal to you, and at the same time to present you with a solemn warning that I intend to indict you for murder before the people of this country. The charges will be pressed, and I think the verdict will be "Guilty."
>
> I cannot believe that a man who dares to lead a service in a Christian church can be cognizant and therefore guilty of the crimes that have been committed under your authority. I therefore make this last appeal to you. Do not turn us away, but let us tell you what we know. You will find us quiet and courteous people. We ask nothing but a friendly talk with you. We ask that in the names of tens of thousands of men, women, and children who are at this minute suffering the most dreadful wrongs directly because of the authority which you personally have given.

The insurrection against the Sinclair plan was led by Frederick Sumner Boyd, who gained notoriety as a riot leader during the strike at the Paterson silk mills.

When Mr. Sinclair unfolded his picketing plan and told of the precautions he proposed to take so as not to incite the police to action, Boyd shouted that such a plan was not to his liking. He urged that a recruiting office be opened and that all the arms and ammunition the strike sympathizers could buy be shipped to Colorado "for use by the fighting miners." He also urged that all who wished to go out there as fighters be sent on to help in the war.

This proposal caused shudders among the Sinclair adherents, and Mr. Sinclair hastily proposed that Boyd lead all of his followers out into another room and hold a meeting there entirely independent of his. Boyd and half of those present sneered heartily at the boyish looking Socialist author, and withdrew, slamming the door behind them.

Among those who pledged support to Sinclair were Crystal Eastman, Paul Kennady, Rev. Alexander Irvine, Edna Kenton, Bouck White, Fred Warren, and most of the women members of the Liberal Club.

Lincoln Steffens, who arrived at the Liberal Club while the meeting was in progress, chose to take a position outside with the dissenters. The room in which the dissenters met was referred to by those inside the Sinclair meeting as "the violent ward." What the dissenters decided on was not permitted to become known outside.

Police Commissioner Woods said last night, when his attention was called to Mr. Sinclair's proposed picketing of Mr. Rockefeller's office, that he did not care to say what action, if any, he would take in the matter.

MRS. SHAW LOSES SUIT.

Court Refuses Marriage Annulment to Wife of Banker.

Mrs. Katherine Lyall Shaw lost her suit yesterday to have her marriage to Robert Marsden Shaw annulled. After listening to testimony all day yesterday, Justice Bijur, in the Supreme Court, decided the case in favor of Mr. Shaw. The suit was brought on the ground that Mrs. Shaw had not lived with her husband after her eighteenth birthday, which occurred on Dec. 15 last. Mr. Shaw is a banker and broker.

Then came developments in rapid-fire fashion. It came out that Mrs. Shaw had dined with Mr. Darling in this city in December, and had not arrived at her home in Morristown, N. J., until the early morning hours. Later Mrs. Shaw disappeared and she was traced to White Plains, whither she had accompanied Mr. Darling. Mr. Shaw began suit against Mr. Darling for alienating his wife's affections, but this was dropped. Then proceedings were begun against Mr. Darling on the ground that he was with Mrs. Shaw in a White Plains hotel from Dec. 31 to Jan. 7, although they had occupied separate rooms. He was indicted for violating the Mann White Slave act, and is now out on bail on this charge.

Mrs. Shaw was in the witness chair for an hour yesterday trying her hardest to get rid of her husband. But the tide set against her from the start. She admitted she was with Mr. Darling in the hotel at White Plains. Then Joseph A. Shay, counsel for her husband, asked:

"Are you fond of intoxicating liquors?"

"No," snapped Mrs. Shaw.

"Didn't you write affectionate letters to Mr. Darling?"

"I did not."

Mr. Shay showed Mrs. Shaw a letter she had written which began, "Dear Dickey." Mrs. Shaw dropped her eyes and said shyly:

"That was indiscreet, but it was not wrong."

"Didn't you put away highballs while you were with Mr. Darling?"

New York County Clerk Urges Special Primary Message.

County Clerk William F. Schneider wrote to William Church Osborn, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, yesterday, in reference to the latter's statement to John H. McCooey about the necessity of giving to the enrolled Democrats of Kings County an opportunity of freely expressing their will at the coming primary.

"Do you imagine," asks Mr. Schneider in the letter, "that enrolled Democrats not members of the Tammany machine are going to contest primaries which are not in the least safeguarded and under a law where the Inspectors' returns are final, and with no penalty attached for fraud?"

Mr. Schneider said that independent Democrats would not participate in primaries until the amendments suggested by Gov. Glynn—the signature and challenge provision, with bi-partisan Boards of Election—are on the statute books. These amendments were passed by the Assembly, but were rejected by the Senate. Mr. Schneider said that so long as district leaders can name Inspectors under orders from the boss, those Democrats not depending upon an invisible government for a living would refuse to take part in the primaries.

The letter tells Mr. Osborn that it is his duty to urge the Governor to send in a special message asking for the passage of the amendments, so that the Democratic Party could unite this Fall for aggressive and progressive principles instead of spending the time apologizing for past blunders.

Claims Against Currie Realty Co.

Forty-five judgment foreclosures obtained in the Queens County Court by the United Assets Corporation against the Currie Realty Company were filed with the Queens County Clerk in Jamaica yesterday. The judgments aggregate $500,000. The Currie Company started a land developing scheme in the vicinity of Fourteenth Avenue in Astoria. It is said the assets will meet the judgments.

G. B. SHAW BASHFUL, DECLARES HIS WIFE

Also Retiring—A Great Man and a Dreamer of Wonderful Dreams.

THINKS WOMEN SHOULD RULE

Sympathizes with the Methods of the Militant Suffragists, and So Does Mrs. Shaw, She Says.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 28.—"Bashful" and "retiring" are two of the adjectives with which Mrs. George Bernard Shaw described her husband in an interview here to-night.

Mrs. Shaw drew a word picture of the author and dramatist reluctantly, "for a woman shouldn't testify for or against her husband, you know," she explained.

It was the first time Mrs. Shaw had consented to talk for an American newspaper. Arriving in this country—her first visit here—from England about two weeks ago, she had since been traveling with Lena Ashwell, the English actress, and hiding from all interviewers when a Boston Post reporter found her at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Morgan in the Hotel Tudor.

"And so you Americans have strange opinions of my husband?" Mrs. Shaw said laughingly. "Well, few persons do understand Mr. Shaw. He is a great man, a dreamer of wonderful dreams, an idealist and an individualist who is always striving and working to lift others to the high plane of his own thoughts and beliefs.

"Mr. Shaw goes so far as to believe that all government should be by women. He believes women are more capable of management than men, and he is a thorough feminist. Women, he says, should be placed on all governing boards."

An artist, who was sketching Mrs. Shaw, broke in with a question. He asked if Mr. Shaw or Mrs. Shaw sympathized with the militant methods of Mrs. Pankhurst.

"Why, of course," came the quick response. "Mrs. Pankhurst is a wonderful woman. Still, while I am an ardent suffragist myself, I am not a militant. But we have to have militants in England in order to call the attention of the British people to the cause. Otherwise the newspapers would not recognize us."

Mrs. Shaw recalled the incident of the mutilation of the Rokeby "Venus," the famous Velasquez in the National Gallery in London, by a suffragist. She approved of the act.

"The woman showed remarkable good taste in picking out that picture," said Mrs. Shaw. "She passed by many valuable ones and picked that one—one not liked, one which it is very doubtful that Valasquez painted."

Another query caused Mrs. Shaw to speak of her husband's advocacy of socialism.

"Why is it that your husband has not answered the attacks of that other ardent Socialist, H. G. Wells?" Mrs. Shaw was asked.

"I do not know that Mr. Wells has attacked him," she replied, adding: "My husband always replies to those who attack him. I never knew him not to do so."

"Perhaps it was another Socialist."

"I cannot answer that. So many persons attack my husband that it would be much easier for me to tell you who has not attacked him."

"He is a bashful and retiring man by nature," she repeated, "but he never leaves unanswered those who attack him. He is a prodigious worker, and always seeking to lift the world to his own level."

"Perhaps it might be well to talk of yourself for a few minutes, Mrs. Shaw," interrupted Mr. Morgan at this moment.

"I am a Socialist and a suffragist and devote most of my time to those causes, writing much for them," she said. "Then I am on the governing board of the Fabian Society, and that keeps me pretty busy.

"I became interested in Socialism myself about thirty years ago. At that time neither Oxford nor Cambridge taught economics. With others I started a school of economics in London. It was very successful and grew exceedingly fast. The school exists today, and is now connected with the University of London, and I am a member of the Board of Governors."

I. T. U. BALLOTS HELD UP.

Candidate for President Gets Restraining Order.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 28.—A temporary restraining order enjoining the officers of the International Typographical Union from sending out the ballots for the biennial election to he held in May was issued by the Marion County Circuit Court here to-day upon application of Charles E. Hawkes, a member of New York Local No. 6.

The order is made returnable on May 2, the day after the ballots were to have been mailed from headquarters, but according to the injunction they may not be sent unless Hawkes's name is on them.

Hawkes was a candidate for the nomination for President of the organization, but the announcement of successful candidates made some time ago from the headquarters of the I. T. U. here, said M. G. Scott, Local No. 6, New York, was the only candidate who had been nominated. Hawkes in his petition declares that he was deprived of his rights when his name was not placed on the ballot, and asserts that an "inner circle, an oath-bound secret organization which is nameless," conspired to control the affairs of the union and to keep his name off the ballot.

DR. S. FLEXNER HONORED.

Cross of the Legion of Honor Bestowed on Him by France.

Dr. Simon Flexner, Director of the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, has received notice through the French Ambassador in Washington that the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor has been conferred upon him by President Poincare.

This honor has been bestowed in recognition of the services which Dr. Flexner has rendered to medical science through his own discoveries and through his administration of the Rockefeller Institute. Special mention is made in the award of the assistance given to France at the time of the epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which prevailed in 1909, by sending to the Pasteur Institute in Paris a supply of anti-meningitis serum which was successfully used in combating the disease.

Why Trow Brought Polk to New York

For 127 years Trow has published the City Directory of New York.

The Directory has stood the test of time—it is an institution.

Along with the Directory has grown the Trow Printing and Bookbinding business. The Directory comes out once a year, but the printing and bookbinding are constant.

What more natural, then, than that the steady business should over shadow the once-a-year business, and the Directory become a side issue?

That is what happened.

Then Trow said, "Here we are specializing on printing and binding. Why not have a specialist to publish the Directory, and let us print and bind it? Together we can give New York a Directory of which everyone can be proud."

And so R. L. Polk & Company, Inc., came to New York, for they had built up a Directory business throughout the country until they published 450 Directories, and ranked as "The Foremost Directory Publishers of America."

Together, Polk and Trow, each firm specializing in its own line, will give New York the greatest City Directory the world has ever seen—such a condensed, complete, accurate City Directory as to make every one say, "How could they do it?"

When the Polk man comes to see you—as he will—give him a minute. Let him tell you in a few words what the new Directory is to be—how it will differ from past Directories—how differently your information will appear.

If at the end of that minute, you are not sufficiently interested to give him more time, he will withdraw. If the new Directory can serve you, you should know it. It is worth one minute of your time to find out. R. L. Polk & Company, Inc., are spending a fortune on the new Directory of New York before a press commences to turn.

They have something to say to you.

Open your door!

Let the Polk man in—he is the "New School" Directory man, and his message is brief and pointed.

NOTE:—A number of business houses are requesting us to have a representative call for their Directory information ahead of the rush of the regular canvass. We are glad to do this, as it insures our securing accurate and complete information exactly as desired by the executives of the business houses concerned.

If timeliness, splendid fit, materials and tailoring were the only items of interest in these

it would well repay every man in New York and every visitor to the City to come here to-day and see them.

Added, however, to the aesthetic interest, there is a pocketbook interest, for these are Suits that

Have been $18.50 and $19.75

Are Now $16.75

The fabric in every garment is thoroughly reliable; we protect you absolutely as to its integrity, just as we do in the matter of tailoring, finish, fit, color-fastness and style.

This is the easiest store in New York at which to get your money back if you have any cause for dissatisfaction. Naturally, then, aside entirely from ethics, it is to our advantage to satisfy you.

(2)—ALL SIZES, 33 to 46.

(3)—STYLES—English "soft roll" Coats, with patch pockets, with cuffs on sleeves, slightly conforming to the wearer's figure; also conservative Coats, with "stationary" fronts and regular "set in pockets." The vests are cut medium high, with six buttons; the Trousers are medium narrow, giving the much desired straight line effect, and may be worn with or without the turn up cuffs at the bottoms.

A custom tailor, no matter what you pay him, will not design you a better Suit; he will charge you twice or more than twice as much; you will have to wait a week or ten days for the Suit, "try it on" two or three times, and then the result (which here you can see in the glass in a few moments) will be problematic, to say the least. There are thousands of "misfit" Suits being "jobbed" about every week, the result of dissatisfied patrons of custom tailors.

GOLFERS We specialize in Golf Suits, both with long trousers and knickerbockers. We use English gray overplaid cassimere for these Suits. The Coats are regulation golf Norfolk style with belt, and are skeleton-lined, and silk-trimmed. Excellent for many more pastimes than golfing—including travel by land or sea. The price is $22.50.

RIOT IN BROADWAY AS STUDENTS DINE

POLICE RESERVES OUT

Despite the efforts of the sophomores who raised such a lively rumpus in the vicinity of Bustanoby's restaurant, Broadway and Sixtieth Street, that the police reserves from the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were called out and made eight arrests, the freshman class of Columbia University held its annual dinner last night and enjoyed every minute of it. Featured as the main attraction at the dinner were twelve members of the sophomore class, who were handcuffed and chained to chairs which had been placed in positions where the captives could see the food disappear. Six of these young men were kidnapped yesterday and imprisoned in a house in West 109th Street, without a chance to get supper. The others were caught near the restaurant by scouting parties. It was late last night before their appetites were appeased.

It was a complete victory for the freshmen, who had been forced to postpone the dinner from time to time because of the activities of their enemies, and the fact that President Arthur Scherpich of the sophomore class was among the prisoners taken to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station filled their cup of joy to overflowing. Scherpich and five companions were captured by the police while they were leading a relief expedition up a fire escape of a building in Sixtieth Street from which they hoped to break into the restaurant. The others arrested were members of a crowd of fifty students who held up a taxicab in Columbus Circle in an attempt to capture six freshmen on their way to the dinner. They smashed the windows of the taxicab, and the chauffeur, Harry Hogan, made a charge of assault against them. Taken altogether, it was a good lively row. The police referred to it as a "riot" and were accused by the students of lacking a sense of humor. They did not use their night sticks, however, even when the fight was hottest.

Sophomores Brought in Capture.

The time set for the dinner was 7 o'clock, and at that hour the six kidnapped sophomores were sneaked into the restaurant closely followed by Henry Clay Moore and Duncan Dobie, Presidents, respectively, of the college division and the science division of the freshman class. The rest of the diners, 150 in number, arrived in little groups of eight or ten. Some came on foot, others in taxicabs, and five of the groups dragged after them five more protesting sophomores.

At 7:45 o'clock the report reached the dining hall that the sophomores were collecting in great numbers outside the restaurant, and the freshmen sent in a call for the police reserves. Just before Capt. Duggan and his men arrived the last of the freshmen burst into the room with a fighting, protesting sophomore.

"Buck" unquestionably is a real athlete, for he kicked over six chairs and refused to surrender until most of his clothes were torn off. Then he was handcuffed with the other prisoners, making exhibit No. 12.

The next interruption came when half a dozen sophomores suddenly burst into the room from the rear. They were driven out after a mirror and several plates were smashed. The freshmen learned that entrance had been gained from the fire escape of a building in Sixtieth Street and notified the police. It was shortly after that that Scherpich and his five companions were arrested.

The six men taken to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were severely reprimanded by the Lieutenant in charge, who accepted the charge of disorderly conduct made against them, and told them they were lucky that they were not charged with burglary for trying to break into the restaurant. They said they were Wallace Gibson, 20 years old, 161 West Eighty-third Street; Douglas Black, 18, 1,120 Amsterdam Avenue; Robert Spurgeon, 20, Broadway and 116th Street; Edmund Kornsand, 19, 229 Park Avenue; Arthur Scherpich, 116th Street and Broadway, and Leon Moneil, 21, 332 West Fifty-sixth Street. They were searched and their pocket knives taken away, and then they were held, pending the action of the Night Court. Several hours later they were arraigned before Magistrate Nolan and were discharged.

Daniel Muler, 19 years old, of 425 West 116th Street, and Harold Hutton, 18 years old, of West Nyack, who were arrested following the raid on the taxicab, were taken at once to Night Court. Hutton was fined $3, but Muler, who proved that he had not been in the thick of the fight, was discharged. Herbert Fishborn, a freshman, living at Mount Vernon, and William Dykmann, a sophomore, of 200 West 123d Street, who were called as witnesses, implicated themselves in the row, and also were fined $3 each after receiving a good lecture.

ALL GREENWICH ILLUMINED

More than 30,000 persons witnessed a spectacular fire that destroyed the offices of the Mallory Steamship Line in the second story of Pier 45, North River, at Tenth Street, last night. The flames gave the firemen a fierce fight to save, not only the Mallory property, but other piers at which several steamships were made fast.

The fire cast a glare all over Greenwich Village, which caused the residents to turn out by the hundred. People were packed along West Street forty or fifty deep for three blocks, from Charles to Christopher Street, and every roof in the neighborhood was covered with spectators. The reserves of the Charles Street Station had difficulty in establishing fire lines.

The fire was discovered shortly before 9 o'clock. When firemen arrived the pier was filled with dense smoke from the tarred roof, and it was thought that the whole structure was ablaze. Difficulty in fighting the fire was caused by the tarred roof and thin planking under it.

The offices were above the arcade that led to the pier. The steamer Colorado, loaded with provisions for the soldiers in Galveston, and other merchandise, was moored on the south side of the pier.

At the pier for incoming steamships adjoining that to which the Colorado was lying was the Mallory Line steamship Denver, which arrived from Galveston yesterday. There were also ships at the piers of the Texas City Steamship Line and the Clyde Philadelphia Line on either side of the Mallory piers.

Three fireboats, the New Yorker, the Duane, and the Willett, and two battalions of firemen under Chief Kenlon, got the blaze under control after damage estimated by the Chief at $5,000 had been done.

Acting Battalion Chief John Farley of the Fifth Battalion, was severely cut across the back and left shoulder by glass while he was fighting the fire on the roof of the pier. Dr. Harry M. Archer, Department Surgeon, dressed the wound, and Chief Farley, though advised to go home, refused to leave his post. Several other firemen were cut on the hands by glass.

A fire almost identical with that of last night occurred on the afternoon of May 25, 1912. The Mallory offices were destroyed similarly, but the fire was confined to them. This fire was ascribed to electric wiring. The cause of last night's blaze was not discovered.

Miss Hall, Dean Stone's Secretary, Wedded to Sea Captain.

A surprise was sprung on the students in the Columbia Law School yesterday when they learned that Miss Sophia E. Hall, Dean Stone's pretty secretary, had been married. It all happened within a week, the engagement and marriage.

The story came out when the young woman stopped at the university post office and requested the postmistress to send to her any letters that might come for Mrs. R. S. Ramsay. The postmistress's curiosity was aroused and it did not take her long to discover the real secret. Mr. Ramsay, it was learned, was a sea captain, and met Miss Hall only a short time ago. His ship came into port a week ago, and he lost no time in proposing to Miss Hall last Wednesday. The marriage took place on Friday, and Captain Ramsay sailed away on Sunday.

Mrs. Ramsay said that because of the illness of Dean Stone and the absence of her husband she probably would not resign her position at Columbia until the Fall.

3,000 SEE MAURETANIA GO.

Fully 3,000 persons went to the Cunard pier last night to see their relatives and friends off by the Mauretania for Liverpool. She had every berth taken, the agents said, in the first and second cabin and steerage, and had been shutting out passengers for the last week. On board the ship the orchestra of the Hotel Vanderbilt, led by Josef Fyer, serenaded Joseph B. Thomas, who occupied the regal suite, while enthusiastic Pennsylvania University students on the pier cheered A. N. S. Jackson and the winning Oxford relay team. The Duke of Manchester went on board to see the Duchess off. He will not go across himself till next month he said.

Others on the Mauretania were Sir Robert Hadfield, Chairman of the Bessemer Steel Company; Lady Hadfield, Lord Innes-Kerr, Sir Robert Perks, Bart., Captain the Hon. Montagu Parker, brother of Earl Morley; Egerton L. Winthrop, James B. Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duveen, Charles Cherry, Earl de la Warr, L. B. Baldwin, counsel for Mrs. Katherine Gould, who is going to Paris to see his client, and Sir Bache Cunard.

Capt. J. W. T. Charles, R. N. R., said that he hoped to arrive in Fishguard early on Monday morning so that the passengers would be in London in time to catch the afternoon train for Paris. Thomas Kateley, the agent of the Great Western Railway of England, said he had cabled for three trains to run from Fishguard to London.

D. H. Louderback Left Only $10,000

CHICAGO, April 28.—The value of the estate of Delancey H. Louderback, former associate of Charles T. Yerkes and believed to have been a millionaire, was placed at $10,000 in a petition for the issuance of letters testamentary filed to-day in the Probate Court. Investigation of Mr. Louderback's death resulted in a verdict by a Coroner's Jury attributing it to poison contained in sleeping powders.

CHURCHMEN FAVOR DIVORCE REFORM

EQUALITY FOR THE SEXES

Bishop of Southampton Declares Existing Law in England is Barbarous in Treatment of Women.

LONDON, April 28.—The Lower House of Convocation of Canterbury to-day discussed the attitude of the Church of England toward divorce.

The Bishop of Southampton moved a resolution expressing the opinion that there should be one standard of morality for men and women and equality of treatment by the law.

The present state of the law, the Bishop said, was barbarous in its treatment of women. The dignity of woman was as great as the dignity of man, and the insult involved as great to woman as to man. If there was to be divorce at all, that relief should be as readily available for woman as for man.

Canon Wood opposed the motion. As a matter of sin, he said, the offense was the same, but, dealt with as a matter of social justice, the woman's offense was the greater.

The resolution was carried.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 28.—At the trial of Provincial Governor Ernesto Asbert, Congressman Arias, and Senator Vidal Morales, charged with killing Gen. Armando Riva, Chief of the National Police, last July on Havana's fashionable Prado, Police Captain Campina testified to-day that he saw Gov. Asbert place a revolver to Chief Riva's abdomen and fire twice. It was a wound in the abdomen that killed the Police Chief.

Capt. Campina testified that Congressman Arias later wounded Gen. Riva in the face, and he also accused Senator Morales of shooting at him.

Gov. Asbert and Senator Morales maintain that they did not shoot, and that Congressman Arias killed Gen. Riva in self-defense.

Nathan Soon to Sail for America.

ROME, April 28.—Ernesto Nathan, ex-Mayor of Rome, has been appointed an honorary Minister Plenipotentiary to represent Italy at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Signor Nathan will leave Italy on May 13 on the steamer Stampalia for New York, whence he will go to Washington to see President Wilson, and then proceed to San Francisco.

SERVICE IN ULSTER IS AGAIN REFUSED

A NEW PEACE PROPOSITION

Made by Churchill in Parliament and Well Received by Unionists—Gun-Running by Nationalists.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 29.—Dispatches from Belfast to the newspapers here assert that the Ulster leaders are in possession of definite information that the officers of the regiments ordered from Dublin to the North on Sunday demanded to know the conditions of their service in Ulster, and refused to take warlike measures.

The officers, according to the correspondents, were told that nothing would be done to exasperate the Ulster Volunteers. If the latter did not fire first, the officers were informed, all would go well.

The correspondents point out that it is significant that the troops have not yet moved.

Much interest has been created by a new offer to Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, made by Winston Spencer Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, in the course of a speech in the House of Commons last night. Mr. Churchill invited Sir Edward to make an attempt to compromise the home rule question on the Federal basis.

Mr. Churchill is reported to have spoken entirely for himself and without the authority of the Cabinet. Many of the Liberals are indignant at him for taking the course he did, contending that it will only be interpreted as a sign of weakness on the part of the Government.

John Redmond, in an interview printed this evening, said that he did not understand that there was anything new in Mr. Churchill's offer, but that, if anything came of it, he was ready to exert himself to placate the Ulster men and reach an honorable settlement of the question.

The view of the Unionist leaders here is that Mr. Churchill's offer must have been debated in a Cabinet council held earlier in the day. They believe it entirely changes the situation and improves the prospect of an agreement.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Opposition leader in the House of Commons, is said to be ready to renew negotiations with Premier Asquith if the Government will take the initiative.

LONDONDERRY, April 28.—The Irish Nationalist Volunteeers, a body similar in organization to the Ulster Unionist Volunteers, made matters even with their political opponents in the course of last night by successfully landing a large consignment of arms.

The weapons, which are said to have been brought from America, were taken ashore at a remote spot on the coast of the County of Donegal, in the far west of Ulster.

A strange steamer had been seen off the coast for three successive nights. Late last night a number of fishing craft aprpoached, took off the cargo, and succeeded in evading the coast guards and landing the rifles, which were quickly distributed.

The size of the consignment is unknown, but it is believed to have been considerable, although not equaling the 40,000 rifles and 500,000 rounds of ammunition that the Unionists received on April 25.

SAVES CHUM FROM RIVER.

Boatman Plunges Into Swollen Stream After Swimming to Safety.

AMESBURY, Mass., April 28.—When a boat containing Charles Hatch and Gilbert Lewis was capsized in Powwow River to-day Hatch was swept under the Thompson Street bridge by the flood, which reached to the top of the concrete arch. He struck the arch and was badly hurt.

Lewis, who had managed to swim ashore, ran around the bridge and plunged into the water again. After a hard struggle he rescued his chum. Hatch, although badly bruised, will recover.

Chokes to Death Drinking Coffee.

WALLINGFORD, Conn., April 28.—A cup of coffee, swallowed in haste, caused the death of Frank Boesi, aged 45 years, in a local lunch room late last night. After drinking the coffee Boesi was seized with a choking spell and died in a few moments. The medical examiner's verdict was death due to choking.

If a tenant occupies 500 feet of space, 150 feet of which are impracticable for use, he must divide his rent by 350 feet before he can arrive at the cost per foot.

The advantage of Equitable space over such an example as above quoted is, that the tenant in question would get the 350 feet he needs and not be under necessity of assuming rental responsibility for space which he does not require.

ARGUES FOR SUBWAY UNDER POST OFFICE

IMPORTANT LINK IN SYSTEM

Perpetual Easement for Public Purposes Defended—City Pledged to Liability for Damages.

Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, replied yesterday to the objections Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo had made to the proposed subway under the Federal Building. The commission asked the Government for a perpetual easement under the Post Office for the branch of the Interborough Subway, which would run from Park Place into William Street and so by Old Slip to Brooklyn. To this Mr. McAdoo objected, and the Chairman wrote to answer the points raised and to impress upon him that this route was one of the most important links in the new Subway system.

In the first place, the Chairman pointed out that Congress had authorized Secretary McAdoo to grant the city the rights it needed for such consideration, nominal or otherwise, as he deemed proper. He then urged that, as the Federal building was situated in what in effect was a public park, the Government as a matter of comity should co-operate with the city in the use of the park for a necessary city purpose which did not interfere with the use of the building either for the Federal Courts or for the Post Office.

Moreover, the Chairman contended, the commission had had appraisals made by such competent real estate experts as Joseph P. Day and the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, both of whom expressed the opinion that the value of the easement the city asked was purely nominal. However, the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company suggested that it would be fair to the United States if the city would undertake, in case a new building were erected on the present site, to pay the Government any addition to the cost of construction due to the presence of the subway. The Chairman stated that the commission was quite willing to meet that suggestion.

Mr. McCall also pointed out that although the Interborough would contribute toward the cost of construction of this line, the city eventually would have to bear the financial burden on account of the preferential payment which the railroad company was to receive under the agreement with the city.

The Chairman took up the objection which the Secretary raised to a grant of any rights in perpetuity, and pointed out the difference between the position of the city and Mr. McAdoo's old company, the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, which had to concede the right of the city to take over the Hudson Tubes at the end of twenty-five years. The objection to perpetual franchises, Mr. McCall explained, applied only to grants through streets or other public property made to private parties. In this case the applicant for the easement was the City of New York, and the property through which it would acquire a right of way was practically private property.

"The Park Place, William, and Clark Street route," Mr. McCall wrote, "is a vital part of a comprehensive subway system, which will cost considerably in excess of $100,000,000, and the city should not, we think, be asked to assume the risk that at some future time its right to this link might be taken away."

The Chairman pointed out that the Hudson & Manhattan was a private corporation seeking rights through public streets, and added that Congress in its act specifically authorized the grant of permanent and perpetual underground rights, easements, and rights of way in, under, through, and across the Post Office property. Moreover, he said, that he considered it doubtful whether the city could accept a terminable right under the Rapid Transit act.

Chairman McCall was quite willing, he said, that the city should assume liability for any damage to the Government property from operation as well as from construction, but he objected to the suggestion made by the Government that its representatives should control the construction work. Such control, he pointed out, would relieve the contractor of liability for damages, and he did not see how the commission could assume full responsibility without also possessing full authority.

So Chairman McCall objected to the suggestion of the Secretary that the damages to be paid by the city should be such as "in the opinion" of the local representative of the Treasury Department should have been occasioned by the work of construction or operation.

WHY 6A BIDS WERE REJECTED.

Commissioner Maltbie pointed out yesterday that the object of the Public Service Commission in rejecting all the bids for the construction of Section 6A of the Interborough's Seventh Avenue line—that is, the actual connection between the old Subway at Times Square and the new line to be built in Seventh Avenue—was not to give the contract without competition to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, the Interborough's subsidiary. The commission had no intention of frightening off other bidders.

"If we had desired to favor the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company," he said, "we could have rejected the two lower bidders, the Oscar Daniels Company and the Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins Corporation, unexceptional as is their standing. We might also have given it to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company if it had been willing to take the contract at the same price as Oscar Daniels's bid, or even if it would have agreed to the same unit prices as it had itself bid for Section 6, which had been already awarded it.

"The reason why we rejected all the bids and decided to readvertise was that we wished to increase the bond to be given by the successful bidder to the city. It was placed at $250,000, and we wanted to make it $400,000 on account of the unusual difficulty of the work. So we thought it better not to accept any of the bids, but to ask that a new set be submitted to us."

This will mean that for a section, on which the lowest bidders offered about $820,000 and the two next bidders less than $500,000, the successful contractor will have to put up $900,000 of bonds, $400,000 to the city and $500,000 to the Interborough. Commissioner Maltbie also pointed out that although the Subway Rapid Transit Construction Company is an Interborough concern, it has not the same financial resources as the Interborough. While the Interborough could undoubtedly pay any liability which it might possibly incur in connection with the price of construction work, the Subway Construction Company could be held liable only for the extent of its capital stock.

EUSTIS BREAKS THE DEADLOCK

The vote of Commissioner Eustis yesterday broke the deadlock in which the Public Service Commission has been since he went away on his vacation. By three votes to two the commission refused to approve the application of the Dry Dock, East Broadway & Battery Railroad Company for the approval of a mortgage and the issue thereunder of $4,300,000 of bonds. Commissioner Eustis voted with Commissioners Maltbie and Cram against it, while Chairman McCall and Commissioner Williams voted for it.

MISS PERKINS CRITICISES

Fire hazard in the big department stores of the city was discussed yesterday at a public hearing held by the State Factory Investigating Commission in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall. The commission, which held many hearings last year, was continued for another year by the last Legislature, and many more sessions will be held. Miss Frances Perkins, in charge of the Department Stores Inspection Committee of the Commission, and ex-Fire Chief Edward F. Croker gave the principal evidence yesterday. Ex-Speaker Alfred E. Smith presided, and Abram I. Elkus acted as counsel.

Miss Perkins criticised the way many of the stores were constructed and maintained, the dumping of rubbish in the cellars, the lack of adequate exits, the use of non-fireproof waste chutes, the obstruction of aisles and stairways with displays of merchandise and the permitting of large crowds to assemble on bargain days. No stores were mentioned by name. Each store was designated by a number.

"Bad housekeeping," said Miss Perkins, "is responsible for many of the existing fire hazards. In many stores packing material and waste paper are allowed to remain all day in the buildings. In many stores smoking goes on, and in nearly all stores customers enter smoking, and keep their cigars lighted while they walk through the aisles."

In at least twenty department stores, said Miss Perkins, doors opening inward instead of outward are still to be found. Employes of department stores, she said, should be drilled to conduct patrons to the exits in case of fire.

"I want to say at the outset," said Mr. Croker when he took the stand, "that in the prevention of fires we do not need more legislation. As a matter of fact, we have too much legislation already, and there is now a conflict in the fire prevention and labor laws which is working a hardship on the people. These confusing and conflicting laws have already driven many people over to New Jersey.

"I believe that there should be a general law placing fire prevention jurisdiction in the hands of an examining board, which would consider the fire prevention in buildings separately. No two buildings are exactly alike, and you can't have any hard and fast law providing fireproof rules for all buildings at the same time."

Asked by Mr. Elkus what he considered the greatest fire hazard in large department store buildings Mr. Croker said:

"The fire hazards in department stores are, in my opinion, very small, because there are always many persons present, and there is a system of inspection. I consider the danger and the particular cause of fires to be the result of improper insulation of electric light wires."

Fire Chief John Kenlon said he considered department stores a great fire hazard, as great danger exists where inflammable goods are displayed. He said that New York had been very fortunate in not having had any big store fires in the daytime. Their prevention, he said, was due to the vigilance of store managers and the activities of the shops' own brigades.

PRAISES ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Its Work Well Done, O. G. Villard Tells People's Institute.

More than 800 persons attended the last meeting of the season of the People's Institute, held at Cooper Union last night, when the subject of "The Press" was enthusiastically discussed from every angle of its effectiveness.

Although the subject was a general one the speeches trended in the direction of The Associated Press in particular, which was criticised by Theodore Schrader, attorney for the Free Speech League, and members of the audience, and defended by Oswald Garrison Villard, owner of The New York Evening Post.

Dr. Frederic C. Howe, President of the institute, was Chairman of the meeting, and first introduced Will Irwin, the writer. Mr. Irwin made the point that the newspaper of to-day, because of the big interests represented in the advertising columns, was not as free as it was fifty years ago.

Mr. Villard, the next speaker, said he was glad to have an opportunity to talk in the hall where The Associated Press had been assailed only a few weeks ago.

"Never were more misleading statements made, I believe, than on that occasion," said Mr. Villard. "The Associated Press is not, as many people think, a money-making corporation. There is no stock in The Associated Press; it declares no dividends, and it makes no money for anybody. There are certain bondholders who sign a waiver of interest in the news sent out by the association and there are nearly 900 newspapers, expressing all kinds of views, politics, and beliefs."

Mr. Villard said that if there were defects in the news they were not due to the Associated Press, but to individual newspapers.

FOUR
WITH FULL TIMKEN BEARINGS

Why Studebaker FOUR Sales Are Enormous:

Electrically Lighted

Electrically Started

Bluntly—because no car now on the market reveals equal value.

Because, for instance, no other car in the world at this price has a full floating rear axle equipped even to the hubs with Timken bearings.

Because this axle could not be made better, no matter how much we were willing to spend, or you were willing to pay.

The same thing is true of Studebaker-Wagner starting and lighting—the cars of highest cost may show its equal—but they cannot show its superior.

The same thing is true of the proportion of parts actually manufactured in the parent plant—the costliest cars may make as good a showing, but none of them can show more.

The same thing is true of the accuracy of the processes which enter into the manufacturing—they may be equalled in the costliest cars, but they are not surpassed.

BOSTON GETS FOUR HITS OFF DEMAREE

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 28.—Al Demaree, who a week ago shut out Brooklyn with four hits, won his second game of the campaign to-day, also allowing the Boston Braves four scattered singles, and the Giants going just hard enough with their heaviest hickory clubs to win the game 3 to 1. Demaree had plenty of speed in the poor batting light, the atmosphere being half dense with fog, and the youngster, of whom McGraw expects so much this year, not only steamed 'em up, but had splendid control as well. Johnny Evers registered two hits against Al and Schmidt got one of the two others, this coming in the fourth inning and helping greatly toward the Braves' only run, which, however, never would have come in had the Giants been tight in the field.

Dick Rudolph, one of George Stallings's best boxmen this Spring, was on the mound against Demaree, and his work would have been good enough to win had his team produced any hitting behind him. Against Rudolph New York hit safely eight times, and combined the hits nicely in three different innings, scoring one run in each. Rudolph puzzled the Giants not a little last year, but McGraw's men reached him opportunely to-day. The Boston men fielded splendidly behind their pitcher and reeled off two double plays which aided in keeping the score down, but when it came to doing any business against Demaree the Braves were decidedly shy, and had to be content with retaining their grip on last place.

For the Giants, while Bob Bescher did not connect safely, seven of the eight hits were made by the batters immediately behind him.

The two most effective drives were Merkle's double in the fourth inning and McLean's single in the seventh, both being run producers, while in the second inning, when the Giants broke into the game, it was on the combination of a pass, outs at first, and a wild pitch by Rudolph.

The champions were on their toes today and looked like themselves in spite of not being able to make things break for a bigger score and against a team over which they are so vastly superior.

The Giants infield played a strictly airtight game, Stock, although hitless to-day, showing considerable class at third base and making many friends among the Boston fans.

In the first inning, when Burns reached second on a single and an out at first, he spoiled any chance for a run by oversliding third base, which he essayed to take on a short passed ball.

In the second, however, a run came over for the Giants, Doyle drawing a pass, stealing second as Merkle fanned, advancing to third while Evers was tossing Murray out, and then romping home when Rudolph made a wild pitch.

The Braves got a run in the fourth, but not until the Giants had scored in their half of the same inning. With one out, Fletcher got a "life" when Rudolph failed to field a hot liner that he gallantly blocked. Deal then fumbled Doyle's bounder, whereupon Merkle proceeded to lace the ball over young Jim Murray's head for two bases, scoring Fletcher, but fast fielding held Doyle at third. Jack Murray then struck out and Maranville relayed Doyle out at the plate when he tried to score on Gowdy's attempt to catch Merkle napping off second base.

Two errors were responsible for the Braves' lone tally in the fourth. Evers was safe on McLean's high throw after handling a bunt, but he was forced at second by Maranville. Jim Murray fanned, but Schmidt singled to centre, Bescher trying to get Maranville at third, but throwing wild to Stock and allowing the Boston favorite to score.

With Schmidt at second, Stock got Deal at first. In the seventh the Giants made the game secure, scoring another run on singles by Doyle, Murray, and McLean. The Braves got only six men to first base, and of these only two advanced to second. The score:

Humphries Blows Up in Seventh.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Humphries was touched for five hits in one inning to-day, and Pittsburgh won the second game of the series from Chicago, 5 to 2. With the score tied until the seventh inning, Mowrey and Wagner each singled. Konetchy advanced both a base and Viox singled, scoring them. Gibson followed with a single and Viox scored on McQuillan's hit. On the throw home, Archer let Good's throw get away from him, and Gibson scored. McQuillan was hit hard, but received good support in the pinches. Score:

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Cincinnati won the third straight game from St. Louis today mainly through the good pitching of Douglass. He allowed only four hits, three of which were made in the second inning, when St. Louis scored its one run. Doak, who started for St. Louis, was hit hard, and in addition was wild. Hoblitzel's triple in the sixth came with two men on base, and Herzog's single scored Hoblitzel a moment later. Score:

Cornell Makes Poor Showing.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 28.—The Cornell baseball team slumped badly here to-day and was beaten by Dartmouth by the score of 10 to 0. The Ithacans could not bat, field, nor run bases. Bryant was taken out of the box in the sixth inning, but Russell, his successor, got even a worse drubbing, and he finally gave way to Johnson. Cornell was unable to hit Willard at all and put up the worst exhibition of the year. The score:

Semi-Pros Get Berths.

NEWARK, N. J., April 28.—Leslie Whelan, a local semi-professional pitcher of prominence, has been signed by Manager Mike O'Neill of the Utica Club of the New York State League. Whelan will leave here to report next Monday. Gus Schwarz, who received a try-out with Jack Dunn's Baltimore International League team, has made the left field berth on the Utica team. Tom McCarthy, also a well-known local semi-professional ball player, to-day signed a contract to play with the Newburg team of the Atlantic League.

Charles H. Ebbets, Jr., President of the Newark International League Club, announced to-day that "Ducky" Holmes, the veteran pitcher, has been released to the Memphis team of the Southern League.

Ursinus at Fordham To-day.

The Ursinus College baseball team plays at Fordham Field this afternoon. The game with the Bronx collegians will mark the visitors' first New York appearance in several years. Ursinus ranks high in the college athletics of Pennsylvania. Another college from the Keystone State, Bucknell, where Christy Mathewson learned baseball, tackles the local champions on Friday. Fordham's nine has been strengthened considerably by the return of Jack Flanigan to first base, after a month's lay-off.

FANS FEW, SO YANKS CALLED GAME OFF

The Yankees and the Boston Red Sox spent yesterday afternoon practicing at the Polo Grounds, but there was no baseball game.

Wet grounds, cold weather, and threatening skies were a few of the excuses for calling off the game. But as the weather conditions were fairly good, the playing field was not perceptibly damp, and the weather was not cold, the crowd outside of the gates, though small, was greatly surprised and terribly disappointed. There were several audible protests because the game was called off under such favorable conditions.

Manager Frank Chance of the Yanks called the game off because he didn't want to subject his players to a slippery field which wasn't slippery. Many good games have been played under conditions far less favorable than those of yesterday.

It is said that the game was called off because the number of ball players on hand was greater than the number of spectators who threatened to be present. As one fan expressed himself, "If it is cloudy there'll be no game, so don't waste your time coming up."

Truesdale, the new second baseman of the Yanks, warmed up with the squad and did some fast fielding. It is expected that he will strengthen the infield combination. The Red Sox have two good outfielders on the bench whom the Yankees are angling for. They are Hendrickson and Rehg. It is doubtful, however, if Manager Bill Carrigan will listen to any proposals to let the men go, as both are valuable as pinch hitters and utility outgardeners. The Yanks would like to land several other players in the American League, and they could get them if it wasn't for the fact that the teams to whom they belong want them themselves.

The Yankees' headquarters have been changed to 30 East Forty-second Street, in the new Forty-second Street Building, at the corner of Madison Avenue.

There were only a few stragglers at the Brooklyn National Park yesterday, so the game with Philadelphia was postponed because of "rain." The dust was just as thick and dry in Brooklyn as it was at the Polo Grounds.

Poor Support Beats Johnson.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Errors figured in all the runs of the game in which Philadelphia defeated Washington to-day, 2 to 1. Barry scored the winning run in the eighth on his single and steal of second, Morgan's muff of a throw, and Ainsmith's drop of Shank's throw on Wyckoff's fly. McBride was put out of the game by Umpire Egan for disputing a decision. Score:

Detroit Displaces Chicago.

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—The Detroit Tigers broke the tie for first place between themselves and Chicago by defeating the White Sox to-day, 4 to 1. Main, a recruit, pitched another winning game for Detroit, and Kavanaugh, also a youngster, won the game in the third inning by driving the ball over the left-field wall. Bush was on third when Kavanaugh produced his home run. Main never was in danger. Only two hits were made off his delivery until the sixth inning. In this round Russell's third strike was a wild pitch and he reached first, advanced on Demmitt's single, and scored on Chase's two-base hit. Bush's fielding was splendid. The score:

Seaton Lets Packers Down with Four Hits and Wins for Brooklyn.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 28.—Tom Seaton, the highest priced pitcher in the Federal League, held the Packers to six scattered hits, and Brooklyn won the first game of the series, 3 to 0. Packard toiled for the Packers, but he could not fool the visitors in the third inning, when they scored three runs on three hits, one error, and a sacrifice fly. Stovall's ball club had a chance to score in the second inning, but Goodwin pulled a "John Anderson" trying to steal third with the bases loaded. After that inning Seaton was never in danger. Westerzil got three of Brooklyn's seven hits. The score:

Seniors Best in Columbia Games.

Consistent scoring gave the Columbia seniors the victory in the interclass track meet which was held yesterday afternoon on South Field. They made a tally of 46 points, as against 38 scored by the freshmen, 31½ by the juniors, and 23½ by the sophomores. The showing of the freshmen in their efforts to beat out the seniors was one of the surprises of the meet, and the good material in the first-year class augurs well for the Columbia track team. The summaries:

100-Yard Dash.—Won by A. Harvitt, '14; T. Black, '17, second; D. W. Vollmen, '16, third; F. L. Brady, '15, fourth. Time—0:10 4-5.

N. Y. U. Freshmen Win on Track.

The freshmen at New York University ran away with the annual Spring interclass track meet, which came to a close yesterday. In two events, the 100-yard dash and the discus throw, the first year men made a clean sweep of all four places. The final score stood: Freshmen, 53 points; seniors, and sophomores tied at 12 points each; juniors, 8 points. Several events were omitted from the meet on account of lack of time. The summary:

100-Yard Dash.—Won by William Fash, '17; J. Baum, '17, second; O. Doggett, '17, third; S. Zentner, '17, fourth. Time—0:11.

Willie Hoppe again demonstrated his complete mastery of balk-line billiards last night when he defeated Calvin Demarest in the final and deciding match of the 14.1 championship at the Hotel Astor by a score of 400 to 196. The victory marks him as the most wonderful exponent of billiard technique in the world, for he now holds the championship in 18.1 and 18.2 in addition to the championship at the newly devised game. Demarest was never a strong contender last night, and in all the tournament, in which he has played the best cueists in this country, he has never been pressed except once, which was in the match with Yamada.

Hoppe's victory shows his iron nerve for while he was playing his wife was lying critically ill after having undergone a serious operation last night. Hoppe was unaware of the serious nature of his wife's illness at that time, the trouble having developed suddenly, and she was immediately removed from her home to an uptown sanitarium and operated upon. The cloud hanging over him last night undoubtedly affected the champion's game, but for all that Demarest could not come anywhere near forcing him to a close finish.

Even last night his play was marvelous. It seemed almost superhuman, almost uncanny when he was "nursing" the balls in close play on the end rails. He was the personification of mechanical precision, with the velvet touch of the artist. Most of his play was the short-table game, with few drives the length of the field, and he was deadly in his accuracy along the lines. He clicked off the points rapidly when he gathered the balls in the desired position with a gentle, smooth stroke that brought the second object ivory back from the rail to snuggle up close to its mate for another succession of points before it again went out and back.

Neither player seemed to get started in the first three innings. Demarest won the break and failed to count, and Hoppe could gather but 2 from the leave, failing to touch either object ball on a bank. Demarest clustered 30, and in his half of the inning Hoppe could get only 9. The champion progressed rapidly in the fourth inning with a run of 145, which involved a beautiful exhibition of billiards. A great deal of the play in this inning was close work along the lines. Several times he appeared to lose control, but he came out of the difficulties by masterly play.

On his fifty-eighth shot a massé spread the ivories badly, but he pulled them together again a few shots later. His sixty-eighth count was a pretty bank to count on a bad line up, and his seventieth point was his first drive the length of the table after the first few points. In the eighties he had several bad line-ups that necessitated long drives, but on the eighty-ninth shot he gathered the spheres on a pretty smash around the table with the second object ball. From then until the one hundred and thirty-first point he had clear sailing, with the points coming fast, but then with the balls in balk he had a most dificult shot, though he managed to save the position. The one hundred and forty-second count was made from another awkward line-up, and the ivories spread. He gathered several hard counts, and then on a three-cushion try for position failed to complete the point.

Demarest retaliated with his best run of the evening, a 66, but even with that he was 50 points behind his rival, and it seemed that the game was over as far as he was concerned thereafter. Hoppe steadily pulled away, and as his points accumulated Demarest lost any touch that he possessed in the earlier innings. He missed several easy carroms, and from the fifth to the fourteenth inning could only count 20 points.

In the fifth inning Hoppe gathered 56 points, and the score was 240 to 134. His second high run of the match was made in the ninth inning when he made a cluster of 61, missing on a two-cushion bank shot. At that point he had a count of 351, and it seemed that he had a chance to go out in the next and thus equal his high average of 40 for the tournament. The misses by Demarest, however, appeared to set a bad example for him and he gathered two ciphers himself, and after a 35 in the twelfth inning he made another zero. A run of eleven in the fourteenth inning placed Hoppe within three points of victory and he went out in the next.

Demarest stands second in the tournament, with Morningstar third, and Sutton fourth. All of these share in the purse of $3,000, while Hoppe gets in addition to his share the championship cup. Yamada, Cline, and Slosson tied for fifth place, with "Young" Jake Schaefer as the last man. The summary:

REFEREE JOH ON RACK.

Accused of Being Too Lenient with Coffey in Bout, but Is Exonerated.

Referee Billy Joh, who officiated at the Stadium Athletic Club last Friday night when Jim Coffey and Jim Flynn had their ten-round bout, appeared before the State Athletic Commission at its weekly meeting yesterday to answer a complaint lodged by an Inspector of the commission. The complaint stated Joh had been too lenient in handling Coffey and Flynn, both of whom he accused of rough tactics and fouling and, in his report, the Inspector stated Coffey had thrown Flynn three times, for which action the referee should have first warned Coffey and, on a second offense, should have disqualified him.

Referee Joh in his answer stated that he was in the ring to use his best judgment and govern the actions of the men accordingly. He said that the contest was rough at times, and that when Coffey became exasperated at Flynn's tactics and retaliated by forcibly shoving Flynn from him that he, Joh, cautioned Coffey not to repeat the offense or the bout would be stopped. There was no further infraction, and shortly afterward Coffey finished his opponent. This explanation proved satisfactory to the commission.

Patrick D. Donnelly, formerly one of the commission's Inspectors, applied for a transfer of the license of the Olympic Athletic Club of Harlem, he having recently taken over the organization from the McMahon brothers. Donnelly proved to the ruling body that his competence and facilities to properly conduct the Olympic Club fully met all requirements, so the transfer was made as desired. Donnelly, before being allowed to go, was called to account for stopping a bout in the Olympic Club Monday night, when at the expiration of the seventh round one of the contestants was too exhausted to continue. Donnelly justified his action by stating that he acted only for the good of the sport—when it was apparent that Referee Dan Tone did not realize the bout should be stopped. Donnelly further explained that as Tone was so negligent in the contest in question, that he refused to allow him to referee the last go, but had himself officiated. All this explanation served to appease the commission.

The case of Willie Saunders, who after becoming a professional boxer had boxed and won prizes as an amateur, was again up, as Saunders at last week's hearing had been directed to return the prizes he had unfairly won. At yesterday's session Saunders failed to bring with him or account for the prizes in question. His case was referred back to the A. A. U.

Brown and Callahan Draw.

Knockout Brown and Patsy Callahan boxed a ten-round draw at the Broadway Sporting Club last night. Callahan was the more aggressive in the earlier rounds of the bout, but Brown had the better of the argument toward the end. The popular opinion was that Callahan had earned a draw by his aggressive work.

In the semi-finals Billy Lewis of Newark, who substituted for Wild Bill Fleming, was shaded by Joe Bartfield of Brooklyn. The bout was a slam-bang affair, with both men boxing aggressively.

The scheduled ten-round bout between Larry Desmond and Eddie Carroll lasted four rounds. Desmond had his opponent in trouble from the first round, and in the fourth landed a blow on the stomach which put Carroll out for the count.

Bill to Legalize Boxing.

BOSTON, April 28.—Supporters of boxing to-day obtained official recognition in the Legislature for the first time, when the Committee on Legal Affairs reported favorably on a bill establishing a State Commission to supervise boxing matches. The bill would permit licensed clubs to hold bouts of not more than twelve rounds with gloves weighing not less than six ounces. The proposed commission is to consist of three members, one of whom must be a physician.

Defiance Crew Assembling.

BATH, Me., April 28.—Ten members of the crew of the International Cup sloop Defiance arrived to-day from New York in charge of Second Mate Sam Nelson and Boatswain Olaf Ellesen. In preparation for the launching on May 11 the men will begin work tomorrow smoothing down the deck. One coat of paint has been put on the underbody, and three more will be applied before the boat goes overboard. The mahogany planking is to have a natural wood finish above the waterline. The remainder of the yacht's crew are expected here Thursday, headed by Capt. Selah B. Howell. They will come on the schooner yacht Irolita, owned by E. Walter Clark of Philadelphia, Treasurer of the Tri-Cup Syndicate, which has financed the sloop.

Resolute's Mainmast Stepped.

BRISTOL, R. I., April 28.—The mainmast of the sloop Resolute, the Cup defender candidate of the so-called Flag Officers' Syndicate, was stepped to-day. The wooden topmast, which can be telescoped into the hollow steel spar, was then put in place and the work of rigging the yacht was begun. It is expected that the rigging will be set up and the sails bent within three or four days. Two complete sets of sails, treated chemically to make them mildew proof, are in readiness.

Golfer Evans Sails for England.

BOSTON, April 28.—Charles E. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, former Western amateur golf champion, sailed for England on the steamer Carmania to-day. Although he will have only two weeks' practice before the British amateur championship event at Sandwich, he said he was confident of making a good showing, as he has been getting 20 and 30 yards more distance from the tee than ever before.

Pigeon Flies Mile a Minute.

BOSTON, April 28.—A flight of 110 miles in 110 minutes was made to-day by a carrier pigeon that flew from Amherst to the loft of its owner, G. F. Richardson, Jr., of Newton Centre. Eighty-five pigeons participated in the race, which was preliminary to the Massachusetts concourse from Westfield on May 17.

Lasker and Tarrasch Win.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 28.—Both Lasker and Tarrasch to-day won their adjourned games in the fourth round of the international chess tourney against Blackburne and Rubinstein, respectively. The position of the leaders is: Alechine, Bernstein, and Lasker, 3 each; Capablanca, 2.

NEW AUTO TIRE PROCESS INTRODUCED

Method of Retreading, Tested Abroad, Has Novel Features —Other Motoring News.

The ordinary method of retreading an automobile tire by applying a band of rubber to the old carcass, semi-cured, and vulcanizing it fast, has been entirely abandoned in the course of a new process which has just made its appearance on this side of the Atlantic, although it has been in use in England and on the Continent for some years. It is claimed for this new method that tires retreaded by it will give as much mileage as in their original state, and frequently more. The innovation consists in making the new tread portion—or that part of the tire which comes in contact with the roadway—in the form of a crescent band of interwoven layers of fabric made of Egyptian flax and other substances preserved and hardened by special process. These bands are so formed that stratification—by which the alternate layers of rubber and fabric used in the usual tread are most frequently destroyed—is eliminated.

In the course of retreading by this new method the process of reconstruction is to remove by special machinery all the rubber from the old tire carcass down to the original fabric or foundation. After this has been done, the new band is applied in such a manner that it has a grip on the original casing like that of a sphincter muscle. It is further secured by a pure rubber gum which cures quickly at comparatively low temperatures. Thus, when the whole is vulcanized, the process of welding carcass and tread into a practically homogeneous whole can be accomplished without harming either. The fabric used in the novel retreading bands is of coarse mesh, woven abroad on special machinery. When permeated by the rubber compound it forms a tough material of honeycomb appearance.

To establish this process of reconstruction in this country a company has just been formed here, known as the Motor Tire Reconstruction Company, which plans to let out territory to agents to use the process under its patents.

IRVING A. C. BOUTS.

Willie Warren was entitled to the award over Frankie Hufnagel in their ten-round contest last night at the Irving A. C. of Brooklyn. Warren was the cooler and used better judgment in delivering his punches. He used a stiff left jab to the face and a right hook to the stomach that caused Frankie's nose to bleed in the first round and distressed him considerably before the final gong. Hufnagel wasted a number of well-intended right swings and appeared to hold his opponent in considerable respect, for he seldom essayed the aggressive. The few times he went after Warren he made good, and had he been properly coached could at least have earned a draw.

The show was a sort of experimental one, consisting of the main ten-round affair and ten three-round bouts between amateurs. The experiment will be repeated next Tuesday night.

In the opening bout what Kid Cook and Ernie Brady did to each other was something that would put some of the white hopes to shame. Three rounds of incessant slugging, with not a minute's cessation, kept the spectators highly excited. It was a good draw.

Willie Howe and Young Lewis followed in a three-rounder that reminded all present of the preceding contest because it was so different. Then came Danny Lee and Jimmy Burke, a pair of novices, whose knowledge of boxing was apparent by its absence. The fourth pair, Joe Jasper and Joe Stanley, put up a round and a half of the second of lively slugging, when Hanly suddenly thought of home and mother and quickly lay down being hit.

In the next session which brought together Johnny Egan and Walter Brooks, Brooks's wrappings suddenly became loosened, he stopped to look himself over, got a wallop on the jaw, and his second assisted him to the dressing room.

Jack Reynolds and Boob Gowdy were next to appear. Gowdy made no attempt to defend himself, took a good walloping, and the referee showed him the way to his corner. It remained for Battling Rice and Battling Buck to deliver the real, fantastic goods. They introduced a series of gyrations, ducks, swings, and lunges, the like of which has rarely ever been shown. It was a wild, hilarious slamfest, that kept the crowd in one long roar of laughter. Buck had a shade the better of the bout.

OXFORD TEAM SAILS.

The winning relay team of runners from Oxford University, England—A. N. S. Jackson, N. S. Taber, D. H. Gaussen, and G. M. Sproule, together with G. S. Robertson, the reserve man, sailed for home yesterday on the steamer Mauretania.

On behalf of the visiting team, Capt. Jackson said they had enjoyed their trip immensely, and could not speak too highly of the treatment accorded them during the brief stay in America by the collegians and all others with whom they came in contact.

When asked if he or any other member of the team would come back here for the Panama Exposition games at San Francisco next year, Jackson replied: "I cannot say. In fact such a thing has not been mentioned even."

TWO TITLES FOR NEW YORK.

Smith and Riddel-Horton Win Bowling Championships.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 28.—The Riddel-Horton combination of New York City, is the champion of the two-men teams with a score of 1,333 rolled at the eighth annual tournament of the National Bowling Association which closed here to-night. The New York pair scored early in the tournament, the record easily standing the onslaught of succeeding stars in the championship race.

Jimmy Smith and Jimmy Spinella, both Brooklyn, take runner-up honors. They cleared the alleys for 1,271. Smith in this competition complained of dizziness, which materially affected his play with damaging results upon the score.

Jimmy Smith retains the national all-around championship title. He cleared the alleys for the grand total of 1,917 for nine games. He took this championship last year with an aggregate of 1,928. Chris Theiss, Cleveland, was runner-up with 1,884.

Harry Krause, Washington, won the individual title. This proved the surprise of the tournament, the Capital City entrant being virtually "the dark horse." He rolled 678. Joseph West, Canadian champion, finished second just two pins in the rear, with Harry Savage, Schenectady, another two behind, this trio being especially closely grouped. In taking this championship, Krause rolled 251, 225 and 202 in his first, second and third games respectively.

Gernssee of Rochester won the five-men championship.

Cornell Freshmen Beat 'Varsity.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 28.—The Cornell 'Varsity crew was humbled by a freshman crew for the first time in a good many years on Cayuga Lake to-day, and as a result there is profound depression in Cornell rowing circles. The freshman crew beat the 'Varsity by a full length in a two-mile race south from Crowbar. The regular 'Varsity coxswain was absent and the big eight was upset by the numerous shifts made in the last few days. The Cornell 'Varsity has been shifted about for the last five days without increasing its speed and Coach Courtney is considerably perturbed. The 'Varsity crew in the race to-day rowed as follows: Bow, Eddy; Butts, 2; Allen, 3; Gilman, 4; Welles, 5; E. S. Bird, 6; O'Brien, 7; Spransy, stroke; Rand, coxswain.

Carlson Wins Final Road Run.

B. Carlson, with a five-minute handicap, won the final weekly road run of the season under the auspices of the Bronx Church House last night, leading a field of fifteen runners over the five-mile course, in 29.08. F. Ruggerio, who started from scratch, was second and J. Costello third. W. Buckhard was awarded the point trophy for the season, with a total of 25 points, while the second prize went to H. McGowan, with 23 points. S. Thummler was third, with 19 points. The order of finish in last night's run was as follows: B. Carlson, (5.00,) 29:08; F. Ruggerio, (scratch,) 24:20; J. Costello, (scratch,) 24:28; J. Sweeney, (3:00,) 27:33; G. Kiely, (scratch,) 24:34; W. Schlissman, (3:30,) 28:08; P. Hefferman, (1:00,) 25:37; W. Burkhard, (1:40,) 26:45; S. Thummler, (2:55,) 28:04; E. Byrne, (scratch,) 25:13; M. Monty, (6:00,) 28:16; H. McGowan, (2:00,) 27:40.

Just as the reduction of the tariff on wool cloth has enabled us to clip the duty saved off the price of clothes of imported fabrics—

So the admission of raw wool, duty free, enables us to give better quality in domestic woolens.

Heretofore the American mills have had no fair chance at the wool markets of the world—the tariff was prohibitive on many grades.

As it happens among these grades were many wools most useful for men's clothing.

Hence the present improvement in domestic qualities. Better clothes for the same money.

ARMED WAITING.

If Huerta were accustomed to appeal to the stars for the solution of his problems, as Louis XI. and Wallenstein used to do, the representatives in the City of Mexico of Brazil, Argentina, and Chile would of course at once take his official astrologer into camp in order to make sure that the stars gave him good advice. In default of astral advice he is under counsel now from many Governments. Germany, France, and England, it appears, have added their persuasions to those of the South American Powers, and even the States of Central America, it is reported, are speaking their minds. This form of pressure will undoubtedly be kept up and is likely to be increased, not by taking the form of threats, but by day to day iteration. Possibly in that way the old man's patience will be worn out.

Delay is to be expected, however. Having consented in principle to the use of good offices, he will be likely to impose conditions known to him to be unacceptable. That would be the characteristic Mexican fashion of negotiating, and since he has nothing in particular to lose by delay, such a policy may very naturally appeal to him. We gain by delay. Obviously, we gain by every day's postponement of active military operations, since in that way we have more time for completing our preparations. To cease preparation would be an act of egregious folly on our part, a mistake that would cost us dear if the negotiations should fail, while it would certainly be misconstrued by Huerta as an evidence of irresolution and weakness. If time is consumed by the interchange of views and the making and remaking of conditions, and more time will naturally be consumed than would be the case in a formally accepted mediation, our policy must be that of armed waiting, arming to go on as the waiting drags on.

The Constitutionalists' attitude toward the negotiation is quite unknown. No suggestion of compromise is likely to be made or accepted by Carranza and his advisers, however. They are fighting for a complete change of government, the reestablishment of lawful authority under the Constitution, the assuring of justice in the courts, and the division of the great landed estates among the people. In respect to these demands they would hardly consent to any abatement. And with them, as with our Government, the elimination of Huerta is fundamental.

While a survey of the situation at any given moment might easily lead to discouragement, a change for the better may come at any time. And there is one condition, practically controlling, which is distinctly favorable to a peaceful issue. That is the present position of Huerta. The old dictator stands alone, he is one against the whole world. Urged alike by nations that have recognized him and by those that have withheld recognition to yield to the inevitable, even his stubborn soul must despond. He is doomed, he may put off, he cannot escape. We do not know what heroism there may be in his Indian blood, but most Spanish-American dictators when fate thunders a summons at the front door seek safety by jumping out of a rear window. If he is ready to give up, nobody but the Constitutionalists would object to providing him with a way and means of escape. He knows what his fate will be if he remains in his capital. He cannot take to the woods, for there is not a hovel or cave in Mexico where he could live in security. These reflections will naturally occur to his own mind, some of them may be suggested to him in polite phrase. Stubborn as he is and ignorant as he may be, he cannot much longer delude himself as to his future. All the forces that work upon him tend to bring him to a conclusion which would be most welcome to us.

But there is no telling how long it will take him to make up his mind. Meanwhile, there can be no question that our military preparations will go on. The puzzling incident of the withdrawal of our warships from Tampico, which the country felt to be a mistake, is fortunately explained now in the statement issued from the Navy Department. It was the information and the belief of Admiral Mayo that "it was necessary for the "safety of all foreigners that the "United States naval vessels should "not be near the town." He therefore withdrew upon receiving the assurance of Admiral Cradock of the British cruiser Hermione that he would make provision for refugees. That service has been performed by the British Admiral in a way to win the gratitude of the American Government and people. This move at Tampico is only one of many unusual incidents that have characterized our armed demonstration in Mexico, which is itself unusual.

THE INCREASED POPULATION.

The estimates of the population of the United States, and of the various States and cities, made by the geographer of the Census Office, are very gratifying. In four years the increase in the whole country, including its outlying possessions, is about 7,000,000. The population of the United States on this continent is now nearly a round hundred millions, in the estimated figures 98,781,324. The growth of New York City is so rapid that it should reach the 6,000,000 mark in the next four years. The estimated population of Chicago approaches 2,500,000. New York State has nearly 10,000,000 inhabitants. The population of the whole country is growing at an amazing pace.

But it must be borne in mind that this increase is partly due to the admission of large numbers of immigrants who cross the ocean with a very small share of the qualifications required for good citizenship. We are already feeling the results of their lack of discipline and their imperfect understanding of the ideals on which this Republic was founded and which a large majority of its citizens are determined to perpetuate. Malicious and crack-brained agitators have found a way to exploit the ignorance and inflame the passions of countless immigrants. It is the duty of the nation and of every State not only to welcome the newcomers from abroad but to make them aware of the laws of this country, to teach them to become good citizens.

It cannot be said that this part of our duty has been very well performed of late. Its performance is beset with many difficulties. Yet it is no part of our national plan to restrict the immigration of healthy human beings with a capacity for work. There is still plenty of room here. Steps should be taken to counteract the evil influences which not only threaten the immigrant and bar his way to becoming a useful citizen, but constitute a menace to the whole nation. Our growth is a splendid thing. We have every reason to be proud of it. But we need a multiplication of corrective forces and increased means for the enlightenment of the ignorant immigrant, who is apt to fall a ready victim to such organizations as the I. W. W., formed with the purpose of tearing down all civilization and setting all laws at naught.

BIG BUSINESS AND THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Vanderlip agrees with Mr. Elliott in thinking that Big Business has a case fit for appeal from the politicians to the people. An election is coming, and it has been clear that a case for next November is under preparation at Washington. Perhaps the counter case may be regarded as outlined in the address of the President of the largest bank, from the largest city, both having a negative influence among the lawmakers. In some parts of the country Congressmen are chosen because they promise to stop the activities of Big Business, and to require 100 per cent. efficiency in the management of its affairs. But the voters who require the qualities of supermen in Big Business manifest only 40 per cent. of efficiency in their own affairs, and a lower degree in their choice of men to represent them in Congress. Prices of produce have risen because of the farmers' failure to meet demand with supply, and the value of farm lands has risen 200 per cent. or more, not because the farmers have increased their productive efficiency, but because human necessities are not satisfied on the same scale of supply as that established in other lands. The farmers, says Mr. Vanderlip, owe a duty to society because they have a monopoly of the means of supply of farm products, and are less efficient than they require others to be.

Mr. Vanderlip thinks that the case against the primary producers should be pressed upon them until they cease to choose lawmakers who impose oppressive standards of efficiency upon those who already are practicing the highest efficiency in the world, and yet are hampered and annoyed by Grangers and Populists whose own standards are among the world's lowest. Mr. Vanderlip's remedy is more bushels and bales to the acre, rather than more laws to the session. The remedy for the high cost of living should be sought rather on the farms than in the Capitols. Not that the lawmakers are primarily to blame:

> The blame lies back of them in an ill-informed and frequently unfair state of public opinion. We have had a period of political and magazine muckraking which has brought about a condition where business success is looked upon as a crime, where the man who has demonstrated that he can manage his business well is excluded from public counsel, and where no small part of our Government affairs has been put into the hands of men who would be incompetent to manage modest business affairs.

In the opinion of Mr. Vanderlip the condition of quietness in trade is due neither to the war nor to the tariff. The marvel is not that things are so bad but that they are not worse under the "terrible misunderstanding and misconception of public opinion" where the people rule. Congress, commissions, statutes hold enterprise in check, and kill the spirit of initiative which starts new undertakings. This will persist until economic principles are recognized. He concluded:

> It seems to me the highest duty of business men to contribute the best that is in them toward the creation of a wiser, sounder, more intelligent public opinion in regard to business affairs. That can be done neither by silent acquiescence nor by dissatisfied grumbling at existing tendencies. It is time for business men to speak out. Insist upon a better understanding of your methods, your problems, your aims. Let your voice be heard, and we then may hope that an intelligent and informed public sentiment will give to business men fair play, and to business an enduring foundation upon which sound prosperity may be solidly built.

It is not possible to dissent without assuming that Big Business is so irredeemably bad that it is not fit to be heard, nor even represented when laws are made. That has been the theory in the highest circles. Our Chamber of Commerce has been invited not to express its opinions at Washington, and the banks of the financial metropolis have been discriminated against in formulating the lines upon which banking business must be done for many years to come. At the present moment there are pending laws against business combinations which are pressed against almost united business sentiment. The protests of the banks and the railroads and the trusts are the measure of the efficiency of their regulators. It seems that this can go no further without recoil upon the promoters. The tide must be turned in some way, and Mr. Vanderlip's way is a good way, perhaps the only way.

COLORADO.

When rebellion has arisen against a State Government and the State militia shows itself incapable of coping with the situation, the first thing incumbent on the authorities at Washington is to take measures to restore peace in that State. From a quarrel between strikers and mine owners the struggle has become one that threatens the Government of Colorado. It is weak and futile to ask Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to come to the rescue of the State. That is the province of the President and of the Federal troops, and the President has determined upon action.

Yet Congressman Foster, in the name of the President, first besought Mr. Rockefeller and his father to intervene in Colorado and "prevent further bloodshed." The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, of which the younger Rockefeller is a Director and his father chief owner, is defending the operation of its mines with armed guards. The young man has authority to yield to a demand for arbitration. The reason he will not yield was given in his testimony before Chairman Foster of the Committee on Mines and Mining, as follows:

> A strike has been imposed upon the company from outside. * * * Black Hand letters, threats of violence to men's wives and daughters, are the ways in which outsiders make men go out. That is the way they brought on the strike, and nothing else. Of course, I assume the technical way in which the strike was brought on was the calling of the convention at which there was no bona fide representative or delegate from any of our men. I claim it is hardly a republican method of dealing to have a strike brought on in a convention without any representative of the men who are to strike being present.

Being informed that the strike leaders gave a different version of the story, Mr. Rockefeller said:

> It is a question which source of information one is to rely upon. I must rely upon that which I know. That is the only way we can get on in life, by trusting those whom one has reason to trust. We are frequently deceived, and when we are deceived we change as quickly as we can. I do not think we are in this case.

The public does not know the facts about the merits of the strike. It knows only that the strike has resulted in civil war. The war must be quelled. The facts may then be found out and judged.

THE ULSTER SITUATION.

The situation in Ulster has not materially changed. It is still the momentous question in Great Britain. The surreptitious distribution of arms among the opponents of the British Government has continued, and there are signs that, to counteract the continued rebellious spirit, the Government may establish military rule throughout the disaffected district. The proclamation of martial law may follow. Despite assurances to the contrary, it is believed that reinforcements have lately been sent to the north of Ireland, while a small fleet of war vessels has assembled off Larne, a port in the neighborhood of Belfast.

Mr. Asquith's tone in replying to questions in Parliament on Monday indicates that the Government is determined to silence the Ulster turmoil by the employment of the sternest measures, if resort to these is found necessary. The arrest of Carson and some of his fellow-rebels is expected, and they seem to view the outlook complacently, insisting that plans to resist home rule have been so effectively laid that their incarceration would not derange them.

In fact, England has a situation to meet right at home which is more threatening than the prospect of war with Mexico is to us. The condition there presages civil war, and the means of averting it are difficult to find. It seems unaccountable that the long contest for Irish Home Rule should have been carried to a successful termination in Parliament without consideration of the form which the Ulster objection to it would ultimately take. If partisan politics were instrumental in causing the uprising, it is certain that it has developed beyond the expectations of most of the politicians of the Opposition. Ulster is aroused now against a just cause. If the Home Rule bill is to become a law without compelling a resort to arms, Mr. Asquith's Government will have to develop a larger measure of administrative skill than it has yet revealed.

THE NATIONAL BIRD LAW.

Giving warning of danger to the Federal migratory bird law and declaring that its enemies are active before the United States Senate, Dr. William T. Hornaday accuses Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas of trying to prevent its enforcement by cutting out the appropriation of $50,000 passed by the House. The game-killing enemies of the law are thickest in Senator Robinson's State and in Missouri, Southern Illinois, Eastern Kansas, and Delaware. Senator James A. Reed of Kansas City led the onslaught on the appropriation by denouncing the law as "unconstitutional." Senator McLean got the paltry sum of $10,000 restored, which Dr. Hornaday thinks "is the same as nothing at all."

Why not give the law a square deal? Congress passed it in the belief that it was constitutional. If it is not, the courts will determine that question. But it was passed to be enforced.

It is to the great advantage of the States that the bird law be enforced. The migratory birds are of no State and of all States. They are shot by the pot-hunters in every State over which they fly. They are being exterminated. Some species have all but gone out of existence. As devourers of insect pests and vermin and as food they are worth hundreds of millions to the nation. For a thorough enforcement of the law $100,000 is needed; it would not be wasted. It is a sorry sight to see grave Senators prostituting their services to the game hogs.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

What Science Has Done for Soldiers.

War is, of course, the very oldest of arts or trades, as one may choose to call it, but though from the very beginning of human history such a vast amount of study and ingenuity has been devoted by men to attack on and defense against each other, changes in the conduct of war, as of most other activities, have been slow and slight until recently. The invention of gunpowder did, indeed, very materially affect military operations, but it can hardly be said to have revolutionized tactics as much as did the substitution of high for low power rifles, for the crossbow had almost the range and effectiveness of the old-fashioned muskets.

Our first conflict with Mexico, the civil war, and even that with Spain, were all of the old order, none of the armies in them being equipped with aeroplanes or radio-telegraphy, and the latest of the three saw hardly the starting of the new hygiene as applied to soldiers, doubtless the most important innovation of the three.

So long has it been expected as a matter of course that in war the deaths from disease would outnumber by far those in battle that confident expectations to that effect are still expressed. Yet the probabilities are that even in the once terribly dangerous "hot country" of Mexico the health of our troops would not suffer seriously until the men had been worn down by many months of severe exertion under the tropic sun. They can and will be protected against about all of the malignant fevers, and the dreadful plan of keeping them encamped for weeks and months on burning sands as preparation for service in the tropics—it was called "hardening" and "acclimatization" in 1898—has been forever abandoned. We know enough now to send men into the field with strength accumulated, not exhausted.

What a few wireless operators and a few aviators can do in the way of scouting and carrying orders and reports has already been illustrated at Vera Cruz, and though the cavalryman's occupation is not yet gone, much of his old work can be better done by the new corps. Of old-type field telephones we now hear little and are soon likely to hear less or nothing, as slavery to a wire is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

Night Work Harmless in Itself.

Miss Josephine Goldmark, as author of "Fatigue and Efficiency," a book of widely recognized authority in its highly important field, and as otherwise notable among industrial sociologists, speaks unquestionably from more than usual knowledge when she sees a victory of moment in the decision of the Special Sessions Justices sustaining the law forbidding the employment of women between the hours of 10 P. M. and 6 A. M. It is a little hard, however, for the rest of us, or at least for some of the rest, to understand what particular difference it makes to women or men whether an amount of work not in itself excessive or essentially injurious is done in one part of the day or another.

The old belief that sleeping, to be beneficial, or most beneficial, must come in the hours of darkness, and the earlier the better, is an exploded superstition. Human beings are quite capable of adjusting themselves to a nocturnal existence, and the degree to which they do so is almost a measure of their civilization; at any rate, it is invariably the first step out of savagery to declare independence of the sun in the matter of going to bed. Women night workers are, indeed, subjected to certain inconveniences and dangers from which men of the same class are free, but these are not very serious, and they can be easily enough guarded against by efficient policing of the streets.

Miss Goldmark is right, of course, in saying that the courts are steadily putting racial welfare more and more above preserving sacred the old "freedom of contract" which included liberty, for an agreed wage, to commit slow suicide. Any law prohibiting that, especially on the part of women, is fortunately likely to stand the test of reviews nowadays, and if the law under consideration does come in that category, not a reasonable word is to be said against it. But newspaper folk, better than most others, know that the harm of night work lies not at all in its being night work, but is because of the special temptations of the night worker to use too many of his idle hours for other purposes than sleeping. And to these special temptations the women night workers, to say the least, are much less prone to yield than are their brother owls.

Excitement Surely Significant.

When Secretary Bryan accidentally sat down on the many push buttons grouped at one corner of his desk, he made bells ring wildly in many parts of the State Department. Unconscious of the excitement he was causing, he kept the tintinnabulation going till something like half a regiment of underling diplomats and their servitors of various grades came rushing into the office where the Secretary was calmly and suavely telling the newspaper correspondents that he wouldn't tell them anything.

Naturally those who heard so long and loud a ringing as could thus be produced by a statesman who, whether great or not, is certainly large, thought momentous events were to be disclosed or vastly important orders issued, and when they discovered what had happened their disappointment—or relief—must have been enormous.

One vaguely suspects that the incident is not merely amusing—that much could be made of it by one sufficiently skilled in the finding of recondite significances in trifles. The friends of the Secretary ought to see one meaning or set of meanings in the adventure, and his enemies—no, he hasn't any, now—those who are not quite so admiring, should find analogies and metaphors entirely different. But what?

The problem is too difficult for us. Let our all-knowing and all-daring readers who so often advise and enlighten the editorial mind tackle it.

THE EXPERT WITNESS.

Should He Conceal Findings That Would Help the Other Side?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial page recently, you commented upon "intimidated witnesses speaking up," referring to the Frank case of Atlanta. Now, I desire to call your attention to another point of interest along the same line, in the same case.

At the close of the Frank trial, it was noticed and commented upon, that one of New York's famous handwriting experts, Mr. Albert S. Osborn, had been called by the prosecution to examine certain writing, (notes, &c., found near the dead girl) and as this handwriting expert was not put upon the stand to prove the same as being in the handwriting of Frank, it was inferred that his findings must have been contrary to the reasoning of the Prosecuting District Attorney.

The point I wish to make is that according to a questionable code of ethics, or seeming rule, an expert who is called by one side in a case and has received a fee for his service has no right to divulge his findings or render any service to the opposite side, though the prompting of his conscience may desire him to do otherwise, to render justice, where seeming injustice is about to take place.

How far should the code of ethics apply, where an expert desires to aid justice and also to be fair to his employer? Should his fee, for which he has rendered full service, and the fact that there may have been some confidential matters revealed to him, be sufficient reason for placing a padlock upon his mouth, though an innocent life might be saved by his revelations? DEER RANCHES IN LABRADOR.

Protest Against Plan to Slaughter Wild Life for Food.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is with a deep sense of disappointment that we learn through the press that Dr. Grenfell has returned to this country from England and is now on the way to Labrador with the avowed purpose and the means to establish there extensive deer ranches for the systematic breeding and slaughter of wild deer. This is to be a strictly commercial enterprise, we are told, and the venison or deer meat is to be treated just as beef and mutton are treated in the great slaughter houses of the Western States, viz., as a source of profit.

To humane persons this appears to be a retrograde movement on the scene of active missionary labors for the betterment of the native population of Labrador. It may be useless to utter a protest against the project, which should never have suggested itself to so noble a heart and mind as Dr. Grenfell's. Have the animals no rights which men are bound to protect? Cannot some powerful influence be invoked to insist upon protection for the wild life that still exists in far Labrador? It is well known that many medical men and social economists agree that we as a nation consume too great a quantity of animal flesh to the detriment of our health and morals. The demoralizing effect upon the men who engage in the actual work of slaughter and the packing and shipping of the carcasses should not be lost from view, nor the expense this traffic entails and the huge waste of the products.

Is it not possible to establish some other form of profitable industry in those desolate regions? The native wood might be used to construct furniture and farming implements, and shipbuilding might be undertaken. Quarries might be opened and clay for bricks and tiles and pottery so much in demand for fireproof building could no doubt be found by competent engineers. EVELYN FOSTER.

Not Related to Capt. Ingraham.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention was called to a recent notice in your paper of the death of Mrs. Lyman Trumbull. The notice states, among other things:

> Mrs. Trumbull was the daughter of Capt. Duncan N. Ingraham, who was born in 1802 and was the granddaughter of Nathaniel Ingraham, a friend of Paul Jones and an officer in the early American Navy. Capt. Ingraham created an international episode in 1853 by taking Martin Koszta, an American citizen, from an Austrian warship in the port of Smyrna. Congress subsequently praised his action. Capt. Ingraham joined the Confederate Navy and died in 1863.

Several members of the Ingraham family have spoken or written to me to the effect that Mrs. Trumbull was not related to the Ingrahams. What the notice reported with regard to Capt. Ingraham's connection with the Martin Koszta affair is correct, but Capt. Ingraham (later Commodore) did not die in 1863. He died in 1891, despite statements in some encyclopedias to the contrary.

Recently I have seen some of the decorations and medals awarded to Capt. Ingraham for his gallant act in the harbor of Smyrna. The citizens of New York, for instance, presented him with a gold medal, on which was inscribed Ingraham's words to Martin Koszta: "Do you claim the protection of the United States? You shall have it." The German-American citizens of Chicago presented him with a large silver goblet; Congress awarded him a gold medal, the citizens of Charleston, his native city, gave him a silver service, and, most remarkable of all, the workingmen of Great Britain, each contributing a penny, presented him with a silver chronometer. These are some of the testimonials presented to Capt. Ingraham for his courageous act on July 2, 1853. MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS.

SATURDAY IS SUFFRAGE DAY

Speeches Throughout the City to Take Place of Annual Parade.

Suffrage Day will be celebrated all over the country this year on Saturday. In New York the annual suffrage parade will be omitted, and instead seven suffrage societies, with visiting delegates, will cover the city with speechmakers. The organizations will gather at Washington Square, and at 1 P. M. the bugle will sound and a meeting will be held, with short speeches. At 1:45 automobiles will take the speakers to different parts of the city.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and her organization will hold a meeting at Grant's Tomb; the Men's League under James Lees Laidlaw will take the business part of lower New York; the Equal Franchise Society, with Mrs. Frederick Nathan, acting President, will go to Madison Square; Mrs. Charles Tiffany and the Collegiate Equal Suffrage League will take the college district; Miss Mary Garrett Hay and the Woman Suffrage Party, with the New York State Association, will cover the plaza, Columbus Circle, and Rutger's Square, and the Women's Political Union, Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, President, will have speakers at the approach to the bridge on Delancy Street, at Tompkins Square, and at the Mall in Central Park.

A meeting will be held in Carnegie Hall in the evening. The speakers are to include Mayor Mitchel, Senator John Shafroth, and Miss Katherine B. Davis.

A "DRY" AMENDMENT

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If you look at the census of 1910 you will find that the nine prohibition States have about 15 per cent. of the total population of the United States, and that twelve license States with great industrial centres have 53 per cent. of the population. These twelve States are Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri and California. They have more than 48,600,000 of the 92,000,000 people in the United States, cast more than one-half the total vote for President in 1912, have 230 of the 435 members of the House of Representatives, have two-thirds of the manufactured wealth, three-fourths of the mining, pay two-thirds of the internal revenue, three-fourths of the corporation tax, and it is estimated that they will pay three-fourths of the income tax. They also have 60 per cent. of all the church members in the United States, and 65 per cent. of the church property; have more children attending the public schools than all the other thirty-six States, and have a lower percentage of illiteracy, divorce, crime and mortality, than that of the nation at large.

If a Constitutional amendment in favor of prohibition were submitted to the people, this majority of the voters, of the church people, the educated people, and the moral people if you please, might express their opinion. Capt. Hobson said to the Judiciary Committee "it is not a question whether you agree that prohibition is wise or unwise. It is your duty to submit the question to the people in a referendum." But it will not go to the people if this resolution is passed by Congress. It will go to the State Legislatures, and Mr. Anderson correctly says, when one State Legislature has ratified, that action cannot be repealed, but if a Legislature rejects it, the campaign can be continued until a favorable vote is secured, in five or even ten years, and the league managers admit that to be their plan. They will not bother about New York or any one of these twelve States where the majority of the voters live and exercise their suffrage. They do not need to consult the wishes of this majority. If they can secure favorable action from the Legislatures of the other thirty-six States, the amendment will be ratified and forced upon the twelve States.

Is not the House of Representatives the place for these twelve States to exert their influence? It is the only stage in amending the Constitution where the majority of the people can make their influence felt. These twelve States have more than a majority of the House, and more than one-third of the Representatives come from cities which do not want this question forced upon them to demoralize their governments with laws which will not be respected. Instead of Capt. Hobson's view that the House of Representatives has no other function than to "submit this proposition to the people," it seems to me that the House is the one place where it should be most carefully considered before the resolution is adopted, for that is the only place where "the people" are proportionately represented and where the majority can express its will. If the people would not pass it, as you say, then the people should express their will in the House of Representatives. B.

Subway "Ticket Books."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the rapid transit companies really wish to eliminate the congestion caused by the purchase of Subway and elevated tickets individually, instead of in quantities for future use, they should provide tickets which do not resemble a scrap of crumpled blotting paper after being carried in the pocket for a few hours.

Books of ten and twenty tickets should be provided, as is the custom in many lines of business which wish to encourage this practice. And perhaps sometime, if it would not be asking too much, the regular rush-hour victim might have a free ride on an extra ticket with each book purchased to compensate the public for the tickets which would be lost and never used. Admission to Art Museum.

Your plea for funds for the Metropolitan Museum would not have to be made if the Museum would charge everybody five cents admission. This would be a burden to none, and it would materially relieve the Museum's embarrassed financial condition. All European art galleries do this, although they are "free." S. J. P.

THE BEACON.

Full fourscore years have passed me by;
Chair-bound and feeble, at my window, I
Look out upon the aging world,
Half sad, half glad, to know the end so nigh.

Below me, many housetops hide
The secrets of a thousand lives inside—
Protect their joys, loves, griefs, and sins.
Ah! I have known all these—and more beside!

I've drunk of life in many lands
Full draughts! No cup withheld, untasted, stands—
Save one, from which we all must drink,

Sundown's trailed by a dying rose * * *
But wind-bent trees a golden cross disclose,
Spire high! So, in my dark'ning room,
Alone, I wait in peace for night's repose.

TWO TESTS OF LABOR LAW.

First Appeal in Factory Women's Case May Be Withdrawn.

The constitutionality of the labor law prohibiting the employment of women in factories between 10 P. M. and 6 A. M. was not affirmed by the Court of Special Sessions in the case brought by the National Consumers' League against the Charles Schweinler Press on Monday, according to a statement made yesterday by Alfred E. Ommen, who represents the Schweinler Press and about a dozen other large printing and bookbinding concerns.

In a suit involving the same principals last December, Justices Forker, McInerney, and Collins of the Court of Special Sessions were inclined to dismiss the case on the ground that the provision of law involved had been declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals. Acquittal would have prevented the District Attorney from appealing, and to make a test the Justices, at the suggestion of Mr. Ommen, held his client guilty, and on his motion arrested judgment. The case is now pending before the Appellate Division.

To emphasize the situation, the National Consumers' League brought a second prosecution against the Schweinler firm. When this case came up on Monday in the Court of Special Sessions, Mr. Ommen asked for its dismissal on the ground that a similar action was pending decision in the higher court. Assistant District Attorney De Ford opposed the plea, filing in addition his own brief and another of 529 pages prepared by Louis D. Brandeis.

Justice Forker voted to dismiss the case on the ground that it was like the earlier case pending. The two other Justices, Herrman and Fleming, thought best to repeat the course of the Court of Special Sessions in the earlier case. This left the status of the labor law in the same position as before.

Mr. De Ford yesterday asked Mr. Ommen to stipulate for the withdrawal of the earlier appeal so as to allow the higher court to take up the first instead of the newer case. This Mr. Ommen refused to do. It is likely, however, that the Appellate Division will grant the District Attorney's motion for a withdrawal of his earlier appeal and will act on the later case instead.

ENDLESS CHAIN OF GIVING.

Needlework Guild Invites Membership and Garments.

An invitation to send two brand new articles of clothing or of bed linen and become a member of the Needlework Guild of America was issued by that organization at its Spring meeting, which was held at the residence of the New York City Branch President, Miss Grace Bigelow, 21 Gramercy Park, yesterday afternoon. These garments go to different needy charities, and especially to poor patients leaving the hospitals who are often pitifully ill-clad, suffering relapse sometimes for this reason alone.

The guild is an endless chain of giving. Under the regular officers of the guild there are section Presidents and Directors. Each section President secures four Directors, and each Director becomes such by securing ten contributors of two garments each, being also a donor herself. The contributors are asked in their turn to become Directors by drawing in other contributors, and the work grows and the value of its service increases with only little effort on the part of any one individual.

The three speakers at the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, the national President; the Rev. Charles Perley Tinker of the Episcopal City Mission, and the Rev. Dr. Jonathan C. Day of the Labor Temple.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Aldermen Authorize One Under Commissioner of Licenses.

The Aldermen passed unanimously yesterday a resolution providing for a free employment bureau to be connected with the Commissioner of Licenses' office under the new law recently passed by the Legislature consolidating in a Department of Licenses all license bureaus in the city, with the exception of stationary engineers and firemen, which were left under the control of the Police Department. Chamberlain Bruere, Charities Commissioner Kingsbury, and Civil Service Commissioner Moskowitz, who were appointed as a commission by Mayor Mitchel early in the year to study the condition of the city's unemployed, told the Aldermen how successful the temporary employment bureau had been in getting positions for those out of work.

"In this city," said Chamberlain Bruere, "we have all sorts of exchanges, except an exchange where a man out of a job can go and get one without paying a fee. The establishment of a free employment bureau will cost very little money and will help many a man and woman."

TAMMANY OFFER TO BRYAN.

Grill Room Talk Would Make Him a Fighting Colonel.

Some members friendly to Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy met some members who are not around a big table in the grill room at the National Democratic Club the other night. The topic of conversation was the relative virtue of Tammany and Tammany's foes in the Democratic Party.

"Why," said one of the Murphy men to the antis, "what are you doing for your country these days? Tammany has offered to raise a regiment and to defray the expenses at the front. And what is more, Tammany is willing to sink its pride and tender the Colonelcy to a man for whom Tammany has no more use than President Wilson has for Huerta."

"Col. William Jennings Bryan," Mr. Murphy's friend replied. "There will be only one condition imposed—that he keep well in front when the Tammany regiment advances on the enemy."

DR. WM. J. MAYO HERE.

Famous Surgeon Sails To-morrow to Visit Schools and Clinics Abroad.

Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., arrived yesterday at the Netherland on his way to Europe. He will sail to-morrow on the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm and will visit Russia, Finland, Sweden, Norway, and Denmark.

The reputation of Dr. Mayo and his brother as surgeons is fully as widespread in Europe as in the United States, and numbers of foreign surgeons who have come to this country in recent years have made pilgrimages to Rochester to attend their clinics and to see how their hospital work is carried on. Many invitations have been extended to the American surgeons to lecture at surgical institutions in Europe. It is in response to invitations so numerous and so insistent that they amounted to a demand that Dr. William J. Mayo was finally induced to leave his work long enough to pay a visit to Northern Europe. He will visit the universities and surgical clinics in the countries named.

SCHOOLS TO CELEBRATE.

Exercises in Memory of Washington's Inauguration To-morrow.

Supt. of Schools Maxwell sent a circular to the Principals yesterday directing that exercises be held in the public schools to-morrow to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as first President. He also asked that exercises be held on May 8 in observance of Arbor Day, and on May 18, the anniversary of the opening of the first Hague Peace Conference. Flag Day, which falls on Sunday, June 14, is to be celebrated in the schools on June 15.

It was announced that the Committee on Buildings would be unable to provide funds this year for planting of trees on Arbor Day.

Kracke Appoints F. C. Childs.

Bridge Commissioner Kracke yesterday appointed F. Carter Childs, a Brooklyn newspaper man, as his private secretary. Mr. Childs is 30 years old. He attended Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and the University of Virginia. For the last year he has been Albany correspondent of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

ASTOR BEQUESTS HAVE ALL BEEN PAID

Cost of Administering Estate to Date, with Transfer Tax, Foots Up $3,305,480.

$24,715,478 DISTRIBUTED

The first judicial accounting of the estate of Col. John Jacob Astor was filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday by his four executors, James Roosevelt Roosevelt, Douglas Robinson, Nicholas Biddle, and William Vincent Astor. The accounting, however, was only in regard to the personal property of the Astor estate. The executors charged themselves with $24,794,368, and credited themselves with $24,715,478, leaving a cash balance in their hands of $78,890. All of the bequests mentioned in Col. Astor's will have been paid.

The $24,794,368, with which the executors charged themselves, was made up as follows: Property received shortly after Col. Astor's death, $19,273,388; real estate allotted to trust funds, $3,007,500; money borrowed, $1,688,311; rents collected, $76,309, and income other than that derived from rents, $596,377.

The disbursements were accounted for as follows: Funeral expenses, $9,007; paid out for debts, $1,182,350; legal expenses, transfer tax proceedings, and general administration expenses, $3,305,480; decrease resulting from sale of securities, $21,277; decrease resulting from transfer of securities in payment of legacies, $553,274; property transferred to legatees, not including the residuary legatee, $14,609,773; property transferred to residuary legatee, $4,670,330; interest on trust funds from April 15, 1912, to Jan. 15, 1913, $550,330.

The executors' accounting shows that the personal property at Ferncliff, which passed to Vincent Astor and which includes books, works of art, bronzes, silverware, wines, and china, is valued at $111,722. The paintings and engravings in the Astor home at 840 Fifth Avenue are worth $36,265, and the personal property which belongs to Mrs. Madeleine Talmage Force Astor in the Fifth Avenue home is valued at $962,959. The yacht Noma is valued at $90,000.

The realty of the Astor estate, according to the appraisal report filed last June, is valued at $63,124,321. The value of the gross estate was set down at $87,218,000 and the value of the net estate at $85,311,228. Vincent Astor's share was valued at $68,964,599.

The principal holdings of stock were 40,000 shares of New York Central Railroad, 10,000 shares of Illinois Central Railroad, 6,229 shares of New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and 8,160 shares of the Pullman Company.

Mrs. Ida Straus, who perished with her husband, Isidor Straus, in the Titanic disaster on April 15, 1912, left a net estate of $319,940, according to an appraisal of her estate filed yesterday. As she left no will, her estate was divided equally among her six children, Jesse, Percy, and Herbert Straus, and Mrs. Sarah S. Hess, Mrs. Minnie S. Weil, and Mrs. Vivian S. Scheftel.

Mrs. Straus had bank accounts of $1,202, silverware valued at $1,688, jewelry valued at $3,848, and stocks worth $67,712. She had also an account as a depositor with L. Straus & Sons, which, with interests, amounted to $261,126.

The jewelry owned by Mrs. Straus included a guard chain of gold set with twelve diamonds and twelve Oriental pearls, a brooch with thirty-one diamonds, a hairpin of amber with a scroll of platinum and gold, mounted with 125 diamonds, and a platinum brooch containing 189 diamonds and eight pearls.

Mrs. Straus's stocks consisted of fifty shares of New York County National Bank, fifty shares of Second National Bank, and twenty-five shares of the Germania Bank of Savannah, Ga.

WEIR HEIRS' DISPUTE ENDED.

Estate of Mining Engineer, a Titanic Victim, Now Appraised.

Col. John Weir, the mining engineer, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, left a net estate of $26,876, a part of which consisted of stocks and bonds he had with him on the Titanic. His estate, according to the appraisal filed yesterday, is made up as follows: Bank accounts, $60; notes, $5,906; stocks and bonds, $39,087.

The estate was divided among his wife, Hattie M. Weir, and his four children, Robin D. Weir, Harold M. Weir, Beatrice M. Stewart-Seton and Mary Norton Weir. Mrs. Weir receives one-third of the estate and the children each one-sixth.

After Harold M. Weir had been appointed administrator of his father's estate, Robin D. Weir, an Australian, appeared and claimed the estate, alleging that he was the son and only legitimate heir of Col. Weir. Robin D. Weir said that he was Col. Weir's son by a marriage his father had contracted in Europe many years ago. He also attacked the validity of Col. Weir's second marriage.

The appraisal report shows that the matter has been compromised and that it has been agreed that Robin D. Weir is an heir to the estate, although not the only heir.

DR. GORGAS GETS MEDAL.

Safety Museum Honors Surgeon General for Canal Zone Sanitation.

Surgeon General William C. Gorgas, U. S. A., received the Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman medal last night from the American Museum of Safety as a recognition of his work in making the Panama Canal Zone habitable and sanitary for the workers on the canal. The ceremonies took place in the library of the American Institute of Mechanical Engineers, 29 West Thirty-Ninth Street, before 100 invited guests, among them many of prominence in the medical and engineering professions. Arthur Williams, President of the Museum, made the opening address and Prof. Frederick R. Hutton of Columbia University the speech of presentation. Dr. Norman E. Ditman discussed the scientific value of the work of the guest of honor, describing him as one who "put the sanity in sanitation." Dr. Seaman, the donor of the medal, also made an address.

In accepting the honor conferred upon him, Dr. Gorgas said he did so only as the representative of the some four or five hundred young Americans who had been engaged in the work of sanitation on the Isthmus. He said that the work of this body would be remembered not so much as a contribution to the building of the canal, but in what he considered its most important aspect, the first demonstration on a large scale that white men could go into the tropics, do daily work and bring up their families, all of them remaining in just as good health as if they were living in a temperate zone. He said that in years to come, as this fact became recognized, the tropics would become the centre of large populations, because the rewards of workers were so much greater than those of the regions they now inhabited.

Industrial Show Continues.

Owing to widespread interest and demands from many quarters, the exhibit of Better Industrial Relations, which has been held at 2 West Sixty-fourth Street under the auspices of the Business Men's Group of the Society for Ethical Culture, will be continued until to-morrow. Many educators, economists, employers, and employes have visited the exhibit. Clarence J. Grimm will explain the various exhibits. Admittance is free.

FINDS NEW SYSTEM IN THE HUMAN BODY

Made Possible "Shockless Surgery"—Vitality May Be Conserved by Intelligent Control of Stimuli.

In his oration on surgery at the opening of the 108th annual meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York in the Hotel Astor yesterday morning Dr. George W. Crile, Professor of Surgery of the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, advanced his belief in what he termed the kinetic system. This system is composed, he said, of a chain of five organs in the body and is the only system that has as its primary purpose the transformation of potential or latent energy into heat or motion. As a system it has never been isolated and discussed before as Dr. Crile discussed it yesterday.

That this theory of the kinetic system will have practical value in the treatment of disease and impairment of the human body Dr. Crile stated in the opening paragraph of his paper.

"In this paper," he said, "I formulate a theory which I hope will harmonize a large amount of clinical and experimental data, supply an interpretation of certain diseases, and show by what means many diverse causes produce the same effects."

"If our conclusions are sound, then in the kinetic system we should find an explanation of many diseases, and having found an explanation we may find new methods of combating the diseases.

"The responsibility for the kinetic theory is assumed by myself, while the responsibility for the experimental data is shared fully by my associates, Drs. J. B. Austin, F. W. Hitchings, H. G. Sloan, and M. L. Menten."

None of the various other systems of the body, Dr. Crile asserted, is "evolved primarily for the purpose of transforming potential energy into kinetic energy for specific ends.

Transformation of Latent Energy.

"No one of them," he said, "transforms latent energy into kinetic energy for the purpose of escaping, fighting, running, combating disease, &c. The kinetic system is primarily for the transformation of latent energy into motion and heat."

The organs of this system, as given by Dr. Crile, are the brain, the suprarenals, (glands or caps above the kidneys,) the liver, the muscles, and the thyroid, (which is made up of a gland and a cartilage of the lrynx.) Energy is appropriated by the body from the physical forces of nature that constitute the environment, Dr. Crile said, and this energy is stored in the body in quantities in excess of the need of the moment. It is the function of the organs of the kinetic system to transform the surplus so stored into action and heat as needed.

This mechanism of organs, Dr. Crile explained, produces fever as well as muscular activity, fever being heat generated to combat disease. Bacilli do not live as well in a fevered body as in a body at normal temperature. A study of the five organs of the kinetic system showed Dr. Crile that they were affected in the same way no matter what form transformed latent energy took, whether heat in fever or motion in muscular activity.

Dr. Crile first discussed the separate functions of the brain, suprarenals, and liver in the transformation of latent into kinetic energy. In doing so he drew a comparison with three parts of an automobile.

"It would appear," he said, "that these three organs take the stress of life. The brain is the battery, the suprarenals the oxidizer, (or carbureter,) and the liver the gasoline tank.

Muscles as the Furnace.

"With these three kinetic organs," he continued, "we may surely associate also the 'furnace,' or muscles, in which the energy provided by the brain, the suprarenals, and the liver—plus oxygen—is fabricated or made into heat and motion.

"But neither the brain, suprarenals, liver, nor muscle," he went on, "have the power to change the rate of the expenditure of energy, to make possible the increased expenditure in adolescence, in courting and mating, and in combating infection. None of these organs nor all of them combined can act as a pacemaker or sensitizer. The brain acts immediately in response to the stimuli of the moment; the suprarenals respond instantly to the fickle brain, the liver contains fuel only and cannot activate, and the muscles in turn act as the great furnace in which the final transformation into available energy is made.

"The thyroid has the special power of governing the rate of discharge of energy; in other words, the thyroid is the pacemaker."

Dr. Crile spent much time in discussing experiments that supported his kinetic theory in a positive way and then gave results of negative evidence which tended to establish the same theory. He showed that the five organs named were linked inseparably and that action upon one of them produced action in measured proportion upon all of the others. Regarding this he said:

"When the brain is physically impaired in cerebral softening it cannot normally stimulate the other organs to the conversion of latent energy into heat or action. In cases of cerebral softening we find feeble muscular and intellectual power. In a disease affecting the suprarenals we find accompanying the impairment of the organ subnormal temperature and impaired muscular power. When the function of the liver is impaired by tumors or degeneration of the liver itself then the entire energy of the body is correspondingly diminished. If the muscles are impaired by a prolonged disease then the range of production of both heat and motion is below the normal. Likewise impairment of the thyroid is accompanied by a loss of physical and mental energy.

Deficiency Affects All the Organs.

"Deficiency in one of the organs of the kinetic chain causes alike loss of heat, loss of muscular and emotional action, of mental power, and of the power of combating infection. The brain, suprarenals, liver, muscles, and thyroid are the vital links in the kinetic chain, and a chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

"From this we are able to understand the muscular weakness following fever; we can understand why the senile have neither muscular power nor strong feverish reaction; why long-continued infections produce pathologic changes in the organs constituting the kinetic system."

Physical or mental shock caused by pain, fear, rage, or exercise causes an impairment of the kinetic system, Dr. Crile said, because shock means the transformation of potential energy into heat or action. The temperature rises when one is in pain, in fear, or temper. In this transformation of energy the organs of the system are "used up," as it were, and must be repaired by rest and the absorption of more excess or potential energy. It is desirable, therefore, that unnecessary or too severe shocks be avoided, and the first step in the avoidance of shocks has been made possible by the knowledge of the kinetic system, Dr. Crile said.

"Our explanation of the phenomenon of shock," he said, "has made possible the 'shockless surgical operation.' Will this kinetic theory stand also the test of controlling disease bred in the midst of the stress of our present-day life? Present-day life, in which one must ever have one hand on the sword and the other on the throttle, is a constant stimulus of the kinetic system. The force of these kinetic stimuli may be lessened at the brain link by intelligent control—a protective control is experimentally attained now by many of the most successful men. We know that any organ in the system overstrained or overstimulated causes impairment of the whole system."

Intelligent Control of System.

It is Dr. Crile's idea, therefore, that with knowledge of the kinetic system men in present day life, by "intelligent control of the system at the brain link," that is, by controlling the "electricity" that flows from the "battery" and starts the whole system working, may conserve the whole system and keep each link in the chain strong.

Besides taking up this control aspect Dr. Crile also discussed recuperation. And in doing this he prescribed sleep as the great restorative. One of the experiments performed by Dr. Crile to test this contention and also the kinetic theory itself was particularly impressive.

"Groups of rabbits," he said, "were gently kept awake for 100 hours by relays of students—an experiment which steadily withdrew energy, but caused not the slightest physical or emotional injury to any of the subjects. This protracted insomnia gradually exhausted the animals completely, some to the point of death, even. Some of the survivors were killed immediately after the expiration of the 100 hours of wakefulness, others after varying intervals. Microscopical studies were made of every tissue and organ in the body of each. Three organs, the brain, the suprarenals, and the liver, showed microscopic or histological changes, and these three only showed such changes. In these three organs the histological changes were marked, but they were almost wholly repaired by one seance of sleep. In each instance the changes were identical with those seen after physical exertion and emotion.

In discussing the relative importance of the organs in the system, Dr. Crile said that all were about equally vital. Contrary to general opinion, he said, of the brain, the suprarenals, and the liver, the brain, if any, was the least vital. The body of a dog had been kept alive, he said, for eleven hours after its brain had been removed.

In a talk on "Pediatrics" at an afternoon session of the meeting, Dr. William M. Culbert of New York said that many afflictions were caused by improper breathing, and that improper breathing often resulted from an unclean condition of the nose. The nose should be kept clean, he said, and should be blown as children naturally blow it—that is, with no pressure on the nostrils, or at least only slight pressure on one nostril. Also, he said, it should not be blown hard.

Dr. Culbert further said that adenoids could often be removed by proper breathing, and that in many cases an operation was unnecessary.

The meeting will be continued at the Hotel Astor to-day. There will be a dinner at the hotel to-night.

Killed with Own Gun by Man He Shot

ENGLISH EMPIRE SOFAS, $190

Two original English Empire sofas brought one of the high prices of the day at the Crawford sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to C. K. G. Billings for $190. A pair of Queen Anne walnut arm chairs with elaborately carved legs, down cushions and upholstered in mulberry damask, went to Seaman, agent, for $190. Madam Laura paid $52.50 for an antique Jacobean bench upholstered in green velvet; a Queen Anne arm chair, upholstered in cut Genoese velvet, went to Eldridge for $57.50, and Seaman, agent, paid $80 for an early English oblong upright mirror.

Herbert L. Satterlee was one of the purchasers, paying $155 for a "Portrait of a Lady," of the school of Romney. A genuine antique early English oak hanging cupboard went to Seaman, agent for $100; John M. Davis paid $85 for a Chippendale mahogany arm chair with hound's head arms and cabriole legs, the latter with elaborately carved masks and claw feet, seat and back upholstered in mulberry damask.

The returns for the afternoon were $4,855. The sale will be continued this afternoon.

Minister Gonzales Gives a Ball.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 28.—United States Minister Gonzales to-night gave his first entertainment on a large scale since his arrival here. There was some criticism because of the giving of a ball while the United States is practically at war with Mexico, but the inviations were issued prior to the outbreak of hostilities.

IN ST. THOMAS'S CHAPEL

Only Eight Attend Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Stires—Couple to Live in Greenwich, Conn.

The wedding of John A. Topping, who lived at the Plaza, and Mrs. Louise Manning of 701 Madison Avenue, widow of Richard F. Manning, took place at noon yesterday in the Chapel of St. Thomas's Church, Fifty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires officiating. The chapel was not deocrated, as it was an informal affair, with only eight people present. Mr. Topping had his son, W. B. Topping of Philadelphia, as his best man. There were no ushers. Mrs. Manning, who was unattended, wore a blue traveling costume topped by a black hat with feathers and wore also a cluster of orchids.

Mr. Topping's first wife died in 1912. One of his sons, Henry J. Topping, married Miss Rhea Reid, the daughter of Daniel G. Reid. Mr. Topping is 53 years old. He is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Republic Iron and Steel Company.

Mrs. Topping, who is 39 years old, is a daughter of Seth W. Johnson, retired merchant, and her first husband was a member of the firm of Manning, Maxwell & Moore.

After a honeymoon trip of several weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Topping will live at Mr. Topping's country estate at Greenwich, Conn.

WEBB-ROGERS WEDDING PLANS

Ceremony in St. James's Church, Hyde Park-on-Hudson, on May 16.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Anne Pendleton Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Rogers of 35 West Fifty-third Street, to J. Griswold Webb, at 12:30 o'clock on Thursday, May 16, in St. James's Church, Hyde Park-on-Hudson, N. Y. As the church is small invitations to the ceremony have been limited. The Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody of Groton School, Groton, Mass., will officiate, and the reception will be held at Crumwold Hall, Hyde Park, the country place of the bride's parents.

Miss Rogers will have as matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Kenneth B. Schley, and the bridesmaids chosen are the Misses Margaret E. Trevor, Catherine D. Colt, Sara Delano, and Ruth Wales. Miss Elizabeth S. Rogers, the young niece of the bride, will act as flower girl.

Curtis Dewey, Henry P. McKean, Chester G. Burden, Samuel M. Felton, Jr., Darragh A. Park, Walter Tufts, Jr., Thomas H. Frothingham, Chase H. Davis, Frederick Parker, Jr., and John S. Parker.

Mr. Webb will give his bachelor dinner on May 2, at the Copley Plaza, Boston. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Walter Webb of Boston, and is a nephew of Dr. W. Seward Webb and G. Creighton Webb of this city.

MISS IRENE TALLEY A BRIDE.

Married to Thomas A. Bradley in Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's.

The wedding of Miss Irene Catherine Talley, daughter of the late John J. Talley, and Thomas A. Bradley of New Jersey, took place yesterday afternoon at 11 o'clock in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The Rev. John Murphy officiated, assisted by Mons. Francis H. Wall and the Rev. John J. McNamee.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with point lace. Miss Catherine Talley, her sister, was her only attendant. Her brother, J. J. Talley, gave her in marriage.

Charles J. Kelsher was best man, and Hugh J. Kelly and Edwin J. Talley were the ushers.

Daughter of Col. and Mrs. G. Harvey to Wed Lieut. M. H. Thompson.

Col. and Mrs. George Harvey announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Harvey, to Lieut. Marcellus H. Thompson, U. S. A. Lieut. Thompson is of the third generation of Kentucky-born West Pointers. His grandfather, Col. James Thompson, was a member of the class of 1851 and was brevetted for bravery in the civil war. His father, Col. John T. Thompson, of the class of 1882, is Assistant Chief of Ordnance at Washington, and is noted for his inventions.

Lieut. Thompson, who was of the class of 1903 at Harvard, was graduated at West Point in 1906. He is stationed at Fort Washington, Md., where he is serving as Adjutant in the Coast Artillery. No date has been set for the wedding.

Y. W. C. A. GIRLS RUN RACES.

Ten Branches Compete in Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

There was a wildly exciting time in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory last evening when 400 Y. W. C. A. girls of 10 different branches held their first athletic contest in New York. Three silver cups were awarded as trophies and no athletic association of young men was ever more enthusiastic. The girls shouted and whistled and gave the cheers of the different branches.

The greatest interest centred in the three contest games, the color relay race, the hurdle relay race, and the throw and catch relay race. It was for these that the cups were awarded. The Recreation Centre of New York carried off the trophy for the first, Plainfield, N. J., took the second, and the West Side, New York, the third.

There was a long programme, beginning with a march to show good carriage and posture, and there was not a débutante slouch to be seen among the 400 girls. Mrs. W. Fellowes Morgan awarded the trophies, Miss Elizabeth Burchenal and Miss Madeline L. Stevens were the judges, Miss Emily A. O'Keefe the referee and Miss Alga M. Beck the starter.

In the audience among others were Miss Grace Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Perkins, Miss Dorothy Perkins, Miss Maude Wetmore, Miss Rachel Crothers, Miss Cora L. Tatham, Miss Caroline B. Dow and Evarts Jansen Wendell.

ASTOR WEDS TO-MORROW.

The interest of society will be centred to-morrow on the wedding of Vincent Astor and Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, which is to be celebrated at 12:30 o'clock at Hopeland House, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington at Staatsburg, N. Y., where Mr. Astor is rapidly recovering from his illness. Ther ceremony will be performed in the library, the Rev. Charles H. Duncan, rector of St. Margaret's Church at Staatsburg, officiating.

Although the wedding is to be quiet on account of Mr. Astor's illness, the villagers at Staatsburg are assuming an air of festivity, owing to Miss Huntington and Mr. Astor's popularity in the neighborhood, the Astor estate being at Rhinebeck, which is just across the river.

Miss Huntington, who has received many handsome gifts, is staying close to Hopeland House. Mr. Astor is able to be about the house, but has not been out of doors as yet.

The guests will be limited to the immediate relatives and neighbors from the nearby estates. White orchids are to be used in the decoration of the rooms, also at the wedding breakfast.

No plans have been announced yet as to where Mr. Astor and his bride will go after the ceremony, although it is believed that they will spend several days either at Hopeland House or at Mr. Astor's place. The report comes from Newport that he does not intend to open Beechwood, his villa there, during the coming season, and that Mrs. John Astor, his mother, will return to England shortly after the marriage.

J. W. GATES'S NEPHEW DEAD.

Henry R. Baker, Who Married His Nurse, Dies in Colorado.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., April 28.—Henry Rockwell Baker, nephew of the late John W. Gates of New York, is dead at his home here, aged 23. Two years ago Baker developed pulmonary disease in Chicago. He was brought here by Mrs. Gates in a special train carrying the family physician and a nurse, Miss Nina W. Carlson of St. Charles. Mr. Baker improved, and was married here to his nurse, who was a former schoolmate. Mrs. Gates presented him with a handsome modern home.

The marriage created much interest at the time, as it was announced in certain quarters that he was cut off from his uncle's will from a princely fortune by his marriage.

This Mrs. Gates denies. She has from time to time presented Mr. and Mrs. Baker with ample funds, including a farm near Phoenix Ariz., where they spent last Winter. The Bakers returned from Phoenix two weeks ago. Mrs. Gates is expected here from New York.

SPINNERS DENOUNCE COTTON EXCHANGE

Manufacturers' Association Demands Its Regulation by Congress.

FIXES, NOT RECORDS, PRICES

Committee Is Authorized to Arrange for Financing the $5,000,000 Warehouse Plan.

The eighteenth annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association at the Waldorf-Astoria ended yesterday afternoon after a bitter attack on the practices of the New York Cotton Exchange had been made by many members of the association. A report of Lewis W. Parker, Chairman of the Committee on Cotton Exchanges, was adopted unanimously. In this report the statement was made that unless the New York Exchange's rules "can be so regulated by action of Congress as to compel the performance of its proper functions it should, in our judgment, be abolished."

Mr. Parker is President of the Parker Cotton Mills Company and one of the wealthiest cotton goods manufacturers in South Carolina. His report followed the address of Arthur R. Marsh, former President of the New York Cotton Exchange, on new rules of the Exchange. Mr. Marsh said it was almost impossible to learn what the cotton men of the South really want, as many different opinions come from different sections.

Mr. Parker, exonerating Mr. Marsh and other members of the Exchange of personal intention to do injury, then launched into a denunciation of the Exchange methods, denouncing especially efforts to depress or inflate prices for purposes of manipulation. Hope is held out, however, he said, that reforms will be secured through new laws to be passed by the present Congress.

"An exchange," said Mr. Parker, "is assumed merely to reflect the price of the commodity in which it deals; it is the means by which buyer and seller are brought to a common basis. But an exchange which arbitrarily states the value of that commodity with relation to the law of supply and demand as applied to the commodity is a curse to both producer and spinner. Such an exchange must and should be so regulated as to compel its quotations to state correctly the price of the commodity on which it quotes, or should be abolished."

He cited one instance in which he said contracts had been caused to advance 80 points by manipulation, whereas the natural advance in the instance was only 20 points.

Mr. Marsh, in brief answer to the report, said that the Exchange was anxious to comply with the wishes of the Southerners, and an amendment was adopted stating that the association would be glad to co-operate with the New York Exchange in any real effort to accomplish reforms.

The Duke warehouse plan, which provides for the amalgamation of a large chain of cotton warehouses in the South, was approved by the association and the committee of fifteen which reported on it, of which Stuart W. Cramer, retiring President of the association, is Chairman, was authorized to formulate plans for its financing.

T. I. Hickman of Augusta, Ga., former Vice President of the association, was elected President. C. B. Bryant was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer. Scott Maxwell of Cordova, Ala., was elected Vice President, and John A. Law of Spartanburg, S. C., was elected Chairman of the Board of Governors. Three new members of the board, J. W. Cannon of Concord, N. C.; LeRoy Spring of Lancaster, S. C., and A. W. McLellan of New Orleans, were also elected.

Capt. Collins Tells of Stock Deal Under Cross-Examination.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 28.—Capt. Cornelius Glenn Collins, the British army officer on trial here on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences, told to-day under cross-examination how in one of his numerous financial ventures he had cleaned up $35,000 in an hour.

"It was in some dealings connected with the Rock Island," he said. "We made a killing. I paid 28 for the shares the day before Christmas and the day after I sold them for 78. I jolly well remember that I was the only man to sell at the high figure. I cleaned them all out in an hour, and made $35,000."

The State's Attorney began questioning Capt. Collins relative to his acquaintance with Miss Ethel Clinton in England.

"I had a wealthy uncle in England," Capt. Collins said. "He had a magnificent country place, and I gave many parties there. Miss Clinton was at one of the affairs. Later she spent half an hour one day in my apartment in company with another army officer. I can explain all of it, if you want it."

"Weren't there four vases stolen from her?" Mr. Broening asked.

"No," replied the accused indignantly. Judge Heuisler interrupted.

"I want to show that he has existed on other people by the methods he employed in securing this sum from Mr. Thompson in this city," the State's Attorney explained.

"I don't think that testimony is legally competent," the Judge said. "This man is innocent until proven guilty."

It was brought out that Collins, through his father, would come into property on the River Clyde valued at about £75,000 (nearly $375,000.)

"I hope to get £20,000 (nearly $100,000) as my share after my debts are paid," he said.

DOANE LIBRARY DISPERSAL.

Total of $10,946 Realized at First Day's Sale.

The sale of the library of the late Bishop William Croswell Doane of Albany and other collections brought a total of $10,946 at the Anderson Galleries yesterday. The first octavo edition of Audubon's "Birds of America" was bought by Gabriel Weis for $385. He also paid $135 for the original manuscript of Chapter 39 of Mark Twain's "A Tramp Abroad."

K. Munroe gave $250 for an extra illustrated copy of William Combe's "History of the River Thames." F. W. Morris obtained for $355 "The Scourge," illustrated by George Cruikshank. Unpublished drawings by "Phiz," (H. B. Browne,) for Charles Dickens's "Nicholas Nickleby," went for $450 to George D. Smith, who also paid $225 for an extra-illustrated copy of Frederic G. Kitten's "Charles Dickens by Pen and Pencil."

Charles Sessler of Philadelphia gave $400 for a manuscript "Hours of the Virgin Mary," written on vellum and executed in the north of France in the fifteenth century. He also paid $125 for a first edition of Pierce Egan's "Real Life in London." A marriage contract, signed by Louis XVI, Marie Antoinette, and others, brought $100.

The sale will be concluded this afternoon.

SUES AFTER SEA OUTING.

H. E. Thompson Asks $10,000 Damages for Spoiled Pleasure Trip.

Complaining that a pleasure trip de luxe which he had been induced to take by reason of advertisements had been marred by the presenceof vermin in his cabin and negroes in the part of the vessel in which he traveled, Henry E. Thompson, a rug dealer of 34 Union Square, entered yesterday in the Federal Disirict Court's Admiralty Branch a suit for $10,000 damages against the United Fruit Company's steamer Pastores.

In his complaint he alleges that on March 7 he took passage in the Pastores for a pleasure trip to the West Indies and the Panama Canal, and that it was represented to him that special advantages were to be provided in the way of bands, music, blankets, &c. Moreover, he asserts he was informed that there would be a complete absence of anything disagreeable as far as the passengers with whom he was to travel and the freight to be shipped was concerned.

However, Mr. Thompson asserts that he found when he was assigned to stateroom No. 31, that it was next the kitchen, and that he was greatly disturbed in the early hours of the morning anud the late hours of the night by the profanity of the cooks and their assistants. When he complained to the purser he was removed at Kingston to Suite C, and for this he had to pay an additional $170. This room, he said, he discovered was infested with vermin.

Then at Colon, Mr. Thompson says, three days later, he was shifted to Room 44, a greatly inferior room, because Suite C had been engaged by negroes, and when he protested, he was, he alleges, insulted by the pursuer in the presence of the members of his traveling party. Mr. Thompson makes other allegations against the behavior toward him of the crew, and says that at Kingston the Pastores took aboard about 300 negroes of both sexes, bound for Colon, whose behavior was most objectionable. He also alleges that the music promised was furnished by a talking machine and not by a band, that during the trip he was robbed of two Panama hats of the value of $25, and that he was compelled to pay extra for blankets and chairs, which the company had promised to provide free.

Stock Subscriptions to Reserve System Reach This Sum.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—This statement was issued by the Treasury Department to-day:

"The Reserve Bank Organization Committee announced to-day that subscriptions to the stock of the Federal reserve banks in the twelve Federal reserve districts received up to noon to-day amounted to $71,998,600. The banks in six of the twelve districts have already subscribed more than the minimum amount of $4,000,000 necessary to organize the banks. These districts are the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Seventh, the Federal reserve banks for these districts being located, respectively, in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, and Chicago.

"The subscriptions thus far received have come from 4,045 out of a total of 7,484. The largest number of subscriptions received from any one district has been received from the Seventh, or Chicago district; the next largest has come from the Third, or Philadelphia district. The indications are that before the first of May three additional districts will have subscribed for the requisite minimum of $4,000,000.

"The banks are being organized with the maximum rapidity that observance of the formalities prescribed by law permits.

MORE PAY FOR PAPERMAKERS

Three Firms Agree to Recognize Union—Resume Conference To-day.

The representatives of the unions which have been conferring with representatives of the International Paper Company over a new agreement to take effect May 1 will resume the meetings to-day at the Continental Hotel, after a recess of four days.

Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who is Chairman of the Conference Committee of the unions involved, said last evening that three large firms engaged in papermaking had just signed agreements with their employes based on the recognition of the demands made on the International Paper Company. These three firms are the Great Northern, St. Croix, and Grand Lake Paper Companies, which employ between 5,000 and 6,000 men. A slight increase in wages will be granted, and the unions recognized.

The employes of the International Paper Company ask for an eight-hour day and a slight increase in wages.

SENATE SEEKS DATA SENT TO SWAY RATES

Asks Commerce Board to Forward Communication Intended to Influence Its Decision.

CAN'T CONTROL OUTLAYS

So G. F. Brownell, Erie Counsel Says—Roads File "Spotting" Tariffs—Arguments to End Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Senate adopted without discussion to-day the resolution sponsored by Mr. La Follette of Wisconsin asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to submit to the Senate copies of all signed and anonymous communications, newspaper clippings, and the like received by the commission or any individual Commissioner from persons trying to influence the commission's decision in its investigation into railroad revenues and into the 5 per cent. rate increase proposed. The resolution excepted such communications as were received in the proscribed manner from officials of the commission or of railroads.

Some time ago Mr. La Follette introduced a bill making it a penal offense to send to the commission communications of the sort his resolution refers to. The impression got abroad that Mr. La Follette was aiming his bill at President Wilson, who was known to have conferred informally with members of the commission as to the application for a 5 per cent. rate increase.

Chairman Harlan, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, upon the resumption of arguments in the advance rate case, to-day, announced that discussion must conclude by Friday.

Fundamental economic and financial conditions justified an advance in freight rates was the contention of George F. Brownell, Vice President and general counsel of the Erie Railroad.

"If operating expenses," he said, "and the new burdens imposed by law upon railroads had not been enormously increased they now would be in a highly prosperous condition, but it is net income and not the gross that counts.

"Until recent years the railroad industry was, like other industries, responsive to the law of increasing returns, under which an increase in the volume of traffic would produce a decrease in the unit of cost, and operating revenues would increase more rapidly than operating expenses.

Can't Control Outlays.

"All this is changed. It has lost in large measure its ability to control its expenditures. It is subject to Governmental regulations and control to much greater extent than most other industries. It has been subjected to requirements of Legislatures and regulatory bodies, both Federal and State, which have increased greatly its operating and its capital expenses."

The railroads, he continued, did not question "the wisdom of expediency of these requirements, and will continue to the best of their ability to bear and sustain the financial burdens they impose, but they ask that they be not deprived of strength to accomplish the task—and remunerative rates are the very sinews of that strength."

Hugh L. Bond, general counsel of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, devoted special attention to the wage feature of the increased cost of railroad operation. The increases in wages, he said, due to changes in rates of pay, for the year ending June 30, 1913, aggregated $50,964,886.30. In these figures, he said, no note was made of two large wage increases resulting from arbitration, which will add $2,757,000 per annum. As a result of arbitration with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen the addition amounts to 9.4 per cent., or $6,000,000 per annum, and 7 per cent. will be added as a result of arbitration with the conductors and trainmen.

J. Rush Butler, counsel for lake and rail shippers, opposing the advance, said that the rail lines, which now operated water lines on the Great Lakes, were endeavoring to drive traffic from the natural waterways on the Lakes to the rails. He asserted that the trunk line railways absolutely monopolized the package freight service on the Great Lakes and controlled completely both the rail and the lake-rail transportation facilities.

Briefs in opposition to any increase of freight rates asked for by the Eastern railroads were filed on behalf of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the New Pittsburgh Coal Company, and the State Railroad Commissions in the Eastern classification territory.

File Charges for "Spotting."

Railways operating in Eastern classification territory have adopted the evident suggestion made to them by the Commission and have begun to file tariffs providing for a charge for "spotting" cars. The provisions and charges contained in the tariffs are identical in all instances, indicating concerted action on the part of the roads. The charges are five and a half cents a ton, with a minimum charge of $2 a car.

In Eastern classification territory, it is estimated that there are nearly 27,000 spur tracks, or sidings, on which cars now are "spotted" by the railroads without charge. The exaction of $2 a car for the service, it is believed, would increase the revenues of the roads at least $10,000,000 a year.

An effort will be made by shippers to have the spotting tariffs, which are filed to be effective on thirty days' notice, suspended.

NEGRO INVASION FOUGHT.

"For Sale" Sign in Great Neck Hills, L. I., Vanishes Over Night.

Paul Brostrom, who is Superintendent of Gracefield, the extensive estate of Mrs. Lucillus Grace, widow of William R. Grace, at Great Neck, L. I., awoke yesterday and found that a sign he had put on property he owns on the outskirts of Great Neck, known as Great Neck Hills, had been demolished. The sign read as follows:

> No restriction as to creed or color.

Mr. Brostrom declared yesterday that he would have the sign replaced to-day.

Great Neck Hills has been excited lest Mr. Brostrom sell his plot to negroes for a suburban cottage. Great Neck Hills did not want its exclusiveness affected. Literary and theatrical people live there, including Miss Maude Powell, the violinist.

"When I bought the property I understood from the map shown me that I was buying corner lots," Mr. Brostrom said. "I later found that the map was changed and I was in the middle of the block."

PAPAL DUKE SUES WRITER.

Warren-Surrey Brings Libel Action for $25,000 Damages.

Counsel for René François Joseph de Warren, Duke of Warren-Surrey, who at the Hotel Gotham on March 2 announced that those who dared question his title would find themselves in serious trouble, filed papers yesterday with County Clerk Schneider in a libel suit for $25,000 against F. Cunliffe-Owen, one of the busiest questioners of the Duke's title on this side of the Atlantic. The Duke came over here about three months ago and at once the report spread that he was in search of a rich wife. This he vigorously denied.

The Duke is not here now. He signed the complaint papers, which were prepared by Wise & Seligsberg on April 20, and then sailed for Paris. His last words to Mr. Seligsberg were to press the case, not for the sake of the money, but to avenge his honor. The Duke is about 34 years old, although he looks older.

According to the complaint, the defendant stopped at nothing to cast doubt upon the validity of the plaintiff's title and to bring him into ridicule. When rebuked for this the defendant, it is complained, made the matter worse by explaining that he did not bear any personal animosity against the Duke, but wished to prevent any American girl from being led into contracting an alliance with him under the impression that he was a noble. The Duke says that on his mother's side is the blood of William the Conqueror and Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleons.

His father's family, he says, comes from the same branch as the Warren-Surrey family of England, of which the Duke of Norfolk is now the most noted member. This side of his family, he says, he can trace back to the eleventh century.

Before going forward with the matter to the point of filing a complaint the Duke's counsel say they made inquiry as to his right to the title, and discovered that the title was conferred by Pope Leo XIII. by Apostolic brief at St. Peter's in Rome on June 27, 1900, with all the usual formalities.

"The Duke has had much trouble," said one of the counsel yesterday, "because one of his brothers was accused of being connected with the 'Black Masses,' a society that met in an apartment in the Avenue Friedland, Paris. This brother was convicted and sent to prison. The Duke was also accused of being connected with the same society, but he sued the newspapers that carried the slander and procured judgments against them. The Duke is thoroughly genuine and is a fine fellow, although some folks do not understand him. One of his brothers is the Marquis Hamelin de Warren-Surrey. The Duke says, and I believe him, that he is the nephew of Count Paul Huyn, Bishop of Brunn, in Austria. The suit instituted by the Duke will be pressed."

The defendant is a newspaper writer, and what he wrote about the Duke was printed in various newspapers.

STORM SWEEPS THE LAKES.

Navigation at the Head Stopped—One Man Washed from Pier.

DULUTH, Minn., April 28.—The steamer Joseph Block of the Inland Steel Company's (Chicago) fleet, to-day took on the first cargo of ore to be loaded at the head of the lakes this season. A storm raging at this end of the lake made it unsafe for boats to leave the harbor. Waves swept over the Government canal, and outside of the canal high seas were running.

A spectator watching the high waves was washed off the Government pier by a comber. Life savers have not recovered the body. All navigation at the head of the lakes was stopped. A forty-eight-mile gale continued.

Two bridges of the Clarkson coal dock were blown down, and the steamer Champlain, from which a cargo of coal was being unloaded, was struck by the wrecked bridges and badly damaged. The steamer John Lambert, loaded with grain, ventured out at midnight last night, but was forced to return for safety.

According to the United States Weather Bureau the storm was more severe over Lake Superior than further down the lakes.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 28.—During the northeast gale which has been raging all day, the steamer Buffalo of the Western Transit Company, went ashore about half way between Round Island and Point aux Pines, on the Canadian side of the upper river. The Buffalo was the first of the Western Transit steamers down-bound loadloaded with flour. A tug left the Soo to assist her. The amount of damage is not known.

SHOTS FIRED, ROBBERS FLEE

Two Men Caught in Harlem After Exciting Chase.

Two burglars, who entered the apartments of Louis Rochlitz and Thomas Roberts on the fifth floor of 536 West 157th Street late last night and stole jewelry valued at $2,000, were captured after an exciting chase in which several revolver shots were fired.

Frank McGinnity, who lived on the fourth floor, heard the men and followed them up a fire escape to the roof. He fired four shots, but they reached the roof of 540 and disappeared down a fire escape. They were leaving the building by the hallway on the first floor when Patrolman Boyle of the West 152d Street police station grabbed one of the men, and Louis Beck of 520 West 146th Street captured the other after a hard fight in which he was severely bitten on the left wrist.

The tenants in the apartment houses attempted to mob the prisoners, but Boyle drove them away. The men said they were Harry J. Martin and Frank Williams, both 19 years old, living at the Sylvan Hotel, 121st Street and Third Avenue. They said they entered the Roberts apartment by the dumbwaiter. They had their loot in a bag. Other jewelry worth $1,500 was found in their rooms.

Fire Drill Saves 350 Children.

Indication in Senator Simmons's Attitude That President Has Decided to Yield a Point.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Senate Committee on Inter-Oceanic Canals to-day began its detailed consideration of the Sims bill, repealing the tolls exemption clause of the Panama Canal act. While there is a bare majority in the committee against the repeal, the opinion grew to-day that by to-morrow the committee would split, one side reporting the bill with an amendment reserving American rights, and the other reporting the bill without recommendation. This would let the real struggle be fought out on the floor of the Senate, as was the case in the handling of the Currency bill at the last session.

There were two proposals before the committee this afternoon. One, which was attributed to Mr. Simmons of North Carolina, the President's manager of the Tolls bill in committee, was substantially as follows:

"That the passage of this act or anything therein contained shall not be construed as waiving or impairing or affecting any right possessed by the United States."

The same idea was embodied in amendments presented by Mr. Chilton of West Virginia, and Mr. Shields of Tennessee, both Democrats, and Mr. Brandege of Connecticut, a Republican. The discussion in the committee room centred all afternoon over the proposed modification. The opponents of repeal wanted the language of the reserving amendment made still stronger, and they proposed to add to it the words: "Under treaty or otherwise."

The fact that Mr. Simmons should propose such an amendment is taken to mean that President Wilson has tacitly approved it. The President heretofore has opposed amendment, but it is believed that his wish to pass the bill at an early date is responsible for his change. The amendment, once incorporated in the bill with the approval of the White House, would insure the prompt passage of the bill and leave the way clear for the almost forgotten trust legislation.

The other proposal which the Administration is certain to frown upon, came from Mr. Walsh, a Democrat of Montana, who is supporting Chairman O'Gorman in his fight against repeal. Mr. Walsh's plan is to reject the repealing bill altogether, and merely provide a procedure under which foreign shipowners, aggrieved by the favors to American owners, might carry their case under the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty to quick trial in the United States Supreme Court.

Such a proposal was definitely put forward in President Taft's Administration and was seriously defended. But the British Government, while careful not to impugn the good faith of the American judiciary, let it be known that it would sound strangely to British ears to have a treaty between Great Britain and the United States construed by an exclusively American tribunal.

Unless an agreement can be reached by the Senators of the committee to-morrow it is likely that half of the committee will report the Sims bill with an amendment along the lines of that proposed by Mr. Simmons while the other half will report the original resolution without amendment.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided to-day to make public the confidential letters, telegrams, and notes relating to the negotiation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty sent to the committee from State Department files. Senator Stone, Chairman of the committee, said many of the communications already had been printed and that the correspondence revealed nothing sensational. The documents will be printed, however, largely for the benefit of Senators who expect to take part in the debate on the free tolls question.

WOMEN'S HOTEL OPENED.

Prominent Patronesses at Home for Business People.

The new Business Woman's Hotel, 163 Lexington Avenue, corner of Thirtieth Street, opened with a reception, music, and dancing last evening, but it already had fifty-five guests. The hotel was decorated with flowers and palms, and its patronesses, among whom were many prominent women of New York, received the guests.

The hotel is the old Avon renovated. It can accommodate 154 guests, and it caters to the upper grade of business women. The prices range from $10 to $16 a week, only a suite of bedroom, sitting room, and bath, being higher-priced if taken by one person. The prices include board and room—neither can be taken separately—and the restaurant is not open to the public.

Applications must be filed for rooms and references given. An Executive Committee, which looks after the general welfare of the hotel, includes two of the business managers, two of the stockholding patronesses, and two of the guests.

On the main floor the office and dining room are finished in white and buff, and a large reception room has the woodwork in white and walls in pale green. There will be small reception rooms on each floor. Among the patronesses who were present last evening were Mmes. William Church Osborn, Helen Hartley Jenkins, Francis M. Scott, John A. Church, Everett P. Wheeler, Arthur M. Dodge, Robert Sturgis, Ellwood Hendrick, Henry E. Dunn, Julian D. Trenholm, Louis V. Bright, C. S. Van Rensselaer, and Clarence R. Mohrmann, and Misses Anne B. Jennings, Alice Hill Chittenden, Virginia Potter, Alice F. Einstein, and Emma B. Hopkins.

NEXT SUNDAY

The eleven pictures to be given to readers of The New York Times next Sunday will have an unusual interest not only as examples of art reproduction but as examples worth preserving of some of the best work of artists whose paintings hang in the galleries of the world. These pictures are reproduced in rotogravure from original paintings in the Cornelius Vanderbilt collection in the Metropolitan Museum. One of these pictures is a full-page Bouguereau entitled "Going to the Bath." There are pictures also by Rosa Bonheur, Millet, Millais, Israels, and others. Orders should be placed with news dealers at once. The New York Times will have other features next Sunday of unusual interest, including the very newest photograph of Huerta.

$6,289,644 DEFICIT FOR STEEL TRUST

USUAL DIVIDENDS VOTED

A deficit of $6,289,644 was reported by the United Steel Corporation yesterday as the result of operations in the first quarter of 1914, after fixed charges and depreciation allowances had been provided for and the usual dividends paid on the stocks. The corporation's net income was $17,994,381, about what had been looked for in financial circles, and this figure stood in contrast with $23,036,349 earned in the preceding quarter and $34,426,801 in the first three months of 1913.

In the closing quarter of last year the corporation reported a deficit of $1,002,304 after paying out as much in dividends as in the opening quarter of this year. The surplus in the opening quarter of 1913 was $7,369,600, so that when compared with the results of the same period of last year, yesterday's statement showed an actual falling off in income available for the surplus account of $13,659,244. Bond interest increased about $220,000 over the preceding quarter and about $25,300 more was reserved for the sinking fund and depreciation account. As compared with the corresponding quarter of 1913, the amount set aside for depreciation and sinking fund needs showed a decline of $1,288,516, while interest charges were $159,000 larger.

	Quarter ending

Pf. div.....	6,304,919	6,304,920	6,304,919
Com. div.....	6,353,781	6,353,781	6,353,781

The earnings by months, compared with two preceding years, were:

	1914.	1913.	1912.

The figures show that the last quarter and the same period two years ago were closely parellel in point of earnings. The month of March in both cases exceeded both January and February by considerable amounts in the revenue left after paying interest on bonds of subsidiary companies. In the opening quarter of 1912 the steel industry was affected by low prices, and business was not good. In the last quarter the decline of buying which began last October was the chief factor in keeping earnings down, although there was a fair revival of forward business in January.

The Directors declared the usual dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock, payable on May 29 to shareholders of record on May 4, and ordered the regular disbursement of 1¼ per cent. on the common shares to be made on June 29 to stockowners of record on June 1.

ALBANY, April 28.—The Court of Appeals upholds the decision of the Public Service Commission that the Western Union Telegraph Company must accept telegrams from the Postal Company for transmission to points not reached by the Postal at the face value of the telegram.

The Western Union Company added the words "via (place of transfer,)" and charged the toll for the extra words against the Postal Company. The case went to the Court of Appeals from an order of the Appellate Division dismissing a writ of certiorari to the Public Service Commission relative to the order directing that extra charges on telegrams transmitted part way by the Postal cease.

BOSTWICK A BANKRUPT.

Elwood Fleet Bostwick, a theatrical manager, of 130 West Forty-fifth Street, filed yesterday a petition in bankruptcy showing liabilities of $25,194 and assets of the nominal value of $580. Among the creditors are a number of actors and actresses, to whom salary is due. These include Clara Knott, $250; Marion Brooks, $100; Madeline Delmar, $150; Nettie Battele, $150; Gel Roche, $750 and Caroline Roche, $300. The liabilities were contracted at the Savoy Theatre, San Francisco, in 1913 and 1914, the Bayonne Opera House, 1909-10, and at South Norwalk, Conn.

In Mr. Bostwick's assets are reckoned $5 in the bank, scenery and fixtures valued at $300, stored at the Savoy Theatre, San Francisco, as security for a loan of $350; glassware and china valued at $200, stored in Providence as security for a $250 note, and a storage bill of $151, and a debt of $75, due Mr. Bostwick for staging a play.

Among the creditors are Ray Comstock, $1,200; American Play Company, $450 for royalties; South Norwalk Trust Company, $450; S. Z. Poli, New Haven, $1,500; Menger & Ring, $1,600; Somerset Hotel, $125 for board; Mrs. F. C. Mearns, $750 for board; the J. Charles Green Company, San Francisco, $2,500; Chorincle, San Francisco, $1,261; Call, San Francisco, $707; Examiner, San Francisco, $700, and News, San Francisco, $500.

SOCIETY LIBRARY ELECTION.

Trustees Are Chosen and Annual Report Is Presented.

These trustees were elected for three years by the shareholders of the New York Society Library yesterday at 109 University Place: D. Maitland Armstrong, T. Matlack Cheesman, W. Emlen Roosevelt, Archer M. Huntington, and Frederic A. de Peyster.

It was announced that gifts had been received from Gen. Rush C. Hawkins, Theodore Roosevelt, Gen. Nelson H. Henry, Henry E. Gregory, Samuel Verplanck Hoffman, Mrs. Robert W. de Forest, and others. A card catalogue case of seventy-five trays was presented by F. Augustus Schermerhorn.

The annual report recorded the recovery of the original parchment charter of the Society Library, which was granted by King George III. in 1772 and disappeared in 1840. It was returned last October by a resident of Brooklyn and was placed in a fireproof vault by Beverly Chew, Secretary of the Board of Trustees.

The Treasury Department has revoked orders issued to customs officials in 1911, denying drawback on medicinal and toilet preparations manufactured with the use of rectified alcohol produced from domestic tax-paid alcohol. In the future drawback may be allowed when made from the domestic tax-paid alcohol on the premises of a rectifier. The new rule provides that, where drawback is claimed, the payment of tax on the products shall be certified by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the alcohol was rectified on a form approved by the Treasury Department, which shall show, among other things, the name of the rectifier, wine gallons of rectified alcohol produced, the proof thereof, number of proof gallons produced, and the serial numbers of the rectifiers' stamps.

Printcloths Very Quiet.

Printcloths were very quiet in the local gray goods market yesterday, but prices were generally unchanged. There were some small, odd lots disposed of during the day, but none of the individual sales was important enough to record. There was an improved demand reported for drills and sheetings, and there was also a fair call for goods of finer construction. In the latter, merchandise 40-inch lawns seemed to be about the most active.

Artificial Flowers Selling Well.

Artificial flower manufacturers report that business since Easter has been particularly good, and present indications are that it will continue so for the next month. Generally salesmen are back from their trips by this time, it is said, but this season it has been deemed advisable to extend their operations over a longer period while things continue brisk. The demand at present is centring on wistarias, lilacs, and sweet peas.

Weather Hurts Underwear Trade.

Both spot and Fall business are admitted to be rather dull in the underwear line. What is needed, it is said, is a week or so of warm weather to improve the tone of conditions and put some snap into operations. When Spring stocks begin to move duplicates will come in and the retailers will look more favorably to next season's needs. If the season turns out as late as some fear it will, it is understood that a shortage of merchandise may develop, as the manufacturers in many instances have operated as conservatively as the retailers and are not carrying their usual surpluses.

General exports, exclusive of specie, from the Port of New York last week were valued at $18,873,208, compared with $16,043,511 in the week previous and $21,032,606 the corresponding week one year ago. The total value of this year's exports to date is $337,869,286, against $328,259,065 the same period of 1913. Exports of domestics and cotton duck from New York last week were valued at $379,726, against $463,048 in the previous week. The greatest amount shipped to a single country, $179,200 worth of cotton goods, went to China. The Philippines led the week before with exports worth $172,176.

Advises Salesmen Not to "Knock."

"Knocking" a line on the part of salesmen after they have changed positions was heartily condemned yesterday by a buyer for one of the big local stores. "I always lose faith in a man who 'knocks' his former line after he makes a change," he said, "for I can never escape the thought that he was selling me those 'rotten' goods before he made the change. If the goods really were what he said of them, it shows me that the salesman has been trying to stick me; if they were not, how can I believe him when he commends his new line. Many a salesman who has been selling me for years has changed his base and 'knocked' his old line with the idea of selling me the new. What he has succeeded in doing, however, has been to lose my trade entirely."

Reform in Fur Selling.

To prevent retailers from carrying as stocks goods submitted by manufacturing furriers on "memorandum" or "consignment" the Board of Trade of the Fur Industry, made up of the several individual associations in the industry, yesterday adopted a regulation providing that merchandise retained longer than three days will be considered as sold. This regulation will appear on the memorandum or consignment invoices used by all the members of the various organizations. The three-day limit is considered ample time for the retailer to have his customer make such selections as are desired from the collection sent him by the manufacturer, and the result of the Board of Trade's action is expected to put a stop to what was a growing evil in the industry.

Crockery Business Improves.

Business coming from out-of-town sources has shown some improvement in the last week or ten days in the crockery and glass trade, but spot business is far from active. With the approach of the June matrimonial season, there has been a picking up in the demand for cut glass, but this has been truer of the medium and cheaper priced lines than of the higher. Since cut glass has come within the reach of the average consumer, it seems as if the wealthier classes are turning their attention to other things when wedding gifts are sought. The backward Spring has hit the merchants who make a specialty of hotel supplies, for the resort owners have been slow in filling their needs. On the whole, however, merchants say that busines is keeping up fairly well, considering the reports of dullness in other lines of trade.

Hard Coal Trade Picks Up.

"The tone of the anthracite trade is distinctly better than at the beginning of the month," The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day, "when all the talk was of depression. While the April demand has not developed in quite the same volume as in some years, the producing interests have had all the business they could handle. In this market certain sizes have been rather short all the month. Taking the trade as a whole the call for stove is running slightly ahead, but this is not so noticeable locally, where a good apartment house demand for egg has caused the latter size to be in rather short supply. Chestnut is the easiest, but the surplus is not great enough to cause much difficulty. The steam sizes are gradually getting easier. The bituminous trade has made no visible progress toward overcoming the depression brought about by heavy stocks in consumers' hands and reduced consumption on account of part time operations at many industrial plants."

More Employes Come Late.

One effect of the 9 o'clock opening of the big local stores, as a result of the recent passage of legislation in this State limiting the hours of employment for women, has been to increase the number of employes who come to work late. An executive of one prominent store told a TIMES reporter yesterday that fully 100 of his employes were late on Monday morning, notwithstanding the fact that they were given a half hour more in which to get to work. He pointed out that while this 100 was only a small part of his employes, it represented a great deal more than the usual proportion of late workers. The statement was also made that in the shopping district centering around Thirty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue fully 30,000 persons were employed, and, in view of the fact that many of the late workers blamed their lateness on the transit companies, the opinion was expressed that these companies might have to change their operating schedules to suit the new hours of the stores.

Speakers to the Clothiers.

The speakers who have so far consented to address the delegates to the convention of the National Association of Clothiers at the banquet in Atlantic City on the evening of June 2 are Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, whose subject will be "The United States as the World Power," and Prof. Joseph French Johnson of New York University, whose topic will be "Economics." During the three days of the convention, namely, June 1, 2, and 3, papers will be read on various trade matters. Some of those arranged for are as follows: "True Costs in the Manufacturing of Clothing and How to Arrive at Them," by Kenneth E. Clarke of Chicago; "Datings and Discounts," by Ira D. Kingsbury of L. Adler Brothers & Co.; "What Can Be Done to Make Our Selling Organizations More Efficient?" David Kirschbaum; "Efficiency in the Control of Stock and Filling of Orders," and "What Can Be Done to Make Our Factory Organizations More Efficient?" All the important clothing centres will be ably represented at the convention.

Philippines Not After Cottons.

The market for American cotton goods in the Philippines seems to be very limited at the moment, despite the fact that on certain classes of these goods the Islands present one of the best markets the American exporter has. This is said to be especially true of the market for the better grades of cheap prints and on other light goods wholesaling from 4 to 10 or 12 cents a yard. Reports from the trade indicate that buying on the part of the Philippine traders has been small and featureless for some time, and though one of the largest export houses yesterday received one or two orders from that part of the world they were insignificant as export orders go, and were not thought to indicate an awakening demand. Why buying in this and the other foreign markets is light at this time is hard for the exporters to say, for in their opinion the market on cotton goods for the export trade has touched bottom. It is not to be expected, they say, that the mills will long continue selling goods at lower prices than last year when cotton is considerably higher.

SOMETHING ABOUT PENS.

Many Made Here and Exported, While Some Are Imported.

From statistics given out yesterday by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce it appears that the United States exports over 800,000 fountain pens per annum, or approximately one fountain pen for each gross of ordinary pens exported. Last fiscal year 309,200 fountains pens and 49,500,000 ordinary pens were exported, sales in each case having been made in about fifty countries. In the twenty months since the record of fountain-pen exports began the sales abroad have amounted to 500,000 pens, with an average wholesale value of $1.05 each. More than one-half of the fountain pens were sent to England. Out of 309,200 exported in the last fiscal year 169,000 were consigned to England, 53,700 to Canada, and 30,000 to France.

The fountain-pen industry, while relatively small, is rapidly increasing in importance. In the ten years from 1899 to 1909 the value of products turned out by the fountain, stylographic, and gold pen industry almost trebled, while the output of steel pens doubled. Nearly all the domestic steel pens are used in the United States, the figures of production having been, in 1909, $5,300,000, and the recorded exports of that year only $162,000, in comparison with $500,000 last year. English and Swedish steel are largely used by our manufacturers in the production of pens, by reason of the special adaptability of that steel to this peculiar use.

Imported fountain pens are making but little headway in our domestic markets, but other classes of pens, except those of gold, are bought in considerable quantities from foreign countries.

Decrease in Immigration.

PORTLAND, Maine, April 28.—A great decrease in immigration from Europe through this port was ascribed by immigration officials to-day to labor conditions in the United States and Canada. During the Winter steamship season just ended only 7,976 passengers arrived here, compared with 26,623 the previous year.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

LONG ISLAND BUTTER AND EGG COMPANY.—Samuel Levine and Abe Kolker, doing business as the Long Island Butter and Egg Company at 140 Reade Street, have filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $19,959 and assets of $2,850, consisting of cash in the Security Bank, $2,000; stock, $150; fixtures, $200, and accounts, $500. Among the creditors are the Security Bank, $2,000; Gude Brothers, $1,673; Swift & Co., $1,442, and W. W. Elzea, $1,259. Judge Hough appointed Harry Osterman receiver under a bond of $1,000.

JO-FORD, INC.—A petition has been filed against Jo-Ford, Inc., dealer in millinery and gowns at 9 East Forty-fourth Street, by these creditors: Poeckes & Baumlin, $441; Richard Billings, $400, and J. Remond-Beaufils Company, $75. It was alleged that the corporation is insolvent, made preferential payments of $250, and permitted creditors to obtain preference by legal proceedings. The corporation was incorporated in September, 1913, with captial stock of $10,000 and Josephine Ford, President.

UNGAR & ZWIEBEL.—A petition has been filed against Louis Ungar and Max Zwiebel, who composed the firm of Ungar & Zwiebel, manufacturers of women's apparel at 132 West Twenty-first Street, by these creditors: Jacob Cohen, $419; Abraham Cohen, $400, and Aron Rosin, $150. Judge Hough appointed Charles L. Brookheim receiver under bond of $1,000. It was stated that the liabilities are $25,000 and assets $3,000.

ABRAHAM BERGER.—A petition has been filed against Abraham Berger of 27 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, by these creditors: Abraham Schemel, $300; Wilson Manufacturing Company, $60, and Abraham Shapiro, $200. It was alleged that on April 27 he admitted in writing inability to pay his debts. It is said that he is a manufacturer of cloaks and women's tailor, has been in business since 1891, and last Fall opened a branch store at Northampton, Mass.

COMMERCIAL HAT MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—Judge Hough has confirmed a composition of Bernard Krulewitch, doing business as the Commercial Hat Manufacturing Company at 12 Washington Place, with a factory in Newark, with creditors at 25 cents on the dollar. Liabilities were $40,000.

BELFAST READY MADE CANVAS COMPANY.—Abraham Greenberg, doing business as the Belfast Ready Made Canvas Company, manufacturer of canvas for coat fronts at 145 West Eighteenth Street, has made an assignment to Isaac Kaufman.

BENJAMIN SCHULMAN, tailor, of 198 East Broadway, has made an assignment to Joe Green.

ELWOOD FLEET BOSTWICK, theatrical manager of 130 West Forty-fifth Street has filed a petition, with liabilities $25,194 and nominal assets $580. The liabilities were contracted at the Savoy Theatre, San Francisco, 1913-1914; Bayonne, N. J., Opera House, 1909-1910, and at South Norwalk, Conn.

W. J. DAWES & CO., INC.—A petition has been filed against W. J. Dawes & Co., Inc., of 110 West Fortieth Street, by these creditors: United States Printing and Lithograph Company, $408; Standard Engraving Company, $137, and Deverall Perfection Manufacturing Company, $391. It was alleged that while insolvent the company made preferential payments of $388 to three creditors. The company is a Delaware corporation, incorporated on Dec. 10, 1913, with capital stock $500,000 to act as manufacturers' agents and distributors, but had no rating in Bradstreet's.

SAYS TRUST BARS COAL FOR NEW YORK

ACCUSES FINANCIERS HERE

Southern Industries Are Languishing Because of High Price of the Fuel, He Asserts.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, presented to-day to the Senate his resolution directing an investigation by his committee into the relations of the so-called coal trust to various railroads in the South. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Audit and Control for the simple purpose of ascertaining whether sufficient cash was in the Senate's contingent fund to defray the expenses of the inquiry.

Mr. Tillman spoke sharply of conditions in the South. He said the coal trust, through Morgan & Co. and George F. Baker and other New Yorkers, was preventing the Southern Railway from carrying coal in a legitimate way so as to increase the grip of the coal trust on the business. Mr. Baker, he said, was using his trusteeship of the Southern to foster his larger interest in coal.

"This fight," said Mr. Tillman, referring to his resolution, "is in the interest of the navy and naval stations and for the consumers of coal in the South Atlantic States and for the producers of coal in the Appalachian fields, involving mines in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, against the alleged coal trust, which is dominated and is run in the interest of the Pennsylvania Railroad system and the mines which use that system and its tributaries to reach the markets.

"The owners of the mines not in the Coal Trust are making little or no money because of discrimination and favoritism on the part of the railroads. The Southern States are being mulcted systematically to enrich Morgan & Co., George F. Baker, and their associates, living in New York mainly. Southern industries are languishing and put to undue expense because of the high price of coal and other discriminations.

"I was talking with a friend last week in South Carolina who is President of three cotton mills, and he told me that coal cost them at the mines around $1 per ton, and miners could make money at that; that the cost of transportation was anywhere from $1.75 to $2.50. This is due to the fact that the Southern Railway, as is alleged, is controlled by Morgan & Co. and their associates, who use and abuse it in the interests of their greater investments in coal mines on the Pennsylvania system.

"There can be no just reason why the manufacturers in Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, and Virginia should be discriminated against and their industries throttled or made to bear unjust burdens as compared with their competitors in other States."

Mr. Tillman said the alleged trust prevented the shipment of coal from West Virginia to New York or any point south of it, and that the City of Washington was prevented from getting coal from this field.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Tennis racquets will have to stand duty under the old tariff at 35 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures of wood, according to a decision made yesterday by Judge McClelland for Board 1 of the United States General Appraisers. The Asiatic Export & Import Company and George S. Bush & Co. imported the goods at Port Townsend, Wash. At the hearing, the importers claimed a rate of 25 per cent. on the value as manufactures of catgut.

The board declined to reverse the Chicago Collector's assessment of 60 per cent. on preserved grasses, moss and maidenhair leaves used in trimming women's hats and imported by Theodore Ascher Company. All of the goods were returned as ornamental leaves under the old law.

Wilson Brothers, Chicago, succeeded in a contention relating to gloves brought in under the Act of 1909. The Custom House officials exacted a cumulative duty of 40 per cent. per dozen pairs in addition to the regular duty. The importers denied that the articles were stitched or embroidered with more than 3 single strands or cords, but were decorated with so-called "Paris points." The Collector was ordered to make a reliquidation on the basis of the regular duty only.

It was decided that metal polish is not a chemical compound dutiable at 25 per cent. ad valorem under the old law, but is properly a non-enumerated manufactured article taxable at 20 per cent. G. Neustadter & Brother, New York, were the importers.

Louis De Jonge & Co., New York, were sustained in a protest for the free entry of containers of merchandise imported under the Tariff act of 1897. They were assessed for duty at the same ad valorem rates as their contents. This the board decides was erroneous, a reliquidation of the entries being ordered.

Stein, Simon & Co., and Arnstein, Simon & Co., San Francisco, attacked the validity of a reappraisement, which affirmed the action of the Appraiser in including an item of verification, in the dutiable value of merchandise. Judge Waite says that, as the protestants failed to appeal to a board of reappraisement, their protests have no standing before the board of classification.

The board denied free entry to rubber junk of various kinds imported by H. Meehlstein & Co., William Somerville's Sons, and J. V. Gurge & Co., New York. The Collector took a 10 per cent. duty as waste, whereas the importers claimed the merchandise fit only for remanufacture.

Sheathing felt for vessels was held exempt from duty. The customs men at Port Townsend returned the merchandise at 10 per cent. as roofing felt. The importers included R. E. Howard and the F. P. Dow Company.

Price of Wool Keeps Up.

LONDON, April 28.—There were 12,562 bales, principally crossbreds, offered at the opening of the third series of wool auction sales here to-day. Competition was active, including a demand for America. Merinos and fine crossbreds ranged from unchanged to 5 per cent. advance and other grades were firm and unchanged. The sales follow: Queensland, 800 bales; scoured, 1s. 4d@2s. 2d; greasy, 8d@1s. 3d; Victoria, 400 bales; scoured, 1s. 1½d@2s. 1d; greasy, 7d@1s. 2d; West Australia, 300 bales; greasy, 7½d@1s. 3d; Tasmania, 300 bales; greasy, 11d.@1s 4d; Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 200 bales; scoured, 1s 8d@2s ½d; greasy, 6½d.@1s, and Punta Arenas, 2,900 bales; greasy, 8½d@1s. 1½d.

Dentists Incorporate.

ALBANY, April 28.—The Allied Dental Council of Greater New York was incorporated to-day to advocate and further legislation beneficial to the public and to the dental profession among other objects. Maurice William Alexander Friedenberg and Maxwell S. Joffee, Brooklyn, and Jacob B. Schneer, Maurice S. Calman, and Morris Mestel of New York are the Directors.

SMALL INVESTORS HIT.

W. J. Dawes & Co., Inc., Distributors, in Bankruptcy Court.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the Federal District Court against W. J. Dawes & Co., Incorported, of 110 West Fortieth Street. This concern has been in business for the last few months as manufacturers, agents, and distributors, and was incorporated under the laws of Delaware on Dec. 10, 1913, with a capital stock of $500,000. Attention was attracted to it by the faith which many small investors placed in it as sure to earn very large dividends.

It invited investments of $160, $400, $1,600, or $4,000, and in return for these sums gave agencies covering a certain number of stores from which large returns were to be made by the sale of washing powder or starch.

The petition was filed by the United States Printing and Lithograph Company, a creditor for $408; the Standard Engraving Company for $137, and the Deverall Perfection Manufacturing Company for $391. The creditors allege that the company has made preferential payments of $388 to three other creditors.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rise Further on Stronger Hope of Peace in Mexico—The Steel Earnings.

A forward movement less hysterical than that of Monday, but for that very reason more convincing as an indication of increased confidence, carried prices further on their recovery yesterday. There were very few stocks which did not show some gain and in many the net advances amounted to two points or even more. This movement did not grow out of any surprise in the way of good news, but reflected rather a further readjustment of the market to the improvement which had come about in the Mexican situation. A peaceful solution of that problem was counted on a good deal more confidently yesterday than it had been the previous day. Reserve was still being shown in assuming that the difficulties in that country were about at an end, but it was clearly the belief in the financial district that the progress already made made it reasonable to hope that a way would be found to work out the problem along the new lines which have been laid down. In this increased hopefulness regarding Mexican affairs lay the chief explanation of the very satisfactory strength which the market showed on an increased volume of trading.

Just as all other matters were obscured for a time by the Mexican crisis, so with the readjustment of the stock market to the new Mexican situation it may be assumed that other factors will begin to exert effect upon the day-to-day movement of prices. Yesterday's budget of news other than that affecting the Mexican situation included some that was highly favorable and some that was unfavorable. Bearing as it did on a matter of fundamental importance, the weekly weather report showing satisfactory conditions throughout the principal corn and Winter wheat States was excellent news. The inferences drawn from the course of the argument before the Interstate Commerce Commission in respect to the proposed rate increase were also hopeful, for they served to strengthen the hope that relief will be granted to the railways. The category of favorable developments included also a bettering of the bond market, although this had not yet gone to any great length. Here was another reflection of the improved Mexican situation, for it was the crisis caused by the seizure of Vera Cruz by our naval forces that put a sudden check upon the demand for investment securities.

The quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation was much talked of yesterday, but it was not until after the close, as usual, that the figures were made public. The statement was bad, but no worse than had been expected. The Steel Corporation barely more than earned its preferred stock dividend for the quarter and practically the entire payment on the common stock had to be charged to previous surplus. No month of the quarter, however, showed as poor results as did December last year, and each month of the quarter was better than the one which went before. Trade reports have indicated that since the end of March conditions have declined instead of improved further, but the progress made from the close of December to the close of March was satisfactory considering the conditions under which the corporation had to work. If as rapid progress as is now hoped for is made in the rate case, with an outcome favorable to the railroads, it is possible that before the present quarter runs its course railroad buying of iron and steel will be considerably stimulated.

This market was on the verge of gold exports yesterday, but a decline in sterling here after a new high level had been reached caused the abandonment of plans for at least one shipment to Paris. Our bankers have come to feel that there is nothing in the Mexican situation which need deter their sending gold abroad at this time. It is still possible that a shipment will be made, although demand sterling which sold yesterday as high as 4.87¾ was later offered for Saturday at 4.87½. Buying of stocks here for London account in reversal of the heavy movement in the opposition direction which was under way last week contributed to the reaction in exchange. This and other factors offset the effect of the further rise in discount rates at London, which furnished one of the chief explanations of the rise in exchange here to a point at which gold exports were imminent. The 2⅜ per cent. spot rate quoted yesterday compared with a flat 2 per cent. on April 15 and with 1 11-16 per cent. on April 1. This is a much larger advance than any which has taken place here, where money, despite the slightly higher rates lately quoted on time loans, is still very abundant.

A Wide Price Difference.

The market for Michigan Central supplies an extreme example of what may happen to quotations for an inactive stock which is traded in both on the Stock Exchange and over the counter. For months at a time the quotation on the board stands at an offered price of 190 with no bid in sight. Occasionally there is a slight change from this figure, but the shares soon go back to 190 again. This was the quotation a broker found yesterday when a customer asked about Michigan Central, and he was somewhat surprised when the customer took up the April quotation list of The Financial Chronicle and showed Michigan Central at 135 bid, offered at 140. Few transactions, either on the Exchange or outside, have been reported in this stock in late years, as all but $1,918,600 of the company's total of $18,738,000 is held in the treasury of the New York Central. The last sale on the Exchange was of an odd lot in January, 1913, at 170.

Climbing for Tobacco Shares.

Investors and traders with short stock to cover have been forced to bid upward with small regard for fractions to get American Tobacco this week. Sales of 200 shares brought a net advance of nearly 5 points on Monday, and the better feeling in yesterday's market was reflected in this issue by a further rise of 8 points.

The first sale of Panama 3s on the Stock Exchange since the Street was led, by developments in Mexico, to conjecture about a possible addition to the supply of these bonds, was at a recession of ¼ of a point from the last previous transaction. A block of $5,000 changed hands yesterday at 100¾.

The Reading Co. in March.

The surplus earned by the Reading Companies in March was again smaller than for the corresponding month of the preceding year, but the loss was very small. The railway had gross revenues of $3,934,000, or within $64,000 of last year's gross, but its net earnings decreased $209,000. The coal department did better than for the third month of last year. Its receipts increased $705,000 and its net earnings $152,000. For the nine months to date the company is lagging far behind its last year's record. Gross earnings of the railway have been $2,271,000 less and earnings of the coal company $7,560,000 less. The surplus above fixed charges at the end of the period was only $6,156,000, as against $13,009,000 last year, a decrease of more than 50 per cent.

Somebody Selling Mo. P.

The decline in Missouri Pacific, from any angle but one, is mysterious. The property is undoubtedly in better shape physically than for years past, its earnings have responded quickly to the slightest improvement in general business, the crop outlook in its territory is excellent, and officials of the company say that arrangements are being perfected to take care of the $25,000,000 in notes maturing next month. In the face of such conditions why any large holder of the stock should want to sell is hard to understand unless it be assumed that the seller is anxious to see the price depressed. The Directors of Missouri Pacific met yesterday afternoon for a discussion of routine business. Afterward it was stated that the proposed extension of the maturing notes at 6 per cent. was being worked out with great care, and that an announcement of the terms would be ready next week. Just prior to the meeting the stock sold down to 16¼, which is the lowest figure touched in fourteen years.

Default by the St. Louis & San Francisco on its May 1 interest coupons will put it in the power of the general lien bondholders to ask for the sale of the property at foreclosure to satisfy their claims. Such a sale might wipe out all securities junior to the general lien bonds, but interests close to the company were of the opinion yesterday that the foreclosure would not be petitioned for by the bondholders. The receivers are getting better results from the property than the management obtained in recent months, and the only hope of raising the $40,000,000 needed to rehabilitate the road seems to lie in an agreement among the bond and stockholders by which an assessment can be collected.

Sub-Treasury Pays Banks $13,000,000.

About $13,000,000 was paid out yesterday through the Sub-Treasury for the account of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, just reopened. After the bank was closed last Summer the Controller of the Currency accumulated in the Treasury Department the proceeds of such of its assets as were liquidated. Most of the money was transferred yesterday to New York banks that had been designated as reserve agents for the Pittsburgh bank.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

LONDON, April 28.—The stock market opened quietly irregular to-day, with only the Mexican and American sections showing any improvement. British shares suffered from forced liquidation, but this ceased at midday and a sharp rise occurred on bear covering and fresh buying. Consols advanced three-eighths, home rails, oil shares and the Paris favorites followed the advance, and the market closed steady with consols slightly below the best.

American securities opened steady and advanced on fair buying during the early trading. At noon Canadian Pacific was 2½ points higher and gains elsewhere ranged from ¼ to ⅝. The improvement was held until the late trading, when the market reacted and closed irregular.

Money and discount rates were dearer. The $5,000,000 new gold offered in the open market was taken chiefly for the Continent at 77s 9¼d per ounce, a reduction of ⅜d.

PARIS, April 28.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, April 28.—The Boerse was weak and lower to-day on unfavorable European bourse reports and the fall in Canadian Pacific in New York yesterday.

Canadian Pacific closed four points lower.

EMPLOYERS' INSURANCE.

State Department Has a Standard Form of Policy.

The State Insurance Department has prepared a standard form of policy to be issued by stock companies for workmen's compensation insurance, and has submitted it to the insurance companies and the general public, inviting criticism and suggestions. The policy form covers employers' liability for compensation and medical benefits required under the workmen's compensation law; it also covers the employer's liability for negligence claims that may be brought against him by injured workmen or their dependents.

The policy will be issued at uniform manual rates approved by the department, subject to adjustment to be made at the end of the policy term upon the last merit rating inspection report made within six months after the issue of the policy. Such inspection report will take into account the physical and moral hazard of each manufacturing plant. The rate adjustment will date back to the original date of the policy.

The policy contains the standard provisions required by the New York Compensation act. An injured workman or his dependent may recover directly from the insurance company. As between the employe and the company, notice to the employer has the same effect as notice to the company. The insolvency of the employer does not relieve the company from the obligation to pay compensation. The policy may be canceled upon ten days' notice, given in accordance with the requirements of the workmen's compensation law. The cancellation of the policy will not affect claims that have arisen while the policy was in force. The company will be required to meet all payments under such claims.

If the Compensation act is declared invalid or unconstitutional, the premium will be readjusted in an equitable manner, subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Insurance. The policy may be renewed at the end of twelve months by the issuance of a renewal certificate upon the payment of the premium. Executive officers are included in the payroll at a sum not exceeding $1,200 per annum for each officer.

The department is also preparing a standard form of indorsement to be attached to employers' liability policies terminating subsequent to June 30; also a standard form of policy to be issued by mutual companies authorized to transact workmen's compensation insurance.

PATERSON BANKS PROTEST.

PATERSON, N. J., April 28.—Local bankers have entered a formal protest against the action of the Federal Reserve Organization Committee in placing this city in the Philadelphia reserve district. At a meeting of the Directors of the local banks the following resolution was passed:

> Resolved, That the associated banks of the City of Paterson, N. J., with approximate assets of $50,000,000, enter a formal but respectful protest against being included in the geographical limits of the reserve bank to be located in Philadelphia, Penn., and respectfully but urgently petition that the northern part of New Jersey shall be included within the geographical limits of the reserve bank to be located in New York City. The enforced classification of Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, Paterson, and Passaic, N. J., with the Philadelphia reserve bank will work an irreparable injury to the commercial, financial, and industrial interests of the cities located within the counties of Hudson, Essex, and Passaic, N. J. We beg to submit that the present geographical limits of the Philadelphia reserve bank contravenes, so far as northern New Jersey is concerned, with the spirit and intent of the Reserve Bank act.

The bankers have appealed to United States Senator William Hughes and to the Congressmen from this district to correct the injustice, and have asked the merchants and manufacturers to support them.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Farson, Son & Co. have been awarded $38,000 Rensselaer 4½ per cent. improvement bonds and $20,000 Coshocton, Ohio, 4½ per cent. school bonds.

Interest maturing May 1 on first mortgage bond certificates of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway will be paid at maturity at the Guaranty Trust Company.

On surrender of each bond trust certificates issued by the Central Trust Company for Galveston, Houston & Henderson first mortgage bonds the trust company will deliver a bond and $4.17 in cash.

The Engineering Securities Corporation has elected two new Vice Presidents, Felix T. Hughes, former manager of the bond department of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, and Henry P. Du Bois, formerly with J. G. White & Co.

Colton, Fales & Co. will dissolve May 1 by mutual consent. Haliburton Fales will become a member of the firm of Hartshorne & Picabia, at 64 Wall Street. W. R. Colton will continue as a member of the Stock Exchange and will make his offices with the same firm.

N. Y. CENTRAL MORTGAGE

To Cover Issue of Bonds for Refunding and Improvement.

TROY, N. Y., April 28.—Following the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in reporting to the Senate in favor of the proposed consolidation of the New York Central with the Lake Shore system, there was filed with the County Clerk to-day a refunding and improvement mortgage given by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company to the Guardian Trust Company of New York as Trustee. The mortgage, though not filed till now, is of date of Oct. 1, 1913, and the bonds issued under it are to run to Oct. 1, 2013.

The mortgage covers all property of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, in this and other States, embracing the subsidiary lines. It is subject to a prior mortgage given to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York and covers what is known as consolidated mortgage bonds under date of June 20, 1913. The bonds to be issued under the refunding and improvement mortgage may not, by the terms of the obligation, exceed $500,000,000 and are to cover every obligation.

SUE BANK DIRECTORS.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 28.—Damage suits for sums aggregating $390,000, brought by Norris S. Lippitt and Fred P. Holt, bank commissioners and receivers of the Windsor Locks Savings Bank, against Directors of that institution went on trial in the Superior Court to-day.

The suits are based on allegations that the Directors were repsonsible for acts of the Treasurer, A. W. Converse, who in 1912 died of a pistol wound self-inflicted. The bank was closed owing to shortages in the Treasurer's accounts extending over a period of thirty years.

Interest in the trial is found in the effort of the State to fix responsibility of Directors for administration of a bank.

STANDARD OIL OF KANSAS

A Refining Company

The recent reductions in crude oil prices should prove a great benefit to this company.

CALL TO ORGANIZE STATE LAND BANK

Conference of Savings and Loan Associations to be Held in Albany on May 8.

WILL LEND ON FARM LANDS

Basis of Operations to be Somewhat Like That of the Federal Reserve Banks.

Savings and loan associations in this city have received invitations to a conference to be held in Albany on May 8 to formulate plans for the organization of the Land Bank of the State of New York, authorized by the new banking law. The main purpose of the Land Bank is to facilitate loans on farm lands, although it applies also to mortgages on city property.

The law permits its organization by ten or more savings and loan associations having sufficient capital, and upon its establishment it will have power to sell bonds, constituting its own obligation, for the purposes of any of the member associations. An association desiring to obtain funds in this way will deposit with the State Controller mortgages held by itself as security.

The law has never empowered savings and loan associations to issue their own bonds, but by the plan adopted the bonds will be backed practically by the credit of all the associations joining, and they are expected to have a ready market. The bonds will be sold by the Land Bank, and the proceeds turned over to the association applying for them, which will thus increase its funds available for investment in additional mortgages.

The theory on which the Land Bank is to be organized is based somewhat on the same idea as the creation of Federal reserve banks, by which their reserves are to be combined for the benefit of all. The intention is to give to the savings and loan associations an opportunity to finance by co-operative methods the land mortgages of every section of the State.

The Land Bank is to be composed entirely of savings and loan associations and its officers and Directors are to be named by the associations and elected by their representatives. While the national banks were compelled to join the Federal reserve system or give up their charters, membership in the Land Bank is optional with the associations, with the perpetual right in each to become a member.

The right to issue bonds is given jointly to the Land Bank and the associations. The association supplies the mortgages and receives the proceeds of the sale, while bonds may be sold only through the medium of the Land Bank. Every bond issued through the Land Bank will be guaranteed by the association which receives the proceeds. For every $1,000 worth of mortgages deposited with the State Controller $800 of bonds may be issued, and for each $20,000 of outstanding bonds the member association is required to subscribe and pay $1,000 to the capital of the Land Bank.

"After the organization of the Land Bank," E. F. Howell, Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the State League of the Savings and Loan Associations, said yesterday, "our business will continue to be practically confined to installment mortgages. We now have among our resources millions of dollars worth of mortgages securing debts that have been so reduced by the continual payment of the installments that the debts are but from 5 to 30 per cent. of the value of the security. When these facts are brought to the attention of the investing public through the medium of a great banking institution created by the State the soundness of our economic position will be abundantly plain and we shall be able to finance these propositions at the lowest investment rates prevailing in the money market."

The conference to be held next week was called by Walter Scott of Oneonta, President of the State League. It will be attended by Acting Superintendent of Banks George I. Skinner, the Commissioner of Agriculture, and possibly Gov. Glynn, who has been an ardent champion of the Land Bank plan.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Active trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange accompanied the advance in prices. Besides the more peaceful aspect of the Mexican situation as a result of the outlook for mediation, talk of a probable early rate decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission helped to stimulate buying on a large scale. The market as a whole threw off the influence of a very sharp break in Missouri Pacific, which touched a new low record price of 16¼, 2⅞ points under its closing price on Monday. Nearly 4,000 shares of Missouri Pacific changed hands. Prices in the 9:30 o'clock opening call generally reflected advances compared with Monday's closing figures. Colorado Fuel was an exception, being down ½ a point.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between JOSEPH M. CATHCART and JOHN W. KISSELL, both of the City of New York, State of New York, under the firm name of CATHCART & KISSELL, at 43 West 34th Street, New York City, was dissolved on the 7th day of April, 1914.

Dated New York, April 7th, 1914.
JOHN W. KISSELL.

National Car Wheel Company, 6% First Mortgage 20-Year Gold Bonds.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee under the First Mortgage of National Car Wheel Company, dated September 22, 1903, hereby invites proposals for the sale to it of sufficient six per centum First Mortgage Twenty-year Gold Bonds above mentioned, at not exceeding 110% of the principal amount of said bonds, to exhaust as nearly as may be the sum of $105,000, now held by it under the sinking fund provisions of such mortgage. Proposals must be delivered to the Trustee at its office, 16 Wall Street, New York City, by 3 P. M. May 11th, 1914, and each proposal should state the date (not later than September 1, 1914,) when the bonds included therein will be presented for purchase, should such proposal be accepted. Should no date be so stated, the Trustee will assume bonds are offered for delivery by 3 P. M. on May 15th, 1914, and, if accepted, will be deliverable to the Trustee on such date, when interest thereon will cease.

In the event of the receipt of two or more proposals for such sale, at the same rate, such rate being low enough to warrant acceptance by the Trustee, such proposals will be accepted in pro rata proportions, provided that no purchase will be made at a rate exceeding 110% of the principal amount of said bonds, and that the Trustee reserves the right to reject any or all proposals in whole or in part if it can at the time of opening said proposals purchase the requisite amount of said bonds, or any part thereof, at a lower price than the lowest price offered by said proposals.

S. O. OF N. Y.'S BIG EARNINGS

The Standard Oil Company of New York has sent out the first annual report ever issued to shareholders, which shows net earnings in the calendar year of 1913 of $16,212,915. This was equivalent to 21.6 per cent. on the capital stock outstanding. In other years the only statements made public were balance sheets, and deductions drawn from that for 1912 placed net income in the neighborhood of $15,000,000. The company paid out in dividends $900,000, leaving a surplus for the year of $15,312,915.

During the fiscal year the capital stock was increased from $15,000,000 to $75,000,000 by the distribution to shareholders of a 400 per cent. stock dividend. In the balance sheet real estate, machinery and ships were grouped together as of the aggregate value of $40,314,371. Total assets amounted to $106,425,165.

HUERTA'S MAN CHOSEN.

Directors of the National Railways of Mexico living in New York met yesterday to confirm the appointment of Santiago Mendez to be executive Vice President of the company. Mr. Mendez is in Mexico City, where he has been consulting engineer to the railroad for several years. His selection was made at the suggestion of Gen. Huerta, who thought that there should be an acting head of the system during President E. N. Brown's stay in the United States.

President Brown is still in this city awaiting the termination of the blockade at Vera Cruz and the resumption of steamship service to that port.

Tell Why They Quit Frisco Board.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—Thomas H. West, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Union Trust Company, and Albert T. Perkins, an officer of that company, said to-day that they resigned from the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad directorate, not because of litigation between the trust company and the railroad, as was implied in the dispatch announcing their resignation, but because they desired to avoid all possibility of criticism in view of the fact that there are several matters to adjust between the two companies. No litigation is pending between the Frisco and the St. Louis Union Trust Company, but certain officials of the trust company have been sued as individuals by the Frisco receivers.

Authorize Wabash Interest Payment

Judge Hough in the Federal District Court yesterday authorized Edward B. Pryor, as receiver of the Wabash Railroad Company, to pay on May 1 the semi-annual interest, amounting to $847,500, on the $33,900,000 outstanding first mortgage bonds of the company. To make partial provision for this Mr. Pryor was authorized to issue receiver's certificates to the value of $691,000, bearing interest at 6 per cent. These are to have an equal lien with the certificates issued under an order made on July 24 last on all locomotives, cars and other railroad property.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The European visible supply showed a decrease for the week of 4,282,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 4,000,000 last year, while Bradstreet's world's visible decreased 11,732,000, against a decrease of 16,370,000 bushels a year ago. THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Western disturbance of Monday night has moved to Wisconsin with more definite formation, with a strong high area to the northward. This has caused moderate northerly gales over Lake Superior and Northern Lake Michigan, with low temperatures, heavy rains, and some snow, warning of which was given Monday and Monday night.

Rains also continued over the remainder of the upper lake region, the Central Valleys, and the Gulf States, although they did not extend further eastward. Another disturbance in the Southwest is causing showers in Utah, Colorado, and Arizona. Low temperatures continue throughout the West generally.

There will be rain or snow Wednesday in the upper lake region, and showers from the Upper Ohio Valley eastward, reaching New England Wednesday night and continuing Thursday. The Southwest disturbance will be attended by rain Wednesday in that section, extending Wednesday night and Thursday into the Plains States and probably the Lower Missouri Valley. In the Northwest and extreme West the weather will be mostly fair Wednesday and Thursday.

It will be warmer Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States, and colder Thursday in New England and the north portion of the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate south, becoming variable by Thursday; Middle Atlantic Coast, gentle to moderate, mostly south, becoming variable by Thursday; South Atlantic Coast, gentle, mostly south, except east of the South Florida coast.

FORECASTS: TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania—Increasing cloudiness Wednesday; warmer in southeast portion; showers at night or Thursday; cooler Thursday; gentle to moderate south winds.

Southern New England—Cloudy Wednesday. Thursday, showers; cooler in west portion; moderate south to southwest winds, becoming variable Thursday.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy and warmer Wednesday; showers at night or Thursday in north portion; partly cloudy in south; cooler Thursday; gentle to moderate south winds, becoming variable Thursday.

Western New York—Showers and cooler Wednesday. Thursday, partly cloudy and cooler; moderate shifting winds.

Northern New England—Showers Wednesday and probably Thursday; cooler; moderate shifting winds, mostly north.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

EDUCATION NOTES.

The fourth general meeting for 1913-14 of the High School Teachers' Association of New York City will be held on Saturday in the High School of Commerce. The department meetings will begin at 10 A. M. The general meeting will begin at 11:15 A. M. in the school's auditorium. The reports of officers and Chairmen of committees will be received, and an election of officers for 1914-15 will take place.

In the fifth annual contests in French given by the Association des Professeurs Francais the high schools of New York again made a creditable showing in comparison with the other great high schools of the country. No school this year succeeded in accomplishing the feat attained by De Witt Clinton in last year's contest, winning eight out of a possible sixteen prizes, a record that will probably stand for some time. In the contests in composition, De Witt Clinton, as last year, won both first place and second place with its entrants, David Gross and Philip Cheitman, thus taking second place in the ranking to the English High School of Boston, which received premier honors because its success was greatest in proportion to the number of entries. Besides the De Witt Clinton School, the other high schools of New York to win places were the Hunter, Townsend Harris Hall, Morris, Wadleigh, and Bushwick.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE, BUREAU FOR THE COLLECTION OF TAXES, NO. 57 CHAMBERS ST., BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN, NEW YORK, April 1, 1914.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE Assessment Rolls of Real Estate and personal property in The City of New York for the year 1914 have been delivered to the undersigned and that all taxes on said Assessment Rolls are due and payable as follows:

All taxes on personal property and one-half of all taxes on real estate are due and payable on and the remaining and final one-half of taxes on real estate shall be due and payable on Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914.

All taxes become liens on the real estate affected thereby on the respective days when they become due and payable as hereinbefore provided, and shall remain such liens until paid.

The second half of the tax on real estate, which is due as hereinbefore provided on the second day of November, may be paid on the first day of May or at any time thereafter, providing the first half shall have been paid or shall be paid at the same time, and on such payments of the second half as may be made in such manner prior to November 1st, a discount shall be allowed from the date of payment to November 1st, at the rate of four per centum per annum.

NO DISCOUNT IS ALLOWED ON PERSONAL TAX BILLS.

Borough of The Bronx, 177th St. and Arthur Ave.
Borough of Brooklyn, Municipal Building.
Borough of Richmond, Borough Hall, St. George.

FRED H. E. EBSTEIN, Receiver of Taxes.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Interest in the realty market yesterday centred in the sale of 130 lots comprising the Hennessy estate, adjoining the grounds of the New York University. The entire offering brought $284,400, or an average of slightly over $2,122 per lot. In the opinion of Joseph P. Day, the auctioneer; J. Clarence Davies, who is an expert on the value of Bronx property, and other realty men, the prices obtained were much below the market value of lots in the vicinity.

The sale was held in the Vesey Street salesroom, and, despite the depressed condition of the market, it drew a good number of prospective bidders, about 500 being in the room when the sale began, soon after 11 o'clock. Mr. Day and Mr. Davies, who conducted the sale for the executors, Michael Coleman, Forbes J. Hennessy, and Mrs. Ellen M. Parker, for the estate of Ellen M. Hennessy, said at the close:

"It was remarkable that, despite the war situation in Mexico, an auction of 134 high-class lots could be held and every plot sold, although, it must be admitted, the prices were not equal to the actual selling price of lots in the neighborhood. It showed, however, that many investors have not lost their faith in the stability of New York City property, and at the prices paid most of the buyers are sure to reap good profits in the near future."

The property is well situated, and the neighborhood has been highly improved with some of the finest private residences in the Bronx. John F. Kaiser was the largest individual buyer. One of his purchases included the block front on Burnside Avenue, between Loring Place and Andrews Avenue, for $19,400, and for this plot it was reported that he declined a profit of $5,000 before the close of the sale. Several buyers of single lots also declined profits.

The highest price obtained for a single parcel was $11,000, paid by Robert F. Parker for the gore lot bounded by Burnside Avenue, University Avenue, and 179th Street. For the small gore lot opposite, containing but 458 square feet, $1,300 was paid by Nicholas Botsacks.

Twelve lots on the west side of Loring Place brought from $1,500 to $1,775 each, and the abutting twelve lots on Hennessy Place averaged from $800 to $1,025 each. The plot of three lots at the southwest corner of 179th Street and Loring Place was bought by Dr. James J. Edmondson for $6,000.

Riker R. James paid $1,700 for the southeast corner of 179th Street and Hennessy Place. The adjoining lot on the street was secured by Gabriel McCarabee for $1,425. Other buyers included R. J. Parker, T. J. Brennan, Peter McDermot, John J. McDonough, Marshall Hollister, Mary A. Dorer, John Younker, C. W. Bennett, Jr., J. J. Karby O'Kennedy, and Gustave Langenus.

The block front on the south side of 179th Street, between Osborne and Hennessy Places, brought a total of $14,890. The corner of Osborne Place, 26 by 100, was knocked down to Robert L. Odom on a bid of $3,125. The adjoining lots averaged from $1,800 to $1,925 and the corner of Hennessy Place brought $2,400.

As a site for a five-story tenement the Filrose Construction Company has purchased from Charles M. Rosenthal a plot 86 by 103 on the west side of Haven Avenue, 75 feet north of 171st Street.

The new structure will contain thirty apartments and cost about $80,000.

Recent Buyers.

E. W. Browning, owner of the World's Tower Building on West Fortieth Street, and not R. H. Gatling, as reported yesterday, is the buyer of the two Seventy-second Street dwellings recently sold. The houses are 118 West, a four-story house, on lot 25 by 102.2, sold by the Morris Loeb estate, and 43 West, a four-story house, on lot 25 by 102.2.

Bronx Sales.

An investor has purchased from the Agency Realty and Mortgage Company the northwest corner of Belmont Avenue and 186th Street, Bronx, a five-story tenement, with stores, on plot 50 by 87.6. The property was sold for all cash above the first mortgage. John R. and Oscar L. Foley were the brokers in the transaction.

Leon G. Losere has sold to Dr. C. E. O'Grady the house on the east side of St. Lawrence Avenue, 181 feet south of Walker Avenue, for B. R. Buckingham.

D. Thomas Costar has sold 581 Union Avenue a two-family frame dwelling. The buyer gave in part payment a vacant plot 100 by 104 on the westerly side of Castle Hill Avenue 500 feet north of Starling Avenue.

Long Island.

In the Ridgewood section the G. X. Matthews Company has sold to Margaret Suydam a three-family brick house for $11,300, also to W. F. Schreiber 1,863 and 1,865 Putnam Avenue for $22,600.

$75,000 Deal at Briarcliff.

Mr. Hawk held the property at $75,000.

Astor Estate Loft Leased.

The eleven-story mercantile building at 3, 5 and 7 West Thirty-fifth Street has been leased by Nelson and Lee, to the First Leaseholding Company of Albany, for the balance of the first 21-year term of the lease between The Brunswick Realty Company, and the Astor estate, at a rental averaging $50,000 per annum.

The structure was leased in 1912 from the Astor estate to the Brunswick Realty Company. The Brunswick Realty Company erected the present building on this site and have leases with Best & Co., The Exchange Buffet and I. Schlivek & Co.

Big Lease in New Rogers Peet Building.

Horace S. Ely & Co., signed a lease of the entire Fifth Avenue section of the second story of the new Rogers Peet building at Fifth Avenue and Forty-first Street, a frontage of 73 feet on Fifth Avenue and 166 feet on Forty-first Street. The name of the tenant, who is represented by Pease & Elliman, was not divulged.

The building will be ready for occupancy January 1, 1915 and this lease dates from February 1, 1915. Notwithstanding the fact that the work of demolishing the old building has just begun, over 30,000 square feet of space has been rented from the plans.

Leases.

Pease & Elliman have leased temporarily for Edward D. Harris, as receiver, to a client, the large corner store and basement at the northeast corner of Broadway and Chambers Street; also for a term of years to Harry Goldstein for Augusta Larned, the store and basement at 52 Vesey Street. William H. Whiting & Co. were associated as brokers.

C. F. W. Johanning has leased for Abraham J. Hoffman to Abraham Porter the store premises, 2,656 Eighth Aveune, for a term of five years.

The Nehring Company has leased for the Curb Realty Company to a client, 510 West 135th Street, a six-story apartment house, for a period of five years.

William H. Whiting & Co. have leased the store and basement at 22 Beekman Street, to the Progressive Lunch Company; the store and basement at 10 and 12 Vandewater Street to the American News Company; the store of 7 Dutch Street, to the Standard Hollow Ware Company, and the store at 52 Vesey Street to H. Goldstein.

Ames & Co. have leased for Pastoria Chase the store 857 and 859 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, to W. L. Douglas Shoe Company, for a long term.

Edward J. Hogan has leased in the Woolworth Building, to the Canadian Pacific Railroad, space on the fifteenth floor; to the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, space on the fourteenth floor; the south wing of the nineteenth floor to Earle Scott and J. Ward Follett, and space on other floors to William Denison Morgan, P. G. Pickman & Brothers, Inc., the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, the Eagle Smelting and Refining Company, Joseph Joseph & Brothers Company, to Nestle's Food Company, the Peroline Company of America, Moss, Laimbeer, Marcus & Wels, Rooney & Beha, and the Shredded Wheat Company.

Eugene J. Busher has leased for the J. & M. Haffen Brewing Company the three-story brick building at 2,858 Third Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of 149th Street, to the Hanover Lunch Company, for ten years from May 1, 1914, at a net rental of $65,000.

George A. Bowman has leased for Peter Delacy to the Standard Typewriter Company, the store and basement in the new building at 141 West Forty-second Street.

Mrs W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Leases Country Estate.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has leased through Pease & Elliman the country estate of Mrs. J. B. Taylor at Jericho, L. I. The property consists of about 110 acres of beautifully parked land, a spacious brick mansion, and numerous outhouses. In the immediate vicinity are the estates of Middleton S. Burrill, Ralph N. Ellis, Joseph S. Stevens, and others. The lease is for one year, and the rent asked was $18,000.

Country Dwellings Leased.

John F. Scott has rented for Elizabeth S. Cheever her house known as the Tabor House, in Wave Crest, Far Rockaway, to Paul Phipps.

The Randall property at Darien, Conn., has been leased to Mrs. Helen R. Watkins by Fish & Marvin.

The Hollander estate on the Grange at Scarsdale, N. Y., has been rented through Fish & Marvin to E. M. Leventritt of this city.

Fish & Marvin, in conjunction with Ewing, Bacon & Henry, have rented the Lohman residence at Bronxville, N. Y., to John E. Mudgett of this city.

Payson McL. Merrill Company, Incorporated, leased for the Summer for Mrs. Robert A. Peet her property on the Neck Road at Lyme, Conn., consisting of dwelling house, garage, and about twenty-five acres of land, to J. Howland Gardner, Vice President of the New England Steamship Company.

Hughes & Whitby have leased for W. S. Pate to Miss A. E. Cameron of Blauvelt, N. Y., his residence, consisting of thirteen rooms, with two acres of ground, situated on the corner of Douglas Road and Washington Avenue, Montclair.

To Lay Equitable Cornerstone To-day.

The cornerstone of the new Equitable Building on Broadway, between Pine and Cedar Streets, will be laid by Mayor Mitchel at noon to-day. A luncheon for the 150 invited guests, given by Gen. T. Coleman du Pont, will follow at the Whitehall Club.

Among the speakers will be Mayor Mitchel, Gov. Miller of Maryland, Gen. du Pont, President McAneny of the Board of Aldermen, Borough President Marks, Henry Curren, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen; John B. Munger, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and Louis J. Horowitz, President of the Thompson-Starrett Company.

Real Estate Notes.

Fish & Marvin have been appointed agents by the Briarcliff Realty Company for its real estate holdings, comprising over four thousand acres, in and near Briarcliff Manor, Westchester County. I. C. Hotaling, formerly of the Briarcliff Realty Company, will be associated with Fish & Marvin in charge of Hudson River and Northern Westchester County properties.

Julius Tischman & Sons have moved their office from 299 Broadway to 18 East Forty-first Street.

L. Davis has placed a mortgage of $89,000 on the six-story tenement, with stores, on the northeast corner of Third Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, 50 by 105, for the Third Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street Realty Company.

It is reported that William A. White & Sons have placed a mortgage of $500,000 on a Fifth Avenue corner, near Forty-sixth Street.

AT A SPECIAL TERM OF THE SUPREME Court of the State of New York, Part I. thereof, held in and for the County of New York at the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, on the 17th day of April, 1914. Present, HON. VERNON M. DAVIS, Justice.—In the matter of the Application of THE STRATFORD PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU, INC., for leave to change its name to STRATFORD ADVERTISING AGENCY, INC.

On reading and filing the petition of The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., a domestic corporation, duly verified by its Secretary, Landon Humphreys, on the 26th day of March, 1914, wherein said Petitioner prays for an order authorizing it to assume another corporate name, to wit:—the name Stratford Advertising Agency, Inc., and the resolution of the Directors of said Company authorizing this application, and upon reading and filing the certificate of the Secretary of State of New York, annexed to said petition, certifying that the name which said corporation proposes to assume is not the name of any other domestic corporation or a name which he deemed so entirely resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, and upon filing due proof by affidavit showing that the notice of the presentation of the said petition has been duly published for three successive weeks in the New York Law Journal and the Morning Telegraph, which papers are published and circulated in the County of New York, in which County the said The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., has its principal office, and the Court being satisfied by said petition and by the affidavits and certificates presented therewith that the petition is true, and that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed, and that the petition has been duly authorized and that a notice of the presentation of the petition, as required by law, has been made,

Now, on motion of Hardy, Stancliffe & Whitaker, attorneys for the said Petitioner, no one opposing, it is Ordered, that the said petition be and the same hereby is granted and that the Petitioner herein, The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., be and it hereby is authorized to assume another corporate name, to wit:—the name Stratford Advertising Agency, Inc., on and after the 25th day of May, 1914; and it is

Further ordered and directed that this order be entered and the papers upon which it is granted be filed within ten days after the date hereof in the Office of the Clerk of the County of New York, the County in which the certificate of incorporation of said Company is filed, and that a certified copy of this order within ten days after the entry thereof be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State, and it is Further ordered, that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in The New York Times, a newspaper published in the County of New York, said publication beginning within ten days after the entry hereof. Enter, V. M. D., J. S. C.

FRANK'S LAWYERS AMEND THEIR PLEA

HIS CASE NOT INJURED

Detective Burns Says Defense Is Complete — Frank, in Statement, Assails Police.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28.—The defense in the case of Leo M. Frank to-day washed its hands of the Rev. C. B. Ragsdale, the Baptist minister, and R. L. Barber, a member of Ragsdale's Church, who made affidavits that they overheard a negro identified as Jim Conley confess that he murdered Mary Phagan, and who were said to have repudiated the affidavits.

Attorneys Reuben R. Arnold and Luther Rosser, counsel for Frank, obtained from Judge Ben Hill an order striking from the extraordinary motion for a new trial the amendment setting up the Ragsdale affidavit as a part of the grounds for a new hearing. Frank's attorneys took this action when they learned Ragsdale had made an affidavit for Solicitor Dorsey, in which he repudiated the affidavit made for the defense. The Solicitor says, however, that he will insist on "showing up the entire transaction." Solicitor Dorsey refuses to make public Ragsdale's repudiating affidavit.

Ragsdale, it is said, swore the "confession" affidavit was a deliberate "frame-up," and made charges of bribery involving several hundred dollars.

Judge Hill in allowing the motion to strike out the Ragsdale and Barber affidavit ordered that the original affidavits of the two men be made a part of the court record in the case. This action presumably was taken by the court as a basis for perjury charges. It is said that when the hearing of the extraordinary motion in the Frank case, which will be resumed on Friday, is completed the Grand Jury will begin an investigation of the whole case, looking into all charges and counter charges of the perjury and subornation of perjury.

Messrs. Rosser and Arnold seemed greatly surprised at Ragsdale's repudiation of his "confession" affidavit, and insisted that both Ragsdale and Barber volunteered their evidence for the defense. Ragsdale and Barber said in their affidavits that they had heard a negro confess that he murdered a girl in the pencil factory. Barber even identified Jim Conley as being the negro. They brought their stories to Frank's lawyers, and presented character indorsements from prominent men, Dr. John E. White and Dr. J. M. Pierce, testifying to the straightforwardness of Ragsdale, and George E. Knott indorsing the reliability of Barber.

Frank's Lawyers Indignant.

"We are after only the truth in this matter," said Attorney Arnold. "We won't stand for false evidence if we know it, and for this reason we obtained the order to strike the Ragsdale matter from the extraordinary motion. When a man will swear in an affidavit to a certain statement of facts, or supposed facts, and then turn around and repudiate what he said under oath, I don't think the court or any fair-minded man would want to consider him in the case at all. That is why we wish to wipe from the record all reference to Ragsdale. He made this affidavit of his own volition and was recommended to us as a man of truthfulness and honor. If he swore falsely, he alone must bear the responsibility. We want nothing to do with him.

"Since the State set the example for lying by placing Jim Conley on the stand it seems that all of the liars in Georgia are trying to break into this case."

Detective William J. Burns was not disturbed by the Ragsdale episode. He said the preacher's repudiation of his affidavit would have no bearing on the hearing nor any other evidence in the hands of the defense.

"We have evidence enough right now to convict Jim Conley of the murder of Mary Phagan without any confession from the negro," he said. Frank's attorneys issued the following signed statement:

On Thursday, April 23, 1914, there appeared at the office of L. Z. Rosser, in the Grant Building, two men who professed to have important information in reference to the Frank trial. One of these represented himself to be a preacher and the other a former member of his flock.

These two men were unknown to either of us. Neither of us had ever seen or heard of them before. L. Z. Rosser took the affidavits of these men. He put them to the test of the most thorough cross-examination of which he was capable. There was no effort to lead them, to add to or color their story. On the contrary, they were given to understand clearly that Frank's counsel wanted only the truth, and in taking their affidavits we were seeking nothing beyond just what they knew and knew accurately.

The affidavits were prepared in their presence, almost their very words being taken by a competent and honest stenographer. After the affidavits had been typewritten they were carefully read to each of the witnesses and sworn to before a disinterested notary public.

Neither one of us dreamed that they were acting corruptly, but believed that they were acting from pure motives, to correct the wrong of their former silence.

Gave High References.

They were asked to give the names of their friends and associates, as the law required. They gave promptly some of the most correct and upright men in the city of Atlanta. Some of these men were promptly seen in an effort to determine whether the men were what they seemed and represented themselves to be. The result was in keeping with their claims. Some of the best men in Atlanta vouched for them, and we felt justified in presenting their story to the court.

It has come to our ears this evening that both these men now recant, and claim they framed up their story. If these rumors be true, we denounce the perfidy of these men with all the vehemence of our natures. In this Frank case we have never wanted anything but the truth; have never made use of anything but what was believed to be the truth. We have believed, and now profoundly believe, in Frank's innocence, but even that conviction has never induced us to say one word that the whole City of Atlanta could not hear, nor to do anything that the whole State of Georgia could not see.

If these rumors are true, we will at once cut these perjured witnesses out of this case, just as we have in the past, and just as we will in the future every fact and circumstance that even squints at unfairness or perjury.

In proof that we did not act even credulously and inadvisably in this matter, we submit copies of affidavits of men who vouch for the character of these men.

LEONARD HAAS,
REUBEN R. ARNOLD.

Having announced that he was amply prepared to combat the amendment to the motion for a new trial by Frank's attorneys, Solicitor Dorsey, in all probability will go before Judge Ben Hill to-morrow and ask the court to reopen the hearing on Thursday morning—a day earlier than previously agreed upon.

Frank Issues Statement.

To the People of Atlanta:

The City of Atlanta has grown to its present greatness and must depend for its future growth upon young men like myself who, reared in other places, but hearing of the greatness of Atlanta, come here to cast their fortunes with its people.

When six years ago I left my former home in Brooklyn, where I was raised, to come to Atlanta to help build up a new enterprise that would increase its prosperity and give employment to many people, I accepted the opportunity gladly and came without any foreboding of evil.

I supposed that so long as I lived a decent, upright life, and did my duty that no harm would come to me anywhere. I did not suppose that there was a place in the United States where a man could not get fair play. Suddenly, like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky, this terrible calamity came upon me. I was at work on a Saturday afternoon in my office where I had a right to be, where it was my duty to be, when a young girl was foully murdered in the same building. As to how she was killed or who killed her, I knew not more than a man ten thousand miles away.

I was arrested and put on trial, or rather what was called a trial. The minds of the people, already infuriated by the brutality of the crime, were driven to madness by the whispered word that I was a pervert and a degenerate of the foulest type. I became an object of detestation and loathing. The whole city, except a few faithful friends, turned away from me in disgust and abhorrence. People said: "Even if he is not guilty of the murder, he ought to be hanged." Under such circumstances it was impossible for me to get a fair trial.

No Chance for His Life.

As one of the lawyers expressed it, I had as much chance for my life as a canary bird in a basket of cats. No wonder that the judge of the court certified that he feared for my life and the lives of my attorneys should the jury acquit me. No wonder one of the jury was moved to tell a friend that if they had freed me not one of the jury would have left the courthouse alive.

And now, here at the last hour, comes Newport A. Lanford, head of the detective department, after Mr. Burns had cornered him, and serenely announces that the charge of perversion never entered into the case; that neither the State nor the Police Department ever claimed, or did now claim, that I was a pervert, and that the charge was injected into the case by my own lawyers.

Evidently he considers the people of Atlanta an aggregation of asses. But was there ever such effrontery? After using this charge in every way conceivable to railroad me through to the gallows, after the solicitor had made it the chief subject of his nine-hour speech, after the Supreme Court has affirmed the verdict principally on that ground, he now says it did not enter into the case. I say it was the whole case.

It is deeply significant that simultaneously with the withdrawal of the charge of perversion against me Mr. Burns has come into absolute proof through letters written in Conley's own hand that he is a vile degenerate and practiser of unnatural crimes which the law of this State punishes by life imprisonment in its penitentiary. These letters are in his possession, and are open to the inspection of any men in Atlanta who want to look at them. Is it possible that I am to be hanged on the word of a creature like this? Is it possible that my life of decency is to weigh as nothing? Is it possible that this city has in it so little of the spirit of fair play?

Am I not stating the truth when I say that the withdrawal by Chief Lanford of the charge against me of perversion puts my case in a new and entirely different light? Is it not a circumstance that should appeal most powerfully to the courts in my application for a new trial? Is there a man in Atlanta who would deny that the charge of perversion was the chief cause of my conviction, or deny that the case, without that charge, would be an entirely different question?

LEO M. FRANK.

ASSAILS GOV. FIELDER.

TRENTON, N. J., April 28.—"I have no reply to make," said Gov. Fielder to-day in discussing a letter sent to him by James Baker of Jersey City, a former Democratic Assemblyman from Hudson County.

The letter, received to-day, contained a scathing attack on the Governor, particularly in connection with his attitude in the recent scandals at the State Home for Girls here. Among other things, Baker, who was a member of the ousted Board of Trustees of the institution, charged Fielder with ingratitude, saying that the Governor, fearful lest such action would endanger his chance of election, asked Mrs. Elizabeth V. R. Mansell, the matron, not to resign last Fall.

Mr. Baker plainly intimated that the Governor resorted to plagiarism a few years ago in nominating A. M. Henry for Mayor of Jersey City, saying he used Martin Littleton's speech nominating Alton B. Parker.

"My only comment," said Gov. Fielder, "is that I have again been deceived by a man who, pretending to be my friend, was secretly my enemy."

RESCUES AT HIS OWN RISK.

Montclair Chief Warned of Fire College Hazards.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 28.—Fire Chief John Kenlon, of New York, in a letter to Mayor Ernest C. Hinck, informs that official that the corporate City of New York will not be responsible for physical safety of Fire Chief Frederick E. Williams, of the Montclair department while he is attending the "fire college" in New York. Mayor Hinck has served notice on Chief Williams that if he wants to do any fancy "rescue stunts" while in New York, he will do so at his own risk.

Chief Williams has a six weeks vacation to spend in the "fire college." The Montclair authorities expect that he will acquire such proficiency as to make the Montclair department the best of any in the suburban district.

THIRD PERJURER IN WHITMAN'S GRASP

BURWELL HIS CONFEDERATE

Another confession bearing on the eleventh-hour attempt to stay the execution of the four slayers of Herman Rosenthal was brought to this city early this morning. The latest of the men to confess to the plot to save the gunmen is Louis Capadonno, a chum of William E. Burwell, "The St. Louis Kid," who confessed to his part in the scheme yesterday.

Capadonno was brought down from New Haven by Assistant District Attorney Frederick J. Groehl and Detective Thomas Maxwell after the New Haven police had caught him in one of his old haunts. He made a statement to the New Haven police, and also to Mr. Groehl, and will tell the whole story again when he is brought before District Attorney Whitman this morning. He will probably be kept under police surveillance until after the second Becker trial.

According to the story which he told in New Haven, Capadonno met Burwell in a Poughkeepsie poolroom three days before the four gunmen were to be executed. In the poolroom the two concocted a scheme whereby they might save the gunmen and win much money for themselves. Capadonno said Burwell did most of the planning, but that he concurred with him in everything. Capadonno said that it was planned that Burwell should take the witness stand and perjure himself and that they should share the proceeds.

Capadonno told the police that he and Burwell communicated with Attorney Charles G. F. Wahle after they had concocted their story, and that Mr. Wahle asked them to come to his office. A rabbi in Poughkeepsie, he said, paid the railroad fare to New York. Capadonno said Burwell told the manufactured story to Mr. Wahle. There was no intimation that Burwell had been coached in his story.

"We expected to get a lot of money out of it," said Capdonno in his confession, "but we got only $20. We disappeared after the death of the gunmen and expected to remain in seclusion, but were found by the New Haven police."

Martin T. Manton, attorney for ex-Lieut. Charles Becker, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday asked Justice Seabury to investigate stories appearing in the newspapers, which, he said, tended to injure his client's case by creating "atmosphere" unfavorable to him. He referred, of course, to the details of the Burwell confession. Mr. Manton left no doubt that his protest was leveled at District Attorney Whitman.

Justice Seabury refused to take the initiative in ordering an investigation, and suggested that the lawyer file formal affidavits stating his grievances. Mr. Manton intimated that he would carry his protest to Gov. Glynn.

Mr. Manton was in court because of District Attorney Whitman's application for a special panel of jurors for the Becker case, which is on the docket for May 6. There was no objection to this motion, and it was granted. Then Mr. Manton, addressing the court, said:

"Certain articles are appearing in the public press, particularly this morning, charging this defendant with purchasing testimony or having that insinuation. They also have other false statements. One of the articles purports to be a quoted interview from the District Attorney. Since these stories are false, and since this defendant has been tried before and it has been said by the Court of Appeals that he has not had a fair and impartial trial, I say that this thing should be called to the court's attention on the eve of the second trial for such action as the court deems proper."

To this Justice Seabury replied:

"I cannot see that the decision of the Court of Appeals has any reference at all to the subject matter of your request. As far as the request itself is concerned, what do you suggest?"

"The gentlemen of the press, I know," said Mr. Manton, "are too honorable to print this unless it has been given to them as it appears here, as a purported interview."

"I cannot assume that the District Attorney of the county has made a statement to the public press which is not true," interjected Justice Seabury, "and in the absence of some proof I certainly should not indulge any such assumption."

"Assuming that it were true," continued Mr. Manton, "this contains insinuation and innuendo and was given out on the eve of the trial, and I submit it to the court as a proper matter for investigation so this defendant now appearing for a second trial will not have the unfair trial the Court of Appeals said he had before. This apparently is given for the purpose of having talesmen who might come here for the purpose of being examined read it. It is wrong that they should have this matter before them if it is not the truth."

The Justice again reminded the lawyer that the Court of Appeals decision in the first Becker case had nothing to do with the present case. He told the lawyer that he would consider his suggestion of an investigation provided he were confronted with something "concrete." Mr. Manton still persisted that the court should order the investigation of its own accord. He cited precedents in which courts so acted. But Justice Seabury would not budge from his position, and suggested that Mr. Manton draw up the affidavits.

"Of course there is another remedy," said the lawyer, but without mentioning what the remedy was.

"I think that is the better way," answered Justice Seabury. "I do not think it is good practice for the court to take judicial notice of articles in the public press without proof of their falsity or proof of the fact that they relate to the matter beore it."

District Attorney Whitman looked on, but said nothing when Mr. Manton took his seat. The latter when seen in the corridors outside of the courtroom explained that he intended taking his grievance to the Governor if necessary. He protested against statements to the effect that the defense was not prepared to go on with its case. It was the District Attorney, he said, who was not ready. Becker, he said, would be a free man on Decoration Day.

"Will Becker take the witness stand in his own behalf?" Mr. Manton was asked.

"That depends on developments," he replied. "If the District Attorney puts in the same evidence as he did at the first trial we may not put in any defense at all, for the Court of Appeals said that the principal witnesses of the State were not worthy of belief."

The stories to which Mr. Manton objected as prejudicial to his client's case included the confession of Burwell made in Mr. Whitman's apartment at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Burwell said he was promised $1,000 to testify for the four gunmen in their application for a new trial two days before they were executed. Burwell swore that he saw Harry Vallon shoot Herman Rosenthal. In his confession he repudiated all of his testimony. Mr. Manton, obviously, objected to an alleged insinuation that it was Becker or his agents who purchased perjured testimony.

Mr. Whitman would not discuss Mr. Manton's remarks. Nor would he comment on Burwell's case. Burwell remained under police surveillance yesterday, but was not technically under arrest. The first of the perjurers to be apprehended, Karl Dresner, is locked up in the Tombs.

"Nothing Venture, Nothing Gain"
Purposely Misquoted

HUNDREDS of New York men who are usually considered hard to fit come to Wallach Stores and—their gain is too great to express in one word.

Here it is,—

First of all they gain in money, for these Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes of ours at $18, $20, $25, $28 and $30, which are made to fit the hard-to-fit, are equal in every quality way to the garments most shops price at from $5 to $10 more.

There is a time gain too—for we can fit most any man quickly and easily and without annoying "try-ons".
